

William O. Hillburg
Senior Advisor-Director of Communications

William O. Hillburg joined the Office of Inspector General in 2003 following a 30-year career in print journalism. From 1999-2003 he covered Congress, the White House and Federal agencies as Washington Bureau Chief for the Los Angeles Newspaper Group, a chain of Southern California daily newspapers that includes the Los Angeles Daily News, Long Beach Press-Telegram, Pasadena Star-News and San Bernardino Sun.

Hillburg grew up in Cambridge, on Maryland's Eastern Shore, and is a graduate of Lawrence University in Appleton, WI. He also did graduate work at Florida State University. He began his newspaper career, which included stints as a managing editor, special projects editor, news editor, reporter and columnist, with the Pioneer Press Newspapers in suburban Chicago.

He and his wife, Myra, who teaches German in the Fairfax County Public Schools, live in Arlington, VA.
