

5th BIENNIAL
FOREIGN ANIMAL DISEASES TRAINING COURSE
MADISON, WISCONSIN, AUGUST 3rd – 8th, 2008

The University of Wisconsin-Madison School of Veterinary Medicine, together with the USDA, will host its 5th Biennial Foreign Animal Diseases Training Course (FAD2008) on August 3rd - 8th, 2008. Building upon our successful meetings in 1999, 2001, 2003, and 2006, we will once again bring together experts from around the world to provide in-depth presentations and discussions on the recognition, diagnosis and control of foreign animal diseases that threaten our livestock industries.

Please mark your calendars and include FAD2008 in your plans and budgets for continuing education in 2008. More information and registration materials can be obtained at the meeting website - www.vetmed.wisc.edu/pbs/courses/FAD2008; or, contact the meeting organizers by email at FAD2008@svm.vetmed.wisc.edu.
