Clinton could be hard to beat if she runs in 2016

Raleigh, N.C. – If Hillary Clinton decides to run for President in 2016, PPP's latest poll finds that she would be extremely difficult to beat in the Democratic primary and in the general election.

Clinton's favorability among Democratic primary voters is +64, and she would clear the primary field easily with 57% support in a nine-way match-up against other potential contenders. If Clinton opted not to run, Joe Biden would be next in line with 73/22 favorability and 16% support to be the Democratic candidate for President in 2016.

Chris Christie would be Clinton's most threatening opponent in a general election. He trails her by only two points (42/44) in a head-to-head contest, and his overall favorability (+28) is higher than Clinton's (+15). But she would trounce Jeb Bush, Marco Rubio and Paul Ryan by double-digit margins. Christie is more competitive against Clinton primarily because he is ahead of her by 18 points (47/29) among independents.

"As expected, Hillary Clinton would be the ideal Democratic presidential candidate in 2016," said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. "But if Chris Christie could win the GOP nomination, he'd be a formidable general election candidate."

If neither Clinton nor Biden gets in the race, the frontrunners for the Democratic nomination would then be Andrew Cuomo (19%) and Elizabeth Warren (16%).

The GOP field is nearly wide open, but Rubio appears to be the early favorite of Republican primary voters with 21% support. But Paul Ryan (16%), Mike Huckabee (15%), Jeb Bush (14%) and Chris Christie (14%) are all pretty close behind Rubio.

The biggest problem for most of these politicians—especially many of the potential Democratic candidates—is their lack of name recognition among voters nationally. The big exception is Rick Perry, who has an abysmal -28 overall approval rating, 19/52.

PPP surveyed 1,100 American voters, including 400 usual Democratic primary voters and 563 Republican primary voters, from January 3rd to 6th. The margin of error for the overall sample is +/-3.0%, +/-4.9% for the Democratic portion, and +/-4.1% for the GOP portion. This poll was not paid for or authorized by any campaign or political organization. PPP surveys are conducted through automated telephone interviews.
