Oregon's Timber Harvests: 1849-2004

Preface

There is over 150 years of history in the wood products industry in Oregon, beginning with the first known sawmill built west of the Mississippi River in 1827 near Fort Vancouver. Settlers in the area saw the forests as a hindrance at first, wishing to clear-cut the land for agriculture and having little use for timber. However, in 1849 wealthy farmers began to build homes of sawed lumber instead of residing in log cabins, and the lumber industry took off. By 1900, the lumber industry assumed a major role in the state's economy.

However, since there was no organized forest prevention authority at the time, forest fires ravaged the land uncontrollably, damaging millions of acres of forest. The State Forestry Department, along with a new Board of Forestry and a State Forester, was created in 1911 in an effort to minimize the problem.

In the late 1920s to early 1930s, along with the Great Depression came a sharp lumber market crisis that hurt the timber industry in many counties across the state. Consequently, "lumber markets were tight and demanding, and many timberland owners' financial structure was wrecked."<sup>1</sup>

The advent of World War II in December of 1941 generated foreign and domestic demand for wood products. In the 1950s, the increasing demand for timber and high tree values started the new trend of harvesting second growth timber, making tree farming a booming industry. In 1961, more than "one-fifth of the nation's sawtimber supply was in Oregon forests, [supplying] about one-fourth of the softwood lumber, half of the plywood and more than one-fourth of the hardboard produced in the United States."<sup>1</sup>

The 1980s brought a new problem to Oregon's timber-based economy. Inflation and interest rates were extremely high, halting home construction, and fierce competition from Canadian timber companies dropped stumpage prices levels down to unprofitable levels. Today, despite reduced harvests, Oregon still remains the leader in lumber production in the United States.<sup>2</sup>

This publication documents timber harvesting in Oregon. It consists of a series of tables and graphs compiling available timber harvest data for the State of Oregon and its counties. Where timber harvest data were not available, related lumber and log production data were substituted as an approximation of what was harvested. The early lumber production (prior to 1930) is estimated to be quite similar to log scale volume data of the same era.

Lumber production data is tabulated for the years 1849-1924. Log/timber production data is tabulated for the years 1925-2004. The Oregon Department of Forestry (ODF) began compiling timber harvest data for the state in 1942. Starting in 1953, data were collected by county for three ownership groups. In 1962, county-level data were collected for the seven ownership groups now used.

The three ownership groups for 1942 through 1961 were:

USFS – United States Forest Service, National Forests

Native American – Native American Lands

Private and State Combined – All ownerships except above.

The seven ownership groups for 1962 to present:

USFS– No changes from above

Native American – No changes from above

BLM – Bureau of Land Management

State – Oregon state agencies

Other Public – County, city, and miscellaneous non-state agencies

Industry – Corporations, Partnerships, and Unincorporated businesses

NIP – Non-Industrial Private harvests have included individual ownerships, Estates, Trusts, School Districts and Western Oregon Small Tract Option Tax Program lands.

Ownership classifications in this document differ from the previous publication, History of Oregon's Timber Harvests and/or Lumber Production, compiled by Bob Bourhill, in that Private harvests have been separated into Industry and NIP beginning in 1962. Bourhill kept the data combined under Other Private until 1977.

Data Sources: 1953 through 1972 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and M.B.F. Volume Removed-State of Oregon, Including Hazard Status of Certain Cutover Lands” reports by ODF.

Footnotes: Excludes volumes removed for poles, piling, and wood-cutting operations. 1953 through 1961, Private and State Combined includes all ownerships except USFS and Native American. Native American volumes were added to ODF data. Native American volumes were from “Log Production in Oregon” and “Timber Harvest by Ownership in State of Oregon” by USFS Division of Forest Economics Research.

Data Sources: 1973 through 1976 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and MBF Volume Removed-State of Oregon” reports by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations except for 1973 which excludes poles, piling, and wood-cutting.

Data Sources: 1977 through 2004 data from “Oregon Timber Harvest Reports” by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations. USFS Per-Acre-Material (PAM) volumes included for 1982 through 1986. USFS PAM volumes excluded for 1987 through 2004.

Data Sources: 1953 through 1972 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and M.B.F. Volume Removed-State of Oregon, Including Hazard Status of Certain Cutover Lands” reports by ODF.

Footnotes: Excludes volumes removed for poles, piling, and wood-cutting operations. 1953 through 1961, Private and State Combined includes all ownerships except USFS and Native American.

Data Sources: 1973 through 1976 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and MBF Volume Removed-State of Oregon” reports by ODF. 1973 NIP volume was added to ODF data from data supplied by Hood River County.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations except for 1973 which excludes poles, piling, and wood-cutting.

Data Sources: 1977 through 2004 data from “Oregon Timber Harvest Reports” by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations. USFS Per-Acre-Material (PAM) volumes included for 1982 through 1986. USFS PAM volumes excluded for 1987 through 2004.

Data Sources: 1953 through 1972 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and M.B.F. Volume Removed-State of Oregon, Including Hazard Status of Certain Cutover Lands” reports by ODF.

Footnotes: Excludes volumes removed for poles, piling, and wood-cutting operations. 1953 through 1961, Private and State Combined includes all ownerships except USFS and Native American. Native American volumes were added to ODF data. Native American volumes were from “Log Production in Oregon” and “Timber Harvest by Ownership in State of Oregon” by USFS Division of Forest Economics Research.

Data Sources: 1973 through 1976 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and MBF Volume Removed-State of Oregon” reports by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations except for 1973 which excludes poles, piling, and wood-cutting.

Data Sources: 1977 through 2004 data from “Oregon Timber Harvest Reports” by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations. USFS Per-Acre-Material (PAM) volumes included for 1982 through 1986. USFS PAM volumes excluded for 1987 through 2004.

Data Sources: 1953 through 1972 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and M.B.F. Volume Removed-State of Oregon, Including Hazard Status of Certain Cutover Lands” reports by ODF.

Footnotes: Excludes volumes removed for poles, piling, and wood-cutting operations. 1953 through 1961, Private and State Combined includes all ownerships except USFS and Native American. Native American volumes were added to ODF data. Native American volumes were from “Log Production in Oregon” and “Timber Harvest by Ownership in State of Oregon” by USFS Division of Forest Economics Research.

Data Sources: 1973 through 1976 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and MBF Volume Removed-State of Oregon” reports by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations except for 1973 which excludes poles, piling, and wood-cutting.

Data Sources: 1977 through 2004 data from “Oregon Timber Harvest Reports” by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations. USFS Per-Acre-Material (PAM) volumes included for 1982 through 1986. USFS PAM volumes excluded for 1987 through 2004.

Data Sources: 1953 through 1972 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and M.B.F. Volume Removed-State of Oregon, Including Hazard Status of Certain Cutover Lands” reports by ODF.

Footnotes: Excludes volumes removed for poles, piling, and wood-cutting operations. 1953 through 1961, Private and State Combined includes all ownerships except USFS and Native American. Native American volumes were added to ODF data. Native American volumes were from “Log Production in Oregon” and “Timber Harvest by Ownership in State of Oregon” by USFS Division of Forest Economics Research.

Data Sources: 1973 through 1976 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and MBF Volume Removed-State of Oregon” reports by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations except for 1973 which excludes poles, piling, and wood-cutting.

Data Sources: 1977 through 2004 data from “Oregon Timber Harvest Reports” by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations. USFS Per-Acre-Material (PAM) volumes included for 1982 through 1986. USFS PAM volumes excluded for 1987 through 2004.

Data Sources: 1953 through 1972 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and M.B.F. Volume Removed-State of Oregon, Including Hazard Status of Certain Cutover Lands” reports by ODF.

Footnotes: Excludes volumes removed for poles, piling, and wood-cutting operations. 1953 through 1961, Private and State Combined includes all ownerships except USFS and Native American. Native American volumes were added to ODF data. Native American volumes were from “Log Production in Oregon” and “Timber Harvest by Ownership in State of Oregon” by USFS Division of Forest Economics Research.

Data Sources: 1973 through 1976 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and MBF Volume Removed-State of Oregon” reports by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations except for 1973 which excludes poles, piling, and wood-cutting.

Data Sources: 1977 through 2004 data from “Oregon Timber Harvest Reports” by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations. USFS Per-Acre-Material (PAM) volumes included for 1982 through 1986. USFS PAM volumes excluded for 1987 through 2004.

Native American volumes were added to ODF data. Native American volumes were from “Log Production in Oregon” and “Timber Harvest by Ownership in State of Oregon” by USFS Division of Forest Economics Research.

Data Sources: 1973 through 1976 data from “Approximate Acres Logged and MBF Volume Removed-State of Oregon” reports by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations except for 1973 which excludes poles, piling, and wood-cutting.

Data Sources: 1977 through 2004 data from “Oregon Timber Harvest Reports” by ODF.

Footnotes: Includes volumes removed for poles and pilings, but not wood-cutting operations. USFS Per-Acre-Material (PAM) volumes included for 1982 through 1986. USFS PAM volumes excluded for 1987 through 2004.
