07-543 AT&T CORP. V. HULTEEN

DECISION BELOW:498 F3d 4001

LOWER COURT CASE NUMBER: 04-16087

QUESTIONS PRESENTED:

Before the passage of the Pregnancy Discrimination Act of 1978 (PDA), it was lawful to award less service credit for pregnancy leaves than for other temporary disability leaves. Gilbert v. Gen. Elec. Co., 429 U.S. 125 (1976). Accordingly, the questions presented are

- 1. Whether an employer engages in a current violation of Title VII when, in making post-PDA eligibility determinations for pension and other benefits, the employer fails to restore service credit that female employees lost when they took pregnancy leaves under lawful pre-PDA leave policies.
- 2. Whether the Ninth Circuit's finding of a current violation of Title VII in such circumstances gives impermissible retroactive effect to the PDA.
