The following is a transcription of a listing of logs of Coast Guard and Revenue Cutter Service logs. The time period this listing was made is unknown. Included in this transcription are the notations made by archivists in subsequent years. Currently there is no comprehensive listing of logs of Coast Guard manned vessels of World War II.

The U. S. Coast Guard does not maintain these logs. For further information about access or copies of logs should be addressed to www.archives.gov

INTRODUCTION (Original)

Over a period of several years, the United States Coast Guard has transferred to the custody of the Archivist of the United States all logbooks, abstracts of logs, and transcripts of logs of name vessels of the Coast Guard and its predecessors through December 1941 that have been in the possession of the Coast Guard Headquarters. From this accumulation, there has been assemble in the National Archives a single file of logs arranged alphabetically by name of vessel. This list describes in detail the records that make up this file.

The logbooks contain detailed data on the operations of individual vessels as well as daily entries concerning the weather, the courses sailed, members of the crew, and the activities in which the vessel was engaged. The abstracts and transcripts, although briefer in form and content, record general information about the weather and the principal operations on the vessel. They are, generally, condensations of the log and they have been used to fill gaps resulting from the absence of logbooks.

In this list the data pertaining to each ship is divided into four entries or columns. The first column contains the names of all known vessels of the Coast Guard and its predecessors. The second column indicates when each ship was in operation.

Whenever possible, the dates of operation have been obtained from the logs themselves; in the instances where the National Archives has no log record for an individual vessel or the record is incomplete, the dates of operation have been taken from Record of Movements, Vessels of the United States Coast Guard, 1790 - December 31, 1933. The absence of a second or terminal date in the second column indicates that the vessel was still in operation at the end of 1941.

The third column contains the dates between which the National Archives has a log record for an individual vessel. the word "none" in the third column indicates that the National Archives has no log record for the ship. In many instances within a date span in the third column there are gaps as shown in detail in the fourth column. The fourth column indicates the period or periods for which the National Archives has no log record. The word "none" in the last column indicates that the log record for the ship is complete; the word "all" indicates that the log record for the entire period of operation is missing.

This list was prepared in the Division of Treasury Department Archives, the National Archives, by Thorton W. Mitchell with the assistance of Arthur Dyer.
