

You "C .A .N ." volunteer and help the U.S. Coast Guard save lives and property, prevent oil spills and protect wildlife, all from the comfort of your own home.

This vital program enlists the assistance of residents, who live near navigable waterways, to assist the Coast Guard with their missions.

The Coast Guard will call on the Citizen's Action Network to help investigate cases such as flare sightings or mayday calls in their area, which puts volunteers right in the heart of the action. The only requirements to becoming a life-saver are that volunteers must have access to a phone and a marine view from their home.

The Northwest has an extensive amount of waterways and communities to protect, and the U.S. Coast Guard needs dependable and proactive volunteers to aid in keeping our waters safe and clean.
