Air quality, transportation, climate change, and green jobs are all deeply connected to the health of Latino communities. Join members of the Latino Legislative caucus in an event sponsored by Physicians for Social Responsibility-Los Angeles and Communities for a Better Environment. Hear from top experts on the most pressing environmental health issues affecting our health, and what can be done to solve them. The Healthy Future Symposium will connect local elected officials, and community leaders to share their perspectives and concerns on health, air pollution, clean transportation, and green economic development. Join us in setting a course for cleaner air and healthier communities. This event is free and open to the public. Spanish translation will be available, and breakfast will be included.
