Introduction

This third edition of Small Farm Lending in the United States identifies the small farm lending of every reporting bank in each state. Small firms have found the Office of Advocacy's studies of the lending behavior of commercial banks useful for helping them identify "small-business-friendly" banks. Similar information is available in this report for small farmers seeking banks that will help them meet their credit needs. This listing of farm-friendly banks is a companion to Small Farm Lending by Bank Holding Companies, which covers the largest BHCs' small farm lending.

Small farm lending is defined here as commercial bank lending to farmers in amounts of less than $250,000. Information on lending in amounts of $1 million or less is also provided here for farmers that need larger loans, but it was assumed that a large share of these larger loans would go to large farms. Since the goal of this project is to understand what is happening to bank credit for the small farmer, the loan size of less than $250,000 was selected.

The Office of Advocacy's related studies on small business lending are of three types. The 1999 edition of Small Business Lending in the United States ranks 8,659 reporting commercial banks on their business lending in amounts under $1 million based on the banks' June 1999 "call reports" to federal banking regulators. Micro-Business-Friendly Banks in the United States identifies the micro-business-friendly lenders—banks with significant activity in loans of less than $100,000. The Bank

Holding Company Study provides national data for multi-state bank holding companies.<sup>1</sup>

This report extends further the analysis of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's study, Credit in Rural America, which covered aggregate data from the call reports and other data sources.<sup>2</sup> It concluded that "not all markets and market segments are well served" and there is a "lack of competition in some markets." It also goes beyond the analysis in the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City's Financing Rural America and Equity in Rural America, which point out the difficulties in meeting the needs of the rural economy.<sup>3</sup>

This study is designed to encourage more competition among banks for small farm customers and to help farmers locate banks that are interested in making small farm loans. The Office of Advocacy produces these reports in the belief that if small farms are more successful because more banks are competing to meet their credit needs, the small firms in their communities will also be more successful.

The 1999 Study

Small Farm Lending in the United States follows the format used in other Office of Advocacy banking studies. Banks are ranked on their small farm lending activity based on four criteria: (1) the ratio of small farm loans to total bank assets, (2) the ratio of small farm loans to total farm loans, (3) the dollar value of small farm loans, and (4) the number of small farm loans.

A bank's overall score is derived from its decile rankings in these four categories. Decile rankings range from 1 to 10. A ranking of 10 means the bank is in the top 10 percent of all banks in the state and a 1 means the bank is in the lowest 10 percent. The four decile rankings are summed and then multiplied by 2.5 so that the total maximum score is 100.

Among the features of this review of small farm lending are the following:

- The most small-farm-friendly banks are identified and listed in Table 1. Detailed scoring for all banks in each state are provided in Table 2.
- Data are provided on a state-by-state basis on the basis of the bank's headquarters—a format that is most relevant to those relying on local bank credit markets. The small-farm lending behavior of every reporting commercial bank in each state has been rank-ordered to help depositors and borrowers identify the small-farm-friendly banks in their respective states.
- Additional information is again provided in Tables D and 2 for two other loan sizes (micro-loans under $100,000 and larger small loans of under $1 million) to help users focus on their unique credit needs. Banks' total rankings for these two loan sizes are included in columns 10 and 11 of the state tables.

Overview of Small Farm Lending in 1999

Overall, small farm loans (<$250K) in U.S. banks decreased by 2.8 percent, from $50.3 billion in 1998 to $48.9 billion in 1999 (Table A). But all of this decrease came in loans of less than $100,000, which declined by 5.5 percent, while the loans of from $100,00 to $250,000 actually increased by 7 percent.

Total farm lending in U.S. banks increased by 1.0 percent, from $74.5 billion to $75.2 billion. And the value of large farm loans (those valued at more than $1 million) increased by 6.6 percent (from $15.5 billion to $16.5 billion).

The number of small farm loans declined even more than the dollar value, by 7.6 percent, from 1.59 million to 1.47 million. And again this decrease was all in the <$100,000 size category. Either the average new loan size is increasing or many older small loans have been paid off. The question arises: are small farmers receiving an adequate supply of credit?

The bank consolidation trend continues, with the steepest drop in the number of smallest banks. Declines also occurred in the $500 million to $1 billion asset range. (Table B).

What is happening to small farm credit in light of the continuing merger and acquisition trend? The dollar value of small farm loans as a percentage of both total assets and total farm loans decreases as bank size increases (Table C). More important, the value of small farm loans as a percentage of total assets has declined since the 1997 study. If there is good news, it is that the ratio of small farm loans to total farm loans is increasing in the largest banks.

The smallest banks dominate the small farm loan market despite their relatively small shares of both total bank assets and total farm loans (Table D). While holding only 5 percent of total assets, they provide half or more of both the value and number of small farm loans in nearly every loan size subcategory. Conversely, the largest banks, holding more than half of total assets, provide less than 10 percent of the number and value of small farm loans in every loan size subcategory.

Limitations of the Study

It is important to note that the call report data tell only part of the story about lending to small farms. Call reports do not reflect a major factor affecting a bank's ability to make loans to small farms: the demand or lack of demand for small farm loans. Banks in one area of a state may have strong demand, which increases their score in comparison with other banks in the state. Banks with a similar capacity to lend may have little or no demand for small farm loans, resulting in a lower ranking. In addition, some lending information may not be reported in call reports or may not be discernible as small farm lending, for example:

- Banks may issue consumer credit cards or other forms of consumer credit to small farm owners for business purposes. These may be reported as consumer lines of credit or consumer loans by some banks.
- Large banks may make loans to small farm owners through their consumer loan divisions, thereby classifying the loans as consumer loans.
- Large banks may send the farmer to a subsidiary finance company.
- Lending statistics by state for multi-state banks may be less meaningful, as these banks may consolidate their accounting and reporting systems. For this reason, the Office of Advocacy provides a nationwide study of bank holding company lending.

Despite these limitations, call report data provide sufficient information to present a reasonable picture of lending to small firms in the U.S. economy, and they are currently the only source of data on small farm lending for all commercial banks.

Bank Lending through SBA Loan Programs

If a bank participates in the U.S. Small Business Administration's loan programs and uses secondary markets extensively, the bank's ranking in this study may be artificially low. Banks participating in the SBA's Preferred or Certified Lender Programs should be considered small-farm-friendly.<sup>4</sup>

The Tables: Small Farm Lending in the United States

The 1999 state directories each contain three tables. Table 1, Small-Farm-Friendly Banks, June 1999, lists the small-farm-friendly banks in the state. Included are banks that are among the top 10 banks or the top 10 percent of banks, whichever number is smaller.<sup>5</sup> Table 2, Small Farm Lending in the United States, June 1999, lists all the banks in the state and ranks their small farm lending activities. Table 3 lists the number of banks in each size class in each state.

Explanation of Columns in the State Tables (Table 2)

1. Total Score. The total represents the bank's overall farm lending score. The number is the sum of the four decile values found in columns 2 through 5 multiplied by 2.5 so that the best possible score is 100, which indicates that the bank is in the top

<sup>4</sup> "Preferred" lender status means that the bank has been given the full authority to guarantee SBA loans to qualified business owners without SBA review. Nearly 400 banks are preferred lenders. "Certified" lender status means that an SBA loan official will rely primarily on the bank's analysis. More than 1,000 banks have this status. To locate the nearest SBA preferred or certified lender, call the Small Business Answer Desk at 1-800-827-5722 or consult the SBA's home page at <http://www.sba.gov>.

decile—the top 10 percent—of all banks in the state in each of the four categories.

2. Value of the Ratio of Small Farm Loans to Total Bank Assets (SFL/TA). The bank's decile value in the state for the ratio of the dollar amount of small farm loans (<$250K) to the dollar amount of total bank assets. A ranking of 10 in columns 2–5 means the bank is in the top decile of all banks in the state.

3. Value of the Ratio of Small Farm Loans to Total Farm Loans (SFL/TFL). The bank's decile value for the ratio of the dollar amount of small farm loans to the dollar amount of total farm loans. A ranking of 10 means the bank is in the top decile.

4. Value of the Total Dollar Amount of Small Farm Lending (SFL$). The decile value of the bank's dollar value of small farm loans outstanding.

5. Value of the Total Number of Small Farm Loans (SFL#). A bank's decile value for the total number of small farm loans.

6. Bank Asset Size Class (Bk Asset Sz). Here the asset size class of the bank is defined:

- Under $100 million (<100M)
- $100 million to under $500 million (100M–500M)
- $500 million to under $1 billion (500M–1B)
- $1 billion to under $10 billion (1B–10B)

- $10 billion and over (>10B)

7. Rank by Bank Asset Size Class (Rank by Bnk Sz). A ranking that displays how well a bank is doing in its respective asset size class based on the summary ranking in column 1. A 1 in this column means the bank ranks first in its size class.

8. Total Dollar Amount of Small Farm Loans Outstanding (SFL$). The dollar value in thousands of dollars of small farm loans (<$250K) outstanding.

9. Total Number of Small Farm Loans Outstanding (SFL#). The bank's total number of small farm loans (<$250K)outstanding.

10. Total Score for Micro Farm Loans (SFL <$100K). Displayed here is the bank's total score for very small farm loans under $100,000. (See 1. Total Score for method of calculation.) A farmer looking for a micro loan would want to contact a bank that scores high in this column.

11. Total Score for Larger Small Farm Loans (SFL <$1M). The bank's total score for loans under $1 million. (See 1. Total Score for method of calculation.) A farmer looking for a loan larger than $250,000 would select a bank that scores high in this column.
