The East-West Center is a national public, nonprofit, education, and research institution with an international Board of Governors. The United States Congress established the Center in Hawaii in 1960 with a mandate "to promote better relations and understanding between the United States and the nations of Asia and the Pacific through cooperative study, training, and research" (Public Law 86-472). To support its mission, the Center's program includes research, dialogue, educational activities, and public outreach.

The East-West Center contributes to a peaceful, prosperous, and just Asia Pacific community by serving as a vigorous hub for cooperative research, education, and dialogue on critical issues of common concern to the Asia Pacific region and the United States. The Center provides educational opportunities for students from the Asia-Pacific-U.S. region to study in Hawaii and the U.S. mainland. Each year scholars, government and business leaders, educators, journalists, and other professionals work with the Center's staff. Since 1960, more than 50,000 men and women have participated in the Center's cooperative programs.

Funding for the Center comes from the U.S. government, international organizations, corporations, and foundations.
