

In 2006, employment within 15 selected residential housing-related industries totaled 2,659,467, representing 35 percent of the 7,602,148 total private-sector jobs in construction.

🔨 With more than 620,000 jobs, new single-family housing construction had the largest number of workers in 2006 among residential housing-related industries.

🔨 New housing operative builders gained 75.8 percent in employment, the largest percentage increase from 2001–2006.

A photograph of a house under construction. The house has a wooden frame and is surrounded by construction materials. In the foreground, there is a large red sign with the word "SOLD" in white, jagged letters. The background shows a clear blue sky and some trees.

SOLD

CHART 18 Average annual employment in 2006 and percentage change in employment from 2001–2006

Selected residential housing-related industries

