

“Compassionate Americans want to help not for our own benefit, but because we believe that every human life has value.”

- First Lady Laura Bush, July 25, 2007

PEPFAR Issue Brief Series

PEPFAR.gov now features a new series of issue briefs on critical interventions of the U.S. President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (Emergency Plan/PEPFAR). Each brief provides an overview of the intervention area, examples of PEPFAR-supported work, information about results, and lists of key resources on the topic.

The heart of the Emergency Plan is to work shoulder to shoulder with host nations in support of the national strategies of each country. Courageous people in nations devastated by HIV/AIDS are saving the lives of their countrymen and women. The American people, through the Emergency Plan, have provided resources and support for communities around the world to meet the challenge of this pandemic. These partnerships are having a global impact and transforming the face of our world today.

PEPFAR at Work

- Prevention of Mother-to-Child Transmission
- Blood Safety
- Medical Injection Safety
- Adult Treatment
- Pediatric Treatment and Care
- Palliative Care
- HIV Counseling and Testing
- Orphans and Vulnerable Children
- Gender
- Public-Private Partnerships
- International Cooperation
- Working with Faith-Based and Community-Based Organizations
- Meaningful Involvement of People Living with HIV/AIDS
- Strengthening Supply Chain Systems
- Human Capacity Development
- Monitoring and Evaluation
- Surveillance and Surveys
- Health Management Information System
- Building Laboratory Capacity
- Tuberculosis and HIV/AIDS
- Prevention of Sexual Transmission for People Engaged in High-Risk Activity
- Prevention Programs for Youth
- Prevention of Sexual Transmission in the General Population

Check it Out

To learn more about the critical interventions and the striking results achieved in the fight against HIV/AIDS through the power of partnerships between the American people and the people of the world, please visit:

www.PEPFAR.gov/press/c19614.htm

