

—2006 Joint Spring Workshop— 21st-Century Competencies for Information Professionals

In the highly competitive world of information science, change is a way of life. A library's performance, quality, accountability and adaptability determine its survival. To stay proactive and vital, information professionals must define the core competencies required to meet the library of today and tomorrow. In this one-day session, speakers from government, academia and the private sector will identify competencies and solutions necessary for that survival. Hear the latest from
