MEMORANDUM FOR HEADS OF EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES

FROM: LINDA M. SPRINGER
DIRECTOR

Subject: Report on Senior Executive Service Pay for Performance for Fiscal Year 2005

This report reflects the second year of measuring the achievements of Federal executives in the Senior Executive Service under modernized performance management systems. Agencies have invested great effort in these new systems and are seeing results from a compensation system that is more performance sensitive. The data indicate that Federal agencies are taking seriously the requirement to develop rigorous appraisal systems and to make meaningful distinctions in performance ratings and pay. In this regard, reporting agencies shifted to appraisal systems with at least one level above fully successful and away from pass/fail systems. In addition, agencies approved differing amounts and numbers of awards, reflecting their diversity of mission, funding and accomplishment.

We expect the 2006 rating cycle to continue improvement in holding senior executives accountable for achieving results, and rating and rewarding them accordingly. Should you have questions about this report, please contact the Center for Leadership and Executive Resources Policy at 202-606-8046.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Senior Executive Service (SES) Pay for Performance Report Fiscal Year (FY) 2005

- This report reflects data on 6,834 career and non-career members of the Senior Executive Service. Of 6,410 rated, 5,906 are career members of the SES.
- Agencies continue to make steady progress in the second year of measuring executive achievement under modernized performance management systems. Chart 1 shows progress in the differentiation of pay among SES members since 2004 when agencies with certified SES appraisal systems were permitted to pay SES above Executive Schedule Level III.
- The first two tables show a decrease of 16 – 17 percent in those rated at the highest level, continuing a trend toward increased distinctions in ratings. Table 1 covers only career senior executives, while Table 2 includes non-career and limited term senior executives.
- Agencies are exercising more rigor in implementing pay for performance. Table 3 shows that all reporting agencies now use appraisal systems with at least one level above fully successful. It also demonstrates that SES compensation is performance sensitive since, on average, higher-rated executives received higher performance awards and salary adjustments.
- Table 4 shows that in FY 2005 salaries increased by 3.8 percent compared to 3.7 percent in FY 2004. Adjustment percents vary by agency due to differing strategies, funding levels, and rating patterns.
- The shift to pay for performance involves only modest increases in award amounts. Table 5 shows the average performance award increased from $13,734 in FY 2004 to $13,814 in FY 2005. Awards vary by agency based on factors such as compensation strategy, funding, and agency performance levels.
