Weather spotters serve as the eyes of the National Weather Service, helping to warn their community so people can protect themselves. This class will prepare individuals to serve as SKYWARN™ weather spotters. Through a combination of lecture and audiovisual aids, students will learn how to recognize certain dangerous weather conditions, such as an impending thunderstorm, damaging winds, heavy snow, or even conditions that could generate a tornado. Correct reporting procedures to officials will also be detailed.

If you are planning to attend this spotter training session, please register by mail to assure your space in class. Class capacity is 50, so sign up early! We look forward to seeing you at this or other SKYWARN™ Weather Spotter training sessions so we can start receiving your hazardous weather reports.
