ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

A Compelling Business Case

Registered Apprenticeship increases the education, skill, and experience levels of your employees. Your investment in building a strong workforce delivers a powerful economic boost to your company, your community, and to our nation.

Registered Apprenticeship offers:

- An excellent return on your training investment
- Proven strategies that prepare your workforce to compete effectively in the 21st century
- A systematic approach to providing ongoing education and training to your employees
- A methodology for implementing best business practices

For more information, contact your state or regional apprenticeship representative. We can provide you with expert support in program development and ongoing technical assistance.

For a listing of the contacts, visit: http://www.doleta.gov/atels_bat/contacts.asp

Registered Apprenticeship for Workforce Development

Registered Apprenticeship is a highly flexible training model combining on-the-job training and related classroom instruction in which paid employees receive technical and practical training in highly-skilled occupations. It offers a proven methodology that allows employers to establish the standards of proficiency expected of its professionals.

The time requirements and substance of an apprenticeship training program depend on the occupation. Apprentices work and learn under the direction of qualified personnel who are recognized in their profession. Once the apprentices are provided diverse and complex training that helps them become highly skilled in their chosen careers.
Gain an Excellent Return on Education and Training Investment

Almost 80% of jobs now require some postsecondary education and training. Over 62% of new jobs require on-the-job learning and experience. That approach, coupled with occupation-specific instruction, represents the defining principles of Registered Apprenticeship.

Implement Employment and Human Resource Development Practices That Drive Success

Employees gain:
- A proven process to imparting the knowledge and skills of experienced personnel to new employees
- Greater workforce competency and productivity
- Partnerships with certification and licensing agencies

Employees receive:
- On-the-job experience under the guidance of experienced and qualified personnel
- Occupation-specific education/technical instruction
- Training and certifications that meet industry/business standards
- Opportunities to receive education, develop skills, and gain experience that will assist them to advance in their careers

Maximize Your Workforce Potential

Registered Apprenticeship

Registered Apprenticeship is a proven strategy that combines on-the-job learning with classroom instruction. It is an excellent training model for quickly getting new employees up to speed and maximizing the skills of your current workforce.

There are many challenges: advancing technology, shifting consumer demands, evolving business practices, and changing demographics, such as large numbers of experienced employees approaching retirement.

Your response to these challenges is critical. Your bottom line depends on your ability to keep pace with these workforce dynamics. Position your company for success.

Employ an Effective Skills-Enhancement Solution

Registered Apprenticeship

Registered Apprenticeship is a proven strategy that combines on-the-job learning with classroom instruction. It is an excellent training model for quickly getting new employees up to speed and maximizing the skills of your current workforce.

More than 31,000 sponsors have implemented apprenticeship programs to meet their specific training needs. They employ some 480,000 apprentices committed to advancing the ideals and goals of their employer.

Sponsors include employers, associations, labor organizations, and labor-management organizations. Programs serve a diverse population that includes minorities, women, youth, persons with disabilities, and people who have been laid off from their jobs.

Almost 80% of jobs now require some postsecondary education and training. Over 62% of new jobs require on-the-job learning and experience. That approach, coupled with occupation-specific instruction, represents the defining principles of Registered Apprenticeship.

Incorporate Registered Apprenticeship to develop the human resources you need to compete. While on the job, your employees learn and gain valuable experience. By partnering with your local community colleges, vocational schools, and technical institutions, they acquire essential classroom instruction and an opportunity to earn college credit.
Employers gain:

- Proven process to improving the knowledge and skills of experienced personnel to new employees
- Greater workforce competency and productivity
- Partnership with certification and licensing agencies
- A valuable asset in the recruitment and selection of a highly qualified workforce

Employees receive:

- On-the-job learning under the guidance of experienced and qualified personnel
- Occupation-specific education/technical instruction
- Training and certification that meet industry/business standards
- Opportunities to receive education, develop skills, and gain experiences that will enable them to advance in their careers

Almost 80% of jobs now require some postsecondary education and training. Over 62% of new jobs require on-the-job learning and experience. That approach, coupled with occupation-specific instruction, represents the defining principles of Registered Apprenticeship.

Incorporate Registered Apprenticeship to develop the human resources you need to compete. While on the job, your employees learn and gain valuable experience. By partnering with your local community colleges, vocational schools, and technical institutions, they acquire essential classroom instruction and an opportunity to earn college credit.

Gain an Excellent Return on Education and Training Investment

Implement Employment and Human Resource Development Practices That Drive Success

Maximize Your Workforce Potential

Registered Apprenticeship

Employ an Effective Skills-Enhancement Solution

Registered Apprenticeship is a proven strategy that combines on-the-job learning with classroom instruction. It is an excellent training model for quickly getting new employees up to speed and maximizing the skills of your current workforce.

More than 31,000 sponsors have implemented apprenticeship programs to meet their specific training needs. They employ some 480,000 apprentices committed to advancing the ideals and goals of their employer.

Sponsors include employers, associations, labor organizations and labor-management organizations. Programs serve a diverse population that includes minorities, women, youth, persons with disabilities, and people who have been out of work for a long period.

Your response to these challenges is critical. Your bottom line depends on your ability to keep pace with these workforce dynamics. Position your company for success.

Three Key Linkages Shape Your Ability to Compete

- Economic development
- Employment
- Education

Employment

Registered Apprenticeship

Maximize Your Workforce Potential

There are many challenges: advancing technology, shifting consumer demands, evolving business practices, and changing demographics, such as large numbers of experienced employees approaching retirement.

Your response to these challenges is critical. Your bottom line depends on your ability to keep pace with these workforce dynamics. Position your company for success.

Develop a strategy that prepares your workforce for the challenges of the 21st century.

Employ an Effective Skills-Enhancement Solution

Registered Apprenticeship is a proven strategy that combines on-the-job learning with classroom instruction. It is an excellent training model for quickly getting new employees up to speed and maximizing the skills of your current workforce.

More than 31,000 sponsors have implemented apprenticeship programs to meet their specific training needs. They employ some 480,000 apprentices committed to advancing the ideals and goals of their employer.

Sponsors include employers, associations, labor organizations and labor-management organizations. Programs serve a diverse population that includes minorities, women, youth, persons with disabilities, and people who have been out of work for a long period.

Your response to these challenges is critical. Your bottom line depends on your ability to keep pace with these workforce dynamics. Position your company for success.

Develop a strategy that prepares your workforce for the challenges of the 21st century.

Implement Employment and Human Resource Development Practices That Drive Success

Gain an Excellent Return on Education and Training Investment

Almost 80% of jobs now require some postsecondary education and training. Over 62% of new jobs require on-the-job learning and experience. That approach, coupled with occupation-specific instruction, represents the defining principles of Registered Apprenticeship.

Incorporate Registered Apprenticeship to develop the human resources you need to compete. While on the job, your employees learn and gain valuable experience. By partnering with your local community colleges, vocational schools, and technical institutions, they acquire essential classroom instruction and an opportunity to earn college credit.

Gain an Excellent Return on Education and Training Investment

Almost 80% of jobs now require some postsecondary education and training. Over 62% of new jobs require on-the-job learning and experience. That approach, coupled with occupation-specific instruction, represents the defining principles of Registered Apprenticeship.

Incorporate Registered Apprenticeship to develop the human resources you need to compete. While on the job, your employees learn and gain valuable experience. By partnering with your local community colleges, vocational schools, and technical institutions, they acquire essential classroom instruction and an opportunity to earn college credit.

Gain an Excellent Return on Education and Training Investment

Almost 80% of jobs now require some postsecondary education and training. Over 62% of new jobs require on-the-job learning and experience. That approach, coupled with occupation-specific instruction, represents the defining principles of Registered Apprenticeship.

Incorporate Registered Apprenticeship to develop the human resources you need to compete. While on the job, your employees learn and gain valuable experience. By partnering with your local community colleges, vocational schools, and technical institutions, they acquire essential classroom instruction and an opportunity to earn college credit.
Employees gain:

- Professional training and advancement opportunities for new employees
- Greater workforce competency and productivity
- Partnership with certification and licensing agencies
- A valuable asset in the recruitment and retention of a highly qualified workforce

Employees receive:

- On-the-job learning guided by experienced and qualified personnel
- Occupation-specific education/technical instruction
- Training and certifications that meet industry/business standards
- Opportunities to receive education, develop skills, and gain experience that will enable them to advance in their careers

Gain an Excellent Return on Education and Training Investment

Almost 80% of jobs now require some postsecondary education and training. Over 62% of new jobs require on-the-job learning and experience. That approach, coupled with occupation-specific instruction, represents the defining principles of Registered Apprenticeship.

Incorporate Registered Apprenticeship to develop the human resources you need to compete. With the job, your employees learn and gain valuable experience. By partnering with your local community colleges, vocational schools, and technical institutions, they acquire essential classroom instruction and an opportunity to earn college credit.

Three Key Linkages Shape Your Ability to Compete
Registered Apprenticeship increases the education, skill, and experience levels of your employees. Your investment in building a strong workforce delivers a powerful economic boost to your company, your community, and to our nation.

Registered Apprenticeship offers:
- An excellent return on your training investment
- Proven strategies that prepare your workforce to compete effectively in the 21st century
- A systematic approach to providing ongoing education and training to your employees
- A methodology for implementing best business practices

For more information, contact your state or regional apprenticeship representative. Use our online searchable database to find the contact information for the registered apprenticeship program in your area.

For a listing of the contacts, visit: http://www.doleta.gov/atels_bat/contacts.asp
ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

A Compelling Business Case

Registered Apprenticeship increases the education, skill, and experience levels of your employees. Your investment in building a strong workforce delivers a powerful economic boost to your company, your community, and to our nation.

Registered Apprenticeship offers:

- An excellent return on your training investment
- Proven strategies that prepare your workforce to compete effectively in the 21st century
- A systematic approach to providing ongoing education and training to your employees
- A methodology for implementing best business practices

For more information, contact your state or regional apprenticeship representative, or visit our website for expert support in program development and ongoing technical assistance.

For a list of the contacts, visit: http://www.doleta.gov/atels_bat/contacts.asp

Registered Apprenticeship for Workforce Development

Registered Apprenticeship is a highly flexible training model combining on-the-job training and related classroom instruction in which paid employees receive technical and practical training in highly-skilled occupations. It offers a proven methodology that allows employers to establish the standards of proficiency required of its professionals.

The time requirements and substance of an apprenticeship training program depend on the occupation. Apprentices work and learn under the direction of qualified personnel who are experienced in their professional field. Over time, apprentices are provided diverse and complex training that helps them become highly skilled in their chosen careers.

For more information, contact your state or regional apprenticeship representative. We can provide you with expert support in program development and ongoing technical assistance.

For a listing of the contacts, visit: http://www.doleta.gov/atels_bat/contacts.asp