Dear Ms. Brown,

This letter is in response to your email dated May 4th 2006. You have requested an affidavit that covers the information included in both our initial submission dated December 5th, 2005 and our subsequent submission dated March 13th, 2006.

Enclosed is the affidavit for the original letter requesting to be exempt to the closed captioning requirements.

As we stated before, the show has only been on since January 2006 and currently we are barely able to cover our hard costs on a week-to-week basis. Attached you will find out profit and loss ledger, for January thru February, from which you can clearly see we are in a negative cash flow situation.

In an effort to provide as much information as possible, during each individual segment the builder/product's name, phone number and website are on screen at all times. In addition we list our website and phone number several times and direct viewers to visit our website for more information.

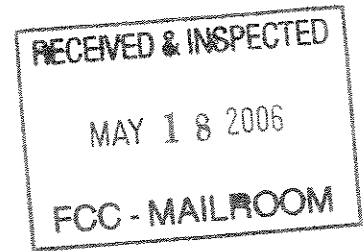

We expect to be in the black by the end of the year, or the show may not continue. We recognize the importance of the closed captioning requirements for all programs and will endeavor to comply as soon as possible.

Thank you for your consideration for this exemption and please do not hesitate to call us at 520-216-1777 or email us at homehunter1@cox.net.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Hunter

Dear Ms. Brown,

This letter is in response to REF: CGB-CC-0175. At this point in time we would like to be exempt to the closed captioning requirements. The costs and the limitations from our provider KGUN would create a financial hardship, this along with our initial start-up costs.

The station is not currently equipped to assist with the closed captioning for an interview format show. Currently at KGUN we are the only individual show that is not scripted. Thus, the station does not have a transcriber, so we would have to hire an outside vendor to perform the weekly transcribing. The average rate for a transcriber is approximately $65.00. Once the show is transcribed it needs to be entered into the teleprompter. The show then needs to be rerecorded that will require two tape machines, one audio technician and a director to make sure the whole process runs smoothly. An estimated production cost from KGUN is an additional $500.00 per show. In addition the whole process would add considerable time constraints.

The show has only been on since January 2006 and currently we are barely able to cover our hard costs on a week-to-week basis. Attached you will find out profit and loss ledger, for January and February, from which you can clearly see we are in a negative cash flow situation.

In an effort to provide as much information as possible, during each individual segment the builder/product's name, phone number and website are on screen at all times. In addition we list our website and phone number several times and direct viewers to visit our website for more information.

FCC Exemption Request
9300 East Hampton Drive,
Capitol Heights, MD 20743

To Whom It May Concern:

Hunter Productions Inc., would like to request an exemption to the closed captioning requirements on the basis of undue burden for "The Home Hunter" TV show that will begin airing in Tucson, Arizona on January 8, 2006.

"The Home Hunter" is a Real Estate talk show that previews new homes for sale and interviews guests on home related products. It is a non-scripted show that will air on KGUN-9 in Tucson, Arizona. Even though this shows falls into the category of paid programming, it appears to the general public as a service to the community. The purpose of the program is to help individuals find their new home and inform them of current home related products in the market. Each interview is paid for by the various clients being interviewed.

The producers of the show were not aware of the closed-captioning requirements when they started selling the interviews for the show. Because the show is new to the Tucson market, it will not be sold out when it starts airing in January. Unfortunately the show's contract pricing did not allow for the expense for closed captioning costs. We will also start out with so few clients that air time and production cost covered will barely be covered. Everyone connected with the show is confident that it will be a success and will turn a profit within the first six months to a year.

Hunter Productions Inc. would sincerely appreciate an extension of time to enable the company to either a) find a sponsor that would pay this additional expense, or b) sell additional contracts that can cover the cost.

Because Tucson is a fairly small market, the station is not set up to handle closed captioning for a show like ours without it being extremely expensive. In fact, we are told "The Home Hunter" is the only individual show that is not scripted that will be airing on their station.
