

Ground-water contaminant plumes at and near the Massachusetts Military Reservation in February 2005. The green plumes are composed primarily of explosive compounds and perchlorate. The blue plumes are composed primarily of chlorinated solvents and ethylene dibromide. The water-table contours are shown in feet above sea level. Source of information: Air Force Center for Environmental Excellence Installation and Army