

Rhode Island Resources for Service Members Returning from Deployment

Below is information about reintegration resources in Rhode Island for those returning from deployment and their families.

Rhode Island Blueprint and Design Team

Community members in Rhode Island have gathered together to provide stronger support for veterans and their families. Many resources and services are available but there was little communication between these services. This community project has brought together a coalition that works to provide awareness programs and communication between services.

Goal:

Develop a multi-pronged community effort that creates awareness programs and coordinates efforts with governmental and private services that provides services to returning veterans and their families.

- Identified needs and challenges
- Mapping of the systems and resources available
- Develop ongoing community support system
- For information see brochure about initial meeting
