

§ 400.94 Mediation.

(a) Appellants have the right to seek mediation, instead of a administrative review under § 400.93, involving any adverse decision.

(b) All requests for mediation under this subpart must be made after issuance of the adverse decision and before the appellant has a hearing before a NAD hearing officer on the adverse decision.

(c) An appellant who chooses mediation must request mediation not later than 30 calendar days after the date written notice of the adverse decision is mailed or otherwise made known to the appellant.

(d) An appellant will have the balance of days remaining in the 30-day period to appeal to NAD if mediation is concluded without resolution unless a new adverse decision is issued as a result of mediation. Such new adverse decisions results in a new 30-day period for appeals to NAD.

(e) An appellant is responsible for contacting the Certified State Mediation Program in States where such mediation program exists. The State mediation program will make all arrangements for the mediation process.

(f) An appellant is responsible for making all necessary contacts to arrange for mediation in non-certified States or in certified States that are not currently offering mediation on specific Agency issues.

(g) An appellant needing mediation in States without a certified mediation program can request mediation by contacting the RSO, which will provide the participant with a list of acceptable mediators.

(h) An appellant may only mediate an adverse decision once.

(i) If the dispute is not resolved in mediation,

(1) The adverse decision that was the subject of the mediation remains in effect and becomes the adverse decision that is appealable to NAD or

(2) The adverse decision which may be modified as a result of the mediation process becomes the new adverse decision for appeals to NAD.

§ 400.95 Time limitations for filing and responding to requests for administrative review.

(a) A request for administrative review of a adverse decision must be filed within 30 days after the date written notice of the decision that is the subject of the request is mailed or otherwise made available to the appellant. A request for an administrative review will be considered to have been "filed" when personally delivered in writing to the appropriate decision maker or when the properly addressed request, postage paid, is postmarked. An adverse decision will become non-reviewable by the Agency unless a request for administrative review is timely filed.

(b) A request for administrative review may be accepted and acted upon even though it is not filed within the time prescribed in § 400.95(a) if, in the judgment of the appropriate reviewing authority, the circumstances warrant such action.

§ 400.96 Judicial Review.

(a) A participant must exhaust administrative remedies before seeking judicial review of an adverse decision. This requires the participant to appeal an Agency adverse decision to NAD in accordance with 7 CFR part 11.

(b) If the adverse decision involves a matter determined by the Agency to be not appealable, the appellant must request a determination of non-appealability from the Director of NAD prior to seeking judicial review.

(c) A participant with a contract of insurance reinsured by the Agency may bring suit against the Agency in a Federal district court after exhaustion of administrative remedies as provided in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section. Nothing in this section can be construed to create privity of contract between the Agency and a participant.

§ 400.97 Reservations of authority.

(a) Representatives of the Agency may correct all errors in entering data on program contracts and other program documents, and the results of computations or calculations made pursuant to the contract.

(b) Nothing contained in this subpart precludes the Secretary, the Manager of FCIC, or the Administrator of RMA, or a designee, from determining at any time any question arising under the programs within their respective authority or from reversing or modifying any adverse decision.

[Docket No. 97-058-1]

RIN 0579-AA87

Import/Export User Fees

AGENCY: Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, USDA.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: We propose to change our user fees for import- and export-related services that we provide for animals, animal products, birds, germ plasm, organisms, and vectors. We propose increases for fiscal years 2000 through 2004 for standard annual increases in expenses. We have determined that the fees must be adjusted annually to reflect the anticipated cost of providing these services each year. By publishing the annual user fee changes in advance, users can incorporate the fees into their budget planning. The user fees pay for the actual cost of providing these services. We also propose to make some editorial changes to make the regulations easier to read and eliminate duplication.

DATES: We invite you to comment on this docket. We will consider all comments that we receive by November 29, 1999.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The regulations in 9 CFR part 130 (referred to below as the "regulations") list user fees for import- and export-related services provided by the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) for animals, animal products, birds, germ plasm, organisms, and vectors. We propose to amend the user fees for these import- and export-related services to reflect the increased cost of service and to include additional cost components.

These user fees are authorized by section 2509(c)(1) of the Food, Agriculture, Conservation, and Trade Act of 1990, as amended (21 U.S.C. 136a). APHIS is authorized to establish and collect fees that will cover the cost of providing import- and export-related services for animals, animal products, birds, germ plasm, organisms, and vectors.

Since fiscal year (FY) 1992, APHIS has received no directly appropriated funds to provide import- and export-related services for animals, animal products, birds, germ plasm, organisms, and vectors. Our ability to provide these services depends on user fees. We change our user fees through the standard rulemaking process of publishing the proposed changes for public comment in the Federal Register, considering the comments, publishing the final changes in the Federal Register, and making the new user fees effective 30 days after the final rule is published. This rulemaking process can be lengthy. As a result, our user fees may not reflect our current cost of providing services. Since implementing these user fees in 1992, we have only adjusted them four times. While a few user fees were adjusted as recently as 1998, most of the user fees have not been adjusted since 1996.

For our user fees to cover our costs so that we can continue to provide services and to inform our customers of user fees in time for advance planning, we propose to set user fees for our services in advance for fiscal years 2000 through 2004. The proposed user fees are based on our costs of providing import- and export-related services in FY 1999, plus anticipated annual increases in the salaries of employees who provide the services, plus adjustments for inflation. We used estimated pay increases of 4.4 percent for FY 2000 and 3.9 percent for FY 2001 through FY 2004 published by the U.S. Treasury Department to calculate increases in the direct labor costs each year. We estimated inflation at 2.3 percent a year based on the Consumer Price Index (CPI). The estimated CPI is published in the Economic Assumptions table of the Budget for the U.S. Government each year.

We propose to list the user fees for fiscal years 2000 through 2004 in the regulations. We also plan to publish a notice in the Federal Register prior to the beginning of each fiscal year to remind or notify the public of the user fees for that particular fiscal year. We would continue to charge the user fees proposed for fiscal year 2004 until new user fees are in effect. Therefore, the user fee tables in this document do not specify an end date for user fees that would become effective on October 1, 2003 (the beginning of fiscal year 2004).

User Fee Components

We calculated our user fees to cover the full cost of providing the services for which we charge the fee. The cost of providing a service includes direct labor and direct material costs. It also includes administrative support, agency overhead, and departmental charges.

Direct labor costs are the costs of employee time spent specifically to provide the service. For example, at APHIS's Animal Import Centers, animal caretakers and veterinarians prepare for the arrival of animals or birds to be quarantined in the Center, care for them (feed, water, clean cages or stalls) while they are quarantined, observe them while they are quarantined, release them from quarantine, and clean the quarantine area afterwards. If the service is inspecting an animal, the direct labor costs include the time spent by the inspector to conduct the inspection. Direct labor costs vary with the type of service provided.

Direct material costs include the cost of any materials needed to supply the service. For example, among other things, animals in quarantine need feed, water, bedding, disinfectants, and medicine. Direct material costs are different for different services.

Administrative support costs include local clerical and administrative activities; indirect labor hours; travel and transportation for personnel; supplies, equipment, and other necessary items; training; general office supplies; rent; equipment capitalization; billings and collections expenses; utilities; chemicals and glassware; and contractual services. Indirect labor hours include supervision of personnel and time spent doing work that is not directly connected with the service but which is nonetheless necessary, such as repairing equipment. Rent is the cost of using the space we need to perform import- or export-related work. If space is used for import- or export-related work and other Agency work, only that portion of the costs associated with the import- or export-related work is included in the user fees. Equipment capitalization is the cost per year to replace equipment. We determine this by establishing the life expectancy, in years, of equipment we use to provide a service and by establishing the cost to replace the equipment at the end of its useful life. We subtract any money we anticipate receiving for selling used equipment. Then we divide the resulting amount by the life expectancy of the equipment. The result is the annual cost to replace equipment. Billing costs are the costs of managing user fee accounts for our customers who wish to receive monthly invoices for the services they receive from APHIS. Collections expenses include the costs of managing customer payments and accurately reflecting those payments in our accounting system. Utilities include water, telephone, electricity, gas, heating and oil. Contractual services include security service, maintenance, trash pickup, etc. The type, amount, and cost of administrative support vary with the type of service provided.

Agency overhead is the pro-rata share, attributable to a particular service, of the agency's management and support costs. Management and support costs include the costs of providing budget and accounting services, regulatory services, investigative and enforcement services, debt-management services, personnel services, public information services, legal services, liaison with Congress, and other general program and agency management services provided above the local level.

Departmental charges are APHIS's share, expressed as a percentage of the total cost, of services provided centrally by the Department of Agriculture (Department). Services the Department provides centrally include the Federal Telephone Service; mail; National Finance Center processing of payroll, and other money management; unemployment compensation; Office of Workers Compensation Programs; and central supply for storing and issuing commonly used supplies and Department forms. The Department notifies APHIS how much the agency owes for these services. We have included a pro-rata share of these departmental charges, as attributable to a particular service, in our fee calculations.

We have added an amount that would provide for a reasonable balance, or reserve, in the Veterinary Services user fee account. We have determined that a reasonable reserve would be approximately 25 percent of the annual cost of the Import/Export Program. All user fees will contribute to the reserve proportionately. The reserve would ensure that we have sufficient operating funds in cases of bad debt, customer insolvency, and fluctuations in activity volumes. We intend to monitor the balance closely and propose adjustments in our fees as necessary to ensure a reasonable balance.

An outline of the basic process is shown below. The actual components, quantities, and costs used to calculate the fee are different for each service. The basic steps in the calculation, for each particular service, are:

1. Determine the following costs:
  - direct labor;
  - direct material;
  - pro-rata share of administrative support;
  - pro-rata share of agency overhead;
  - pro-rata share of Departmental charges; and
  - pro-rata share of reserve;
2. Add all costs; and
3. Round up to the next $0.25 for all fees less than $10 or round up or down to the nearest $1 for all fees greater than $10.

The result of these calculations is the total cost to provide a particular service one time.

As is the case with all APHIS user fees, we intend to review, at least annually, activities, programs, and fee assumptions for the user fees proposed in this document. We will publish any necessary adjustments in the Federal Register.

Hourly Rate User Fees and Minimum Fees for Import and Export Veterinary Services

Several sections of the regulations contain hourly and premium hourly rates for import- and export-related service we provide. Section 130.5 of the regulations lists the hourly and premium hourly rate user fees that we provide for animals quarantined in privately owned quarantine facilities. Section 130.9 of the regulations lists the hourly and premium hourly rate fees for miscellaneous import or entry services. Section 130.21 of the regulations lists the hourly and premium hourly rate user fees charged for inspection and supervision services we provide within the United States for the export of animals, birds, and animal products. Sections 130.3 and 130.10 also, contain hourly rate user fees for services we provide in connection with animals quarantined at APHIS Animal Import Centers and pet birds quarantined at APHIS-owned or supervised quarantine facilities, respectively.

In each case, the same hourly and premium hourly rate user fee applies. Therefore, we propose to consolidate all the hourly and premium hourly rate user fees for import and export services into one new section § 130.30. We believe this reorganization would make the hourly and premium hourly rates easier for our customers to locate and eliminate duplication.

Sections 130.3, 130.5, 130.6, 130.7, 130.9, 130.10, and 130.21 all list a minimum user fee. This minimum fee ensures our basic costs are always covered. In §§ 130.3, 130.5, 130.9, 130.10, and 130.21, the minimum user fee applies to the hourly and premium hourly rate user fee. In §§ 130.6 and 130.7, the minimum user fee covers the cost of handling unusually small importations at ports of entry. In each case, the same minimum user fee applies. Therefore, we propose to list the minimum user fee in newly proposed § 130.30 and eliminate duplication.

The table below shows the proposed hourly rate, premium hourly rate, and minimum user fees for fiscal years 2000–2004. As explained above, the proposed user fees are based on FY 1999 costs and include direct labor costs adjusted by 4.4 percent for FY 2000 and 3.9 percent for FY 2001 through 2004 to cover increases in employee pay, and adjustments for inflation at 2.3 percent each year. The percentage changes in the user fees from one fiscal year to the next vary based on rounding.

User Fees for Animals in APHIS Animal Import Centers (9 CFR 130.2)

Section 130.2 lists user fees charged for services we provide for animals quarantined in APHIS Animal Import Centers.

We charge a daily user fee for each animal quarantined in an Animal Importer Center. Different user fees reflect the varying costs of quarantining different animals. The user fee for each category of animal includes water, standard feed, housing, care, and handling. A separate user fee applies for birds or poultry that require nonstandard feed, housing, care, or handling.

The tables below list the proposed user fees for animal and bird quarantine services for fiscal year 2000 through 2004. As explained above, the proposed user fees are based on FY 1999 costs and include direct labor costs adjusted by 4.4 percent for FY 2000 and 3.9 percent for FY 2001 through 2004 to cover increases in employee pay, and adjustments for inflation at 2.3 percent each year. The percentage changes in the user fees from one fiscal year to the next vary based on rounding.

User Fees for Exclusive Use of Space at APHIS Animal Import Centers (§ 130.3)

Section 130.3 lists user fees charged with an importer uses an entire quarantine building at an Animal Import Center. If the space is available and the importer has enough animals to fill one of the full building spaces, then a single user fee applies. Depending upon the number and type of animals in the importation, the single user fee for the entire building may be less than the total user fee that would have been charged per animal under § 130.2

Section 130.3 of the regulations lists the location of the spaces, the square footage of those spaces, and the user fees for exclusive use of those spaces. The fees in § 130.3 cover all costs of the quarantine except feed. The importer either provides the fee or pays for it on an actual cost basis, including the cost of delivery.

The table in § 130.3 currently lists the user fees for the exclusive use of the Miami, FL, and Newburgh, NY, Animal Import Centers. The Miami Animal Import Center is not being used as an exclusive use quarantine facility. We do not anticipate any requests for the exclusive use of space at the Miami Animal Import Center. Therefore, we propose to remove user fees for the exclusive use of the Miami Animal Import Center from the listing in § 130.3. The spaces at Newburgh, NY, would continue to be available for exclusive use.

The importer determines the species, sizes, and ages of the animals or birds in the importation, calls for a reservation, and requests the use of an entire building. At that time we determine, and inform the importer of, the maximum number of animals and birds we would permit. We limit the number of animals or birds to the maximum number which can be cared for without jeopardizing their health. In determining the maximum number, the veterinarian in charge of the Animal Import Center considers the species, size and age of the animals, animal husbandry needs, sanitation, ability to conduct tests, inspections, and support procedures.

The table below lists the proposed user fees for the exclusive use of space at APHIS Animal Import Centers for fiscal years 2000–2004. As explained above, the proposed user fees are based on FY 1999 costs and include direct labor cost adjusted by 4.4 percent for FY 2000 and 3.9 percent for FY 2001 through 2004 to cover increases in employee pay, and adjustments for inflation at 2.3 percent each year. The percentage changes in the user fees from one fiscal year to the next vary based on rounding.

User Fees for Inspection of Animals at Ports of Entry

Sections 130.6 and 130.7 list user fees we charge for inspecting animals imported into the United States. We inspect the animals to minimize the risk that they could introduce a foreign animal disease into the United States. We provide inspection services at U.S. border ports, airports, and ocean ports.

We charge the user fee per animal or per load, depending on whether the animals are handled individually or as a group. The user fees vary with the location and type of animal. Different types of animals require different amounts and types of services. User fees for services at the United States-Mexico border are listed in § 130.6. User fees for services at other ports of entry are listed in § 130.7.

The tables below list the proposed user fees for inspection of animals at ports of entry for fiscal years 2000–2004.

As explained above, the proposed user fees are based on FY 1999 costs and include direct labor costs adjusted by 4.4 percent for FY 2000 and 3.9 percent for FY 2001 through 2004 to cover increases in employee pay, and adjustments for inflation at 2.3 percent each year. The percentage changes in the user fees from one fiscal year to the next vary based on rounding.

Section 130.8 lists the user fees we charge for a variety of other services we provide related to the importation into or exportation from the United States of animals, animals products, birds, germ plasm, organisms, and vectors.

The table below lists the proposed user fees for these services for fiscal years 2000–2004. As explained above, the proposed user fees are based on FY 1999 costs and include direct labor costs

User Fees for Pet Birds (§ 130.10)

Section 130.10 lists user fees charged for services we provide for pet birds that must be quarantined in an APHIS owned or supervised quarantine facility.

In accordance with 9 CFR part 93, pet birds are normally quarantined for 30 days. We charge a daily user fee. The user fee applies per isolette and varies based on the number of pet birds in the isolette. That is, all the birds quarantined in one isolette are covered by one fee, which is assessed daily for the duration of the quarantine.

This user fee recovers all costs of feeding, housing, handling, and caring for the birds. The user fee does not recover the costs of testing the birds, for which separate user fees apply.

The table below lists the proposed user fees for pet birds quarantined in APHIS owned or supervised quarantine facilities for fiscal years 2000–2004. As explained above, the proposed user fees are based on FY 1999 costs and include direct labor costs adjusted by 4.4 percent for FY 2000 and 3.9 percent for FY 2001 through 2004 to cover increases in employee pay, and adjustments for inflation at 2.3 percent each year. User Fees for Endorsing Export Certificates (§ 130.20)

Section 130.20 lists user fees we charge for endorsing certificates for animals or animal products exported from the United States. The importing countries often require these certificates to show that an animal has tested negative to specific animal diseases or that an animal or animal product has not been exposed to specific animal diseases.

These user fees are intended to cover all of the costs associated with endorsing the certificates. The steps associated with endorsing an export certificate may include reviewing supporting documentation; confirming that the importing country's requirements have been met; verifying laboratory test results for each animal if tests are required; reviewing any certification statements required by the importing country; and endorsing, or signing, the certificates. Because importing countries often require these certificates for animals, animal products, and other products, we are proposing to change the references in the regulations from "export health certificates" to "export certificates."

The tables below list the proposed user fees for endorsing these certificates for fiscal years 2000–2004. As explained above, the proposed user fees are based on FY 1999 costs and include direct labor costs adjusted by 4.4 percent for FY 2000 and 3.9 percent for FY 2001 through 2004 to cover increases in employee pay, and adjustments for inflation at 2.3 percent each year. The percentage changes in the user fees from one fiscal year to the next vary based on rounding.

Executive Order 12866 and Regulatory Flexibility Act

This proposed rule has been reviewed under Executive Order 12866. The rule has been determined to be significant for the purposes of Executive Order 12866 and, therefore, has been reviewed by the Office of Management and Budget.

Below is a summary of the economic analysis for the changes in APHIS user fees proposed in this document. The economic analysis provides a cost-benefit analysis as required by Executive Order 12866 and an analysis of the potential economic effects on small entities as required by the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A copy of the full economic analysis, which includes comparisons of the change in collections for each user fee, is available for review at the location listed in the ADDRESSES section at the beginning of this document.

We do not have enough data for a comprehensive analysis of the economic effects of this proposed rule on small entities. Therefore, in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 603, we have performed an Initial Regulatory Flexibility Analysis for this proposed rule. We are inviting comments about this proposed rule as it relates to small entities. In particular, we are interested in determining the number and kind of small entities who may incur benefits or costs from implementation of this proposed rule and the economic impact of those benefits or costs.

These user fees are authorized by section 2509(c)(1) of the Food, Agriculture, Conservation, and Trade Act of 1990, as amended (21 U.S.C. 136a). APHIS is authorized to establish and collect fees that will cover the cost of providing import- and export-related services for animals, animal products, birds, germ plasm, organisms, and vectors.

Since FY 1992, APHIS has received no directly appropriated funds to provide import- and export-related services for animals, animal products, birds, germ plasm, organisms, and vectors. Our ability to provide these services depends on user fees. We change our user fees through the standard rulemaking process of publishing the proposed changes for public comment in the Federal Register, considering the comments, publishing the final changes in the Federal Register, and making the new user fees effective 30 days after the final rule is published. This rulemaking process can be lengthy. As a result, our user fees may not reflect our current cost of providing services.

For our user fees to cover our costs so that we can continue to provide services and to inform our customers of user fees in time for advance planning, we propose to set user fees for our services in advance for fiscal years 2000 through 2004. The proposed user fees are based on our costs of providing import- and export-related services in FY 1999, plus anticipated annual increases in the salaries of employees who provide the services, plus adjustments for inflation. We used estimated pay increases of 4.4 percent for FY 2000 and 3.9 percent for FY 2001 through FY 2004 published by the U.S. Treasury Department to calculate increases in the direct labor costs each year. We estimated inflation at 2.3 percent a year based on the Consumer Price Index (CPI). The estimated CPI is published in the

Since the rulemaking process can be lengthy, it is difficult to estimate when proposed user fee changes may become effective. For analysis purposes, we based projected collections on calculations using an estimated effective date of April 1, 2000 for the proposed FY 2000 user fees. Our goal is to implement the proposed user fees in a timely fashion. In the final rule, we will show revised projections of user fee collections based on the effective date of the proposed user fees.

The following summary table shows annual expenses for providing import- and export-related services, current collections, increases in collections from the proposed user fee changes, and projected reserve amounts.

<sup>2</sup> FY 2000 estimates are based on an estimated implementation date for the proposed user fees of April 1, 2000. When the estimated implementation date changes, we will recalculate the projections using that date.

<sup>3</sup> Projections for FY 2000–2004 are based on FY 1998 volumes. When FY 1999 volumes are available, we will recalculate the projections using FY 1999 volumes. Increases in volumes in the outyears would increase income and expenses proportionately.

<sup>4</sup> The annual expenses shown in the table in the estimated current annual column and in the FY 2000 column reflect expenses constrained by income from user fee collections. Our user fees are not high enough to provide the level of service delivery requested for import- and export-related activities. Our current user fees are approximately $2.5 million below the performance level of services requested. Even with the proposed user fee increases, using an estimated effective date of April 1, 2000 for the proposed FY 2000 user fees, we anticipate that in FY 2000 our user fee collections would be over $1 million below the level of anticipated service requests. To constrain expenses down to equal income, we would be required to restrict services until user fee increases can be implemented. Adoption of the proposed user fees would allow us to meet customer demand and build an adequate reserve. Therefore, once implemented, service restrictions would no longer be required.

Effects on Small Entities

Proposed user fee changes could affect some importers and exporters of live animals, animal products, birds, germ plasm, organisms, and vectors. Any of these importers or exporters whose annual sales total less than $5 million is a small entity according to the Small Business Administration (SBA). We do not have adequate information to determine the number of entities who import or export live animals and qualify as a small entity. Data from the 1995 Bureau of Census indicates that the majority of agricultural entities who deal in less valuable animals, such as feeding or slaughter animals, can be considered small. This may not be the case for entities dealing exclusively in more valuable animals. While there is a wide range in the sizes of entities who use our import- and export-related services, our experience shows that as many as 50 percent may be considered large.

The profit margins of some entities could decline as user fees for import-or export-related services are increased. However, the proposed increases are generally small in dollar value. Over the 5 years, more than 57 percent of the individual user fee increases are $1.00 or less, and more than 88 percent are less than $10.00. In addition, the proposed user fees represent a small fraction of the value of the affected animals. Purchase and import costs for importing a breeding grade animal into the United States can range between $1500 and $5000 per head. Therefore, the proposed increases are not generally expected to reduce profits or impede imports or exports. Indeed, entities directly effected by this proposed rule are not likely to bear the full burden of the user fee increases, as some of the cost increases are expected to be passed on to the purchasers of these imported or exported animals or animal products.

Alternatives

One alternative to this proposed rule would be to make no changes to the current user fees. We do not consider making no changes to the current user fees a reasonable alternative because we would not recover the full cost of providing the import-and-export-related services. Since 1992, Congress has not appropriated funds for these services; these services have been paid for through user fees charged to the customer or reimbursable agreements. Therefore, if we had chosen this alternative and not proposed changes to the current user fees, funds would not be available to continue to provide services at a level sufficient to meet customer demand.

Another alternative to this proposed rule would be to either exempt small businesses from these user fees or establish a different user fee structure for small businesses. APHIS cannot exempt certain classes of users, such as small businesses, from the user fees, and cannot charge user fees that recover less than the full cost of providing the service. In addition, every business, including small businesses, using a government service needs to pay the cost of that service, rather than having other businesses pay a disproportionate share or passing those costs on to the general public, who are not the primary beneficiary of the service. Therefore, we do not consider exempting small businesses from these user fees or establishing a different user fee structure for small businesses as viable options.

Another alternative to the user fee changes proposed in this rule would be to calculate the increases for the five year period and then spread the changes evenly in annual increments. The largest change from the current user fees to the proposed FY 2000 user fee comes from the additional administrative support cost components: Rent, billing costs and collections expenses, and equipment capitalization. APHIS is already incurring these costs, therefore we need to recover these costs through user fees. If we had proposed these increases phased in over the 5 year period, it would benefit users in FY 2000 because they would not pay a large increase in the first year. However, most of these user fees have not been changed since FY 1996 and the current user fees no longer reflect the cost of providing import- and export-related services. Therefore, if we implemented this alternative, the user fees would still not accurately reflect the costs in FY 2000 and we would not recover the costs of providing import- or export-related services, so this option is not viable. Our intent of offering a multi-year plan so that businesses can include these revised user fees in their operating program will be effective once these proposed user fees become effective and businesses will know what the annual changes will be to incorporate them into their budgetary plans. The alternative would be to continue as we have with occasional large increases instead of the initial increase to bring the user fees up to the cost of providing services and implementing annual changes as we have proposed in this document.

Cost Benefit Analysis

The benefit of user fees is the shift in the payment of services from taxpayers as a whole to those persons who are receiving the government services. While taxes may not change by the same amount as the change in user fee collections, there is a related shift in the appropriations of taxes to government programs, which allows those tax dollars to be applied to other programs which benefit the public in general. Therefore, there could be a relative savings to taxpayers as a result of the proposed changes in user fees.

The administrative cost involved in obtaining these savings would be minimal. APHIS already has a user fee program and a mechanism for collecting user fees in place. This proposal would update existing user fees in the system. Therefore, increases in administrative costs would be small. Because the savings are sufficiently large, and the administrative costs would be small, it is likely that the net gain in reducing the burden on taxpayers as a whole would outweigh the cost of administering the revisions of the user fees.

This proposed rule contains no new information collection or recordkeeping requirements.

Executive Order 12988

This proposed rule has been reviewed under Executive Order 12988, Civil Justice Reform. If this proposed rule is adopted: (1) All State and local laws and regulations that are inconsistent with this rule will be preempted; (2) no retroactive effect will be given to this rule; and (3) administrative proceedings will not be required before parties may file suit in court challenging this rule.

Paperwork Reduction Act

A. Background

The Federal Credit Union Act does not specifically address a federal credit union's (FCU's) authority to pay or honor a share draft written that will result in an overdrawn account. NCUA's longstanding position has been that an FCU's payment of an overdraft as a financial accommodation to a member constitutes a loan or line of credit to a member.

When an FCU pays a member's overdraft, the FCU uses its money to pay a member's third party obligations. The overdraft is a debt that the FCU expects the member to repay. Because the FCU is making a loan, it must comply with the NCUA's lending regulation requiring a credit application to be on file for each borrower supporting the decision to make a loan or establish a line of credit. 12 CFR 701.21(c)(3).

A number of federal credit unions and trade associations contend that federal credit unions are at a competitive disadvantage because they are unable to cover a member's overdrafts absent a prearranged, written agreement for the extension of credit. The NCUA Board believes this argument has merit although there may be some safety and soundness concerns with extending credit to a member without a written lending agreement. Overdrafts which are unsupported by an agreement and for which there is no credit analysis represent an unsecured obligation of the member to the credit union. In general, a credit union undertakes a greater level of risk with this activity than with a loan which has undergone a thorough credit analysis. However, after careful review, the NCUA Board is proposing to amend § 701.21(c)(3) to permit a credit union to advance money to a member to cover his or her account deficit without having a credit application from the borrower on file if the credit union has a written overdraft policy. The NCUA Board believes that a written overdraft policy will offset safety and soundness concerns and prevent insider abuses. The Board is proposing that a credit union's written overdraft policy must: (1) Address how the credit union will honor overdrafts; (2) set a cap on the total dollar amount of all overdrafts the credit union will honor; (3) establish a time limit not to exceed ten business days for a member either to deposit funds or obtain an approved loan from the credit union to cover each overdraft; (4) limit the number and dollar amount of overdrafts the credit union will honor per member; and (5) establish the fee and interest rate, if any, the credit union will charge members for honoring overdrafts.

The NCUA Board requests comments from the public on whether the regulation should impose additional restrictions on overdrafts by credit union employees or officials. The NCUA Board also requests comments on whether NCUA should set limits on the total dollar amount a credit union can lend to honor overdrafts as well as the total dollar amount per member. The NCUA Board is also requesting comments on whether the regulation should require a federal credit union to have in its overdraft policy a certain number of days after which it will write off any overdraft for which the member has not either repaid the credit union or obtained an approved loan. Finally, the NCUA Board requests comments on whether the ten-day requirement for the member to cover the overdraft is appropriate. The risk of nonpayment of an overdraft that is not covered by the member within such a time period increases dramatically.

While the proposed regulation is under consideration, the NCUA intends to continue its current supervisory approach to overdrafts that are paid as
