 Division of Regional Medical Programs

Reporting Highlights of the Fourth meeting of the National Advisory Council on Regional Medical Programs, June 20-21, 1966

At the fourth meeting of this Council, 11 planning grants were reviewed. Of these, the Council made the following recommendations:

3 were recommended for approval

2 were recommended for disapproval

6 were recommended for deferral

The Council recommended that the staff of this Division have discussions with each applicant prior to making an award, in order to negotiate any problems which were discussed by the Council.

The applications from the Health Research Inc., on behalf of the New York State Department of Health, and the California Coordination Agency for Training, Research, Education, and Demonstration in the field of Heart Disease, Cancer, Stroke, and Related Diseases, raise the legal and policy questions of approval of requests for planning to be carried out on two levels. First, that planning directed to the establishment of a Regional Medical Program, and secondly, planning to be carried on to coordinate the efforts of a number of Regional Medical Programs.

Project site visits with Council and staff participation will be arranged to explore this question further.

Associate Director, NIH, and Chief,
Division of Regional Medical Programs

Resolution passed by the National Advisory Council on Regional Medical Programs on June 21, 1966

At its regular meeting this month, the Council discussed the audio-visual portion of the Communicable Disease Center in light of the reorganization of the Public Health Service.

"The Council believes that the CDC audio-visual program is important to the future development of the Regional Medical Programs, and hopes that the administrative and funding support necessary to strengthen this program will be forthcoming."

The Council unanimously recommended that this resolution be transmitted to you. This Division concurred with this resolution.
