

Some may wonder why I chose wildflowers when there are hunger and unemployment and the big bomb in the world. Well I for one think we will survive and hope that along the way we can keep alive our experience with the flowering earth. For the bounty of the deep needs of man ment and the best in the world. Well, I for one, think we'll with the flowering of the need

My passion for the CAUSE, the one that alerts my interest and questions the pace of life, to preserve the wildflowers and native plants that define the regions of our land, to ensure that our children use in appropriate areas, and thus, help pass on to generations in waiting the joys and satisfactions I have known since my childhood.
