Departmental Offices' function in the Department of the Treasury is to provide basic support to the Secretary of the Treasury, who is the chief operating executive of the Department. The Secretary of the Treasury maintains the primary role in formulating and managing the domestic and international tax and financial policies of the Federal Government. The Secretary's responsibilities funded by the Salaries and Expenses appropriation include: recommending and implementing United States domestic and international economic and tax policy; fiscal policy; governing the fiscal operations of the Government; maintaining foreign assets control; managing the public debt; managing development financial policy; representing the United States on international monetary, trade and investment issues; overseeing Department of the Treasury overseas operations; and directing the administrative operations of the Department of the Treasury.

In support of the Secretary, the Salaries and Expenses appropriation provides resources for policy formulation and implementation in the areas of domestic and international financial, investment, tax, economic, trade and financial operations and general fiscal policy. This appropriation also provides resources for administrative support to the Secretary and policy components, and coordination of Departmental administrative policies in financial and personnel management, procurement operations, and automated information systems and telecommunications.

In addition, this appropriation includes $651,000 for the annual payments for Federal Accounting Standards Advisory Board (FASAB) and Joint Financial Management Improvement Program (JFMIP) expenses for both Departmental Offices ($12,000) and the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) ($639,000). Both OMB and Treasury cover a proportional share of JFMIP and FASAB operating costs as principal sponsors of these organizations. This adjustment has been made in order to consolidate these annual payments and to streamline the annual budget and payment processes. OMB will continue to have lead responsibility on all Financial Management issues. The OMB appropriations request has been reduced by $525,000 and $114,000 for FASAB and JFMIP costs respectively.

Economic Policies and Programs.—The function of the Economic Policies and Programs Activity is to advise the Secretary and Deputy Secretary in economic areas such as: (1) monitoring macro- and micro-economic developments and assisting in determining appropriate economic policies; developing an overall appraisal of the current state of, and outlook for the economy; providing written and oral briefing materials for the Secretary, other officials, and outsiders; participating in interagency groups working on economic matters to develop and maintain a coordinated and consistent government-wide economic program; and (2) the formulation and execution of U.S. international economic and financial policies regarding a wide range of international development and analysis functions involving: trade and investment, energy policy, monetary affairs, development financing, and general economic research into international financial issues. The Office of International Affairs works closely with other Federal agencies and international financial institutions, and coordinates international financial and macro-economic policy with the National Economic Council (Annual Economic Summit), the National Security Council, the Council of Economic Advisors, the Office of Management and Budget (foreign country risk review), the United States Trade Representative (financial services, investment, etc.), and all components of the Executive Office of the President. Under Presidential Executive order, the Office of International Affairs participates with the Department of State in the collection and analysis of economic information on foreign countries. In the areas of international monetary and foreign exchange policy, the Office of International Affairs shares responsibility with the Federal Reserve (principally, the Board of Governors, but also the Federal Reserve Bank of New York) in working closely with the International Monetary Fund. In the area of international development, the Office of International Affairs formulates resource needs, notably U.S. contributions, policies and programs for various Multilateral Development Banks. With the Export-Import Bank, the Office of International Affairs has responsibility for export credit finance. This activity includes the Office of the Assistant Secretary (Economic Policy), the immediate offices of the Under Secretary (International Affairs), the Assistant Secretary (International Affairs) and the Office of International Affairs.

Specifically, this activity ensures that the management of the Federal government's cash minimizes risk and strikes a balance between cash needs and short-term investments. This activity provides decision makers and stakeholders with: (1) timely, concise and thorough policies, guidance and analysis in the areas of: financial institutions, financial regulation, the equitable and efficient delivery of financial services, the availability of credit, financial crimes, federal debt finance, capital markets, the privatization of government assets, and any other issues related to domestic finance and financial services; and

This activity includes the Office of the Assistant Secretary (Management) and Chief Financial Officer and the Treasurer of the United States.

Treasury-wide Financial Statement Audit.—This activity has responsibility for contracting and funding all financial statement audit work that will be done by the Office of the Inspector General (OIG). The OIG would streamline the process, provide costs savings and accountability for getting these audits done, and ensure timeliness and consistency of financial statement audits in the Department. The audits would include those of the Financial Management Service, the Bureau of Public Debt, the Federal Financing Board, the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau, the Community Development Financial Institutions, and the Departmental Offices.

On November 26, 2002, President Bush signed into law the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act of 2002 (P.L. 107-297). The Act established and provided mandatory funding for a temporary Terrorism Insurance Program to be administered by the Department of the Treasury. Under the program, the Federal Government is responsible for paying 90 percent of the insured losses arising from acts of terrorism above the applicable insurer deductible and below the $100 billion annual cap.

The budget includes estimates of the general administrative costs of the program. Given the uncertainty surrounding the risk of future terrorist attacks, the budget does not include estimates of the timing or magnitude of potential insurance claims under the program, which is scheduled to sunset on December 31, 2005. Any such claims would be paid from permanent, indefinite authority and would not require subsequent appropriations.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to deal in gold and foreign exchange and other instruments of credit and securities as deemed necessary, consistent with U.S. obligations in the International Monetary Fund (IMF), regarding orderly exchange arrangements and a stable system of exchange rates. An Exchange Stabilization Fund, with a capital of $200 million, is authorized by law for this purpose (31 U.S.C. 5302). All earnings and interest accruing to this fund are available for the purposes thereof. Transactions in special drawing rights (SDR's) and U.S. holdings of SDR's are administered by the fund. U.S. drawings from the IMF, if any, are also advanced to the fund.

The principal sources of the fund's income have been profits on foreign exchange transactions and earnings on investments held by the fund, including interest earned on fund holdings of U.S. Government securities.

The amounts reflected in the 2004 and 2005 estimates entail only projected net interest earnings on Exchange Stabilization Fund (ESF) assets. The estimates are subject to considerable variance, depending on changes in the amount and composition of assets and the interest rates applied to investments. In addition, exchange rate fluctuations can cause the dollar value of income received on foreign currency and SDR investments to fluctuate. Moreover, estimates make no attempt to forecast gains or losses reflecting SDR valuation or foreign currency valuation. As required by Public Law 95-612, the fund is not used to meet the administrative expenses.

Department of the Treasury was chosen as a pilot Franchise Fund under P.L. 103-356, the Government Management and Reform Act of 1994. Begun in 1997, financial and administrative services included in the Franchise Fund (Fund) are financed on a fee-for-service basis. Treasury's Fund is a revolving fund used to supply financial and administrative services on the basis of services supplied. For 2005, service activities are expected to have spending authority of $499 million and employ 582 people.

Activities included in the Fund are financial training, accounting cross-servicing, and various administrative support services. The Fund concept is intended to increase competition for government and financial administrative services, resulting in lower costs and higher quality.

The Riegle Community Development and Regulatory Improvement Act of 1994 established the Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFI) Fund. The CDFI Fund provides equity investments, grants, loans, and technical assistance to new and existing community development financial institutions (CDFIs) such as community development banks, community development credit unions, community development loan and venture capital funds, and microenterprise loan funds. Funds provided by the CDFI Fund will enhance the capacity of these institutions to finance economic development, including small businesses, community facilities, housing, and other community development initiatives in distressed urban, rural, Native American, Native Hawaiian, and Alaska Native communities. The CDFI Fund also provides grants to insured depository institutions to facilitate investment in CDFIs and increase community lending activities. In addition, the CDFI Fund administers the New Markets Tax Credit Program by providing allocations of tax credits to Community Development Entities (CDEs) which in turn provide the tax credits to entities which invest in the CDEs. The Fund is seeking reauthorization of its activities under the Community Development Banking and Financial Institutions Act.

The CDFI Fund helps to address the urgent problems of declining economic and social infrastructure, loss of jobs, lack of private enterprise, and deteriorating housing facing many American communities today. Government investment and technical assistance supplements private funds and expertise to ensure that CDFIs are effective in restoring and creating healthy economies.

FinCEN's mission is to collect, analyze, and share information needed to combat the financial aspects of criminal activity worldwide. FinCEN achieves this mission by: (1) administering the Bank Secrecy Act (BSA), our nation's comprehensive anti-money laundering statute, and (2) analyzing and sharing the BSA information with U.S. law enforcement and international counterparts, to assist them in identifying and tracking the financial aspects of criminal investigations.

FinCEN was established in April 1990, by the U.S. Department of the Treasury, and was elevated to bureau status in October 2001. FinCEN is one of three entities (including the Office of Foreign Assets Control and the Internal Revenue Service Criminal Investigation Division) within the Treasury responsible for combating money laundering and terrorist financing. These entities work collaboratively with the Executive Office of Terrorist Financing and Financial Crimes under Treasury's Deputy Secretary.

BSA Administration and Investigative Analysis.—This activity comprises FinCEN's efforts to administer the BSA, such as promulgating regulations, providing outreach and guidance to the regulated industries, initiating regulatory enforcement actions, and, with the IRS, managing the information filed by the regulated industries. Internationally, FinCEN promotes the development of anti-money laundering regimes through training and technical assistance. This activity also incorporates FinCEN's efforts to support law enforcement, such as providing investigative case research, facilitating the exchange of investigative information with foreign jurisdictions, and identifying foreign and domestic money laundering and terrorist financing trends, patterns, and techniques.

Because FinCEN both collects and analyzes the BSA data, it is able to assess and demonstrate the value of the data then suggest ways to increase its value and strike a balance between meeting law enforcement's information needs, minimizing the burden on regulated industry, and protecting individual privacy.

Regulatory Support Programs, including Money Services Businesses.—This activity supports requirements to strengthen anti-money laundering controls with the money services businesses industry, casinos, broker/dealers, securities, and other industries with new program or reporting requirements under the Bank Secrecy Act. This activity also incorporates FinCEN's efforts with the IRS, especially related to the money services businesses industry, to assure compliance, respond to public inquiries, distribute forms and publications, and support information processing of BSA data.

Loan guarantee financing accounts receive various payments and fees and make payments on defaults. When cash balances result from an excess of receipts over outlays, these balances are deposited at the Treasury and earn interest. This account pays such interest to credit loan guarantee financing accounts from the general fund of the Treasury in accordance with section 505(c) of the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990. The estimates of interest paid by this fund are derived from the estimates of interest received in the various financing accounts.

The Bureau of Customs and Border Protection collects duties assessed pursuant to a countervailing duty order, an anti-dumping duty order, or a finding under the Antidumping Act of 1921. Under a provision enacted in 2000, the Bureau of Customs and Border Protection, through the Treasury, currently distributes these duties to affected domestic producers. These distributions provide a significant additional benefit to producers that already gain protection from the increased import prices provided by the tariffs.

This fund was established as a permanent, indefinite appropriation in order to maintain adequate funding of the Check Forgery Insurance Fund. The Fund facilitates timely payments for replacement Treasury checks necessitated due to a claim of forgery. The Fund recoups disbursements through reclamations made against banks negotiating forged checks.

To reduce hardships sustained by payees of Government checks that have been stolen and forged, settlement is made in advance of the receipt of funds from the endorsers of the checks. If the U.S. Treasury is unable to recover funds through reclamation procedures, the Fund sustains the loss.

In addition, the Budget proposes to expand the Fund to include payments made via electronic funds transfer (EFT). This proposal is included as section 216 of General Provisions—Department of the Treasury.

The Federal Financing Bank (FFB) was created in 1973 to reduce the costs of Federal and federally-assisted borrowing and to ensure the coordination of such borrowing from the public in a manner least disruptive to private financial markets and institutions. Prior to that time, many agencies borrowed directly from the private market to finance credit programs involving lending to the public at higher rates than on comparable Treasury securities. With the implementation of the Federal Credit Reform Act in 1992, however, agencies simply finance such loan programs through direct loan financing accounts that borrow directly from the Treasury. Therefore, FFB loans are now used primarily to finance direct agency activities such as construction of Federal buildings by the General Services Administration and meeting the financing requirements of the U.S. Postal Service. In certain cases, the FFB finances Federal direct loans to the public that would otherwise be made by private lenders and fully guaranteed by a Federal agency.

Lending by the FFB may take one of three forms, depending on the authorizing statutes pertaining to a particular agency or program: (1) the FFB may purchase agency financial assets; (2) the FFB may acquire debt securities that the agency is otherwise authorized to issue to the public; and (3) the FFB may originate direct loans on behalf of an agency by disbursing loans directly to private borrowers and receiving repayments from the private borrower on behalf of the agency. Because law requires that transactions by the FFB be treated as a means of financing agency obligations, the budgetary effect of the third type of transaction is reflected in the budget in the following sequence: a loan by the FFB to the agency, a loan by the agency to a private borrower, a repayment by a private borrower to the agency, and a repayment by the agency to the FFB.

Under a provision in the 1987 enabling legislation for the Agriculture Department's Cushion of credit payments program, the FFB receives substantially less interest each year on certain loans that it holds than it is contractually entitled to receive. This provision, however, does not reduce the amount of interest the FFB owes on its corresponding loans from Treasury. The shortfalls in interest received by the FFB as a result of the provision resulted in substantial losses to the FFB in the past. The FFB will likely experience future losses due to this provision.

In addition to its authority to borrow from the Treasury, the FFB has the statutory authority to borrow up to $15 billion from the public. In 1986, the FFB exercised this authority by issuing $15 billion in debt to the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund (CSRDF). In October 2002, the FFB redeemed this debt, financed by borrowing from Treasury.

In March 2003, the FFB again exercised its statutory borrowing authority in order to prolong Treasury's ability to operate under the $6.4 trillion debt ceiling. The FFB issued $15 billion in debt to the CSRDF in exchange for $15 billion in special issue Treasury securities held by CSRDF. The FFB redeemed these special issue Treasury securities with Treasury, in a transaction that simultaneously extinguished $15 billion in Treasury securities issued to Government accounts and $15 billion of the FFB's own borrowing from Treasury. In June 2003, after the debt ceiling was increased, the FFB borrowed again from Treasury to redeem its $15 billion in debt to the CSRDF and to finance a $1.3 billion prepayment premium to compensate CSRDF for the decline in interest rates since the debt was issued. The FFB's new borrowing from Treasury in June was at substantially lower interest rates than its previous borrowing that had been extinguished in March. This will improve future cash flow in the FFB revolving fund. Legislation enacted in 2003 reduces payments from the Postal Service to the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund, allowing the Postal Service Fund to repay some of its borrowing from the FFB earlier than projected. This will affect the FFB's interest payments and balances of outstanding debt.

The following table shows the annual net lending by the FFB by agency and program and the amount outstanding at the end of each year.

The Homeland Security Act created a new bureau within the United States Department of the Treasury charged with collecting revenue and protecting the public. This new bureau enforces the Federal laws and regulations relating to alcohol and tobacco by working directly and in cooperation with others to: (1) Provide the most effective and efficient system for the collection of all revenue that is rightfully due, eliminate or prevent tax evasion and other criminal conduct, and provide high quality service while imposing the least regulatory burden; and (2) Prevent consumer deception, ensure that regulated alcohol and tobacco products comply with Federal commodity, safety, and distribution requirements, and provide high quality customer service.

Performance measurements continue to be refined and improved in order to provide viable output and outcome measures for the bureau.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing designs, manufactures, and supplies Federal Reserve notes, various public debt instruments, as well as most evidences of a financial character issued by the United States, such as postage and internal revenue stamps. The Bureau executes certain printings for various territories administered by the United States, particularly postage and revenue stamps.

The anticipated work volume is based on estimates of requirements submitted by agencies served. The program comprises the following activities:

Engraving and printing—

Currency.—Total deliveries of currency for 2004 and 2005 are estimated to be 8.7 and 9.1 billion respectively. During 2003, the Bureau delivered 8.2 billion Federal Reserve notes.

Stamps.—This category of work is comprised of postal and internal revenue stamps. The projected requirements of 2004 and 2005 are estimated to be 7.0 billion and 5.0 billion stamps, respectively. In 2003, the Bureau delivered 9.9 billion stamps.

Securities.—This program encompasses the production of a wide variety of bonds, notes, and debentures for the Bureau of Public Debt and certain other agencies of the Government.

Commissions, certificates, etc.—This program is comprised primarily of Presidential and Department of Defense commissions and certificates, White House invitations, and identification cards for various Government agencies. It represents a small portion of the Bureau's total workload.

Space utilized by other agencies.—Other agencies are charged for services provided in the space occupied in the Bureau's buildings.

Other miscellaneous services.—A wide variety of miscellaneous services are performed by Bureau personnel for other agencies, which are charged on an actual cost basis.

Purchase of operating equipment.—This category consists of new purchases and replacement of printing equipment and other related printing items.

Plant alterations and experimental equipment.—This category encompasses alterations made on the Bureau's buildings and purchases of experimental equipment.

The operations of the Bureau are currently financed by means of a revolving fund established in accordance with the provisions of Public Law 656, August 4, 1950 (31 U.S.C. 181), which requires the Bureau to be reimbursed by customer agencies for all costs of manufacturing products and services performed. The Bureau is also authorized to assess amounts to acquire capital equipment and provide for working capital needs. Bureau operations during 2003 resulted in a decrease to retained earnings of $12 million.

The United States Mint manufactures coins, sells numismatic and investment products, and provides for security and asset protection. Public Law 104-52, dated November 19, 1995, enacted 5136, of Subchapter III of chapter 51 of subtitle IV of title 31, United States Code established the United States Mint Public Enterprise Fund (the Fund). The Fund encompasses the previous Salaries and Expenses, Coinage Profit Fund, Coinage Metal Fund, and the Numismatic Public Enterprise Fund. The Mint submits annual audited business-type financial statements to the Secretary of the Treasury and to Congress in support of the operations of the revolving fund.

The operations of the Mint are divided into three major components: Circulating Coinage; Numismatic and Investment Products; and Protection. The Mint is credited with receipts from its circulating coinage operations, equal to the full cost of producing and distributing coins that are put into circulation, including depreciation of the Mint's plant and equipment on the basis of current replacement value. From that, the Mint pays its cost of operations, which includes the costs of production and distribution. The difference between the face value of the coins and these costs are profit, which is deposited as seigniorage to the general fund. In 2003, the Mint transferred $600 million to the general fund. Any seigniorage used to finance the Mint's capital acquisitions is recorded as budget authority in the year that funds are obligated for this purpose, and as receipts over the life of the asset.

Circulating Coinage.—This activity funds the manufacture of circulating coins for sale to the Federal Reserve System as determined by public demand. In 2005, this activity will manufacture 13.0 billion coins for sale to the Federal Reserve System. In 1996, with the merger of the former Coinage Metal Fund into the Mint Public Enterprise Fund, the Mint began including the cost of metal in the Circulating Coinage activity.

Numismatic and Investment Products.—This activity funds the manufacture of numismatic and bullion coins, medals, and other products for sale to collectors and the general public. These coins include annual recurring programs such as proof and uncirculated sets, silver proof coins, the American Eagle gold and silver bullion uncirculated and proof coins, American Eagle platinum coins, and national and historic medals. The activity also includes nonrecurring programs for coins and medals which are legislated to commemorate specific events or individuals. In 2005, this activity will fund any pending commemorative coin program as legislated by Congress. In addition, the Fifty States Commemorative Coin Program Act authorized, beginning in 1999, the issuance of quarters for sale to the public and to the Federal Reserve System honoring each of the 50 states with a design emblematic of that state. These quarters will be issued in the order of each state's admission to the Union. The Mint will produce five different state quarter designs each year resulting in a 10-year program. In 2005, the Mint will manufacture 3.1 billion quarters for sale to the public and the Federal Reserve System. All coins produced for this program are considered to be numismatic products. This program is shown as a separate program activity to present a clearer picture of its impact. (Public Law 105-124).

Protection.—This activity funds protection of the Government's stock of gold and silver bullion, coins, Mint employees and visitors, plant facilities and equipment, and all other Mint property against abuse, theft, damage, disorders, and all other unsafe or illegal practices by utilizing police officers and modern protective devices.

Wholesale Securities Services.—This program ensures that Treasury's critical financing needs are met and that the integrity and efficiency of primary and secondary markets for Treasury securities are maintained. It encompasses all activities related to the regulation, auction, issue, servicing and redemption of Treasury marketable securities that are owned by institutional investors and their customers. The Federal Reserve, acting as Treasury's fiscal agent, maintains the top tier of accounts for financial institutions who, in turn, hold and service accounts for their customers.

Government Agency Investment Services.—This program supports state, local and federal government agencies' investments in non-marketable Treasury securities as well as borrowings from Treasury. There are more than 200 federal trust and investment funds and, for 15 of the funds, Public Debt also acts for the Secretary in his role as managing trustee. These include some of the more recognizable Federal trust funds such as Social Security, Medicare, Unemployment, and Highway.

Retail Securities Services.—This program manages marketable and non-marketable securities held directly with Treasury by more than 50 million citizens. Besides the issuance and redemption of securities, services include processing customer service requests of varying complexity. These functions are performed directly by Public Debt, by Federal Reserve Banks as fiscal agents of the United States, and by qualified agents that issue and redeem savings bonds and notes.

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

The mission of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is to provide America's taxpayers top quality service by helping them understand and meet their tax responsibilities and by applying the tax law with integrity and fairness to all.

To achieve this mission, the Service has established three strategic goals. In order to achieve the first goal, "Service to Each Taxpayer," the IRS will make filing easier, provide first quality service to each taxpayer needing help with his or her return or account, provide prompt, professional, helpful treatment to taxpayers in cases where additional taxes may be due, and improve taxpayer access to toll-free telephone assistance. Second, to achieve the goal of "Service to All Taxpayers," the IRS will increase fairness of compliance, and increase overall compliance. The Service will meet its third goal, "Productivity Through a Quality Work Environment," by increasing employee job satisfaction and productivity while the economy grows and service improves.

The IRS is improving its performance for two of these goals, most dramatically in providing "service to each taxpayer." For example, in 1999, taxpayers were met with 19.4 million busy signals when calling IRS. During the 2003 filing season that number dropped to fewer than 250,000 busy signals. The percentage of time IRS was able to answer taxpayer calls for telephone assistance increased from 51 percent to 80 percent over the same period. These improvements are due to an increase in the number of phone lines, improved automated phones scripts, and fewer incoming phone calls. In 2003, taxpayer time spent waiting for help decreased 34 percent from the previous year.

The IRS will continue to improve its customer service by leveraging existing levels of resources and through business systems modernization and management improvements. In 2004 and 2005, the Service will improve "Service to all taxpayers," through increased efforts to ensure fair tax law enforcement. The budget funds an increase of $300 million for a more vigorous enforcement of the tax laws.

There is a gap between what taxpayers legally owe and what they actually pay. In 1985, the IRS estimated that this gap was more than $200 billion. IRS's National Research Program is reestimating the size of the tax gap. Closing this tax gap, whatever its size, is important not only to help fund America's needs, but also to dissuade those who would consider cheating.

During 2003, the IRS improved its modernization management controls and capabilities, specifically its software acquisition practices. IRS deferred the start of five projects to balance the scope and pace of the program with its management capacity. The IRS will continue to manage its project portfolio carefully to ensure end-product capability, cost controls, and the timely rollout of projects to meet operational needs.

With regard to the Earned Income Tax Compliance Initiative, the Budget merges the Earned Income Tax Credit Compliance appropriation into the Tax Law Enforcement Appropriation. This will allow the Service greater flexibility in applying its enforcement resources. All costs of the former EITC appropriation will be funded within the TLE appropriation.

As provided by law, there will be instances wherein the earned income tax credit will exceed the amount of tax liability owed through the individual income tax system, resulting in an additional payment to the tax filer. The Earned Income Credit was originally authorized by the Tax Reduction Act of 1975 (Public Law 94-12) and made permanent by the Revenue Adjustment Act of 1978 (Public Law 95-600). The Tax Reform Act of 1986 and the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Acts of 1990 and 1993 have increased the credit amount and expanded the eligibility for earned income credit.

The budget proposes to permanently extend the EITC provisions in the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001, which sunset on December 31, 2010. These provisions reduce EITC-related marriage penalties, simplify certain eligibility criteria for the credit, and allow the IRS to use more cost-efficient procedures to deny questionable EITC claims. The budget also proposes to simplify requirements regarding filing status, presence of children, investment income and work and immigration status for EITC eligibility.

The Trade Act of 2002 established an advanceable, refundable tax credit for 65 percent of cost of qualified insurance. This credit is available to certain recipients of trade adjustment assistance (TAA) and Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation pension beneficiaries who are aged 55–64.

To help lower income families purchase private health insurance, the budget includes a proposed new refundable tax credit for health insurance purchased by individuals and families who are neither covered by employer-sponsored insurance nor enrolled in public programs. This schedule reflects the effects of this proposed credit in cases where the credit exceeds the individual tax liability resulting in payment to the tax filer.

Under certain circumstances, as provided in 26 U.S.C. 6611, interest is paid on Internal Revenue collections that must be refunded. The Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 (Public Law 97–248) provides for daily compounding of interest. Under the Tax Reform Act of 1986 (Public Law 99–514), interest paid on Internal Revenue collections will equal the Federal short-term rate plus two percentage points, such rate to be adjusted quarterly.

The Taxpayer Bill of Rights of 1996 (Public Law 104-168) provides for payments of such sums to individuals from the proceeds of amounts (other than interest) collected by reason of the information provided, and any amount collected shall be available for such payments. This information must lead to the detection of underpayments of taxes, or detection and bringing to trial and punishment persons guilty of violating the internal revenue laws (in cases where such expenses are not otherwise provided for by law).

This revolving fund was established pursuant to section 112(a) of the Federal Tax Lien Act of 1966, to serve as the source of financing the redemption of real property by the United States. During the process of collecting unpaid taxes, the government places a tax lien on real estate in order to protect the government's interest. Situations arise where property of this nature is collateral for other indebtedness and the tax lien is subordinate to the original indebtedness. In this circumstance, it is often to the government's interest to purchase the property during the foreclosure sale. The advantage arises when the property is worth substantially more than the first lienholder's equity but is being sold for an amount that barely covers that equity, thereby leaving no proceeds to apply against delinquent taxes. Under these circumstances, if the Government buys the property and subsequently puts it up for sale under more advantageous conditions, it is possible to realize sufficient profit on the transaction to fully or partially collect the amount of taxes due. The revolving fund is reimbursed from the proceeds of the sale in an amount equal to the amount expended from the fund for the redemption. The balance of the proceeds are applied against the amount of the tax, interest, penalties, and additions thereto, and for the costs of sale. The remainder, if any, would revert to the parties legally entitled to it.

As directed by the Internal Revenue Service Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998 (section 7802(d) 26 U.S.C.), the Internal Revenue Service Oversight Board shall annually review and approve a budget request for the Internal Revenue Service. The Oversight Board's approved request shall be submitted to the President by the Secretary without revision, and the President shall submit the request, without revision, to Congress together with the President's Budget request for the Internal Revenue Service. The 2005 Oversight Board budget recommendation for the Internal Revenue Service is $11,407 million.

on September 10, 2003 and October 16, 2003, it is expected that all resources available to the Office of Federal Housing Enterprise Oversight (OFHEO) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Federal Housing Finance Board (Finance Board) would be transferred to a new housing GSE regulator with strengthened enforcement authorities, independent litigation authority, and receivership authority.

Such regulator is presented here within the Department of the Treasury as the Office of Housing Finance Supervision (the Office). The Secretary of the Treasury would provide policy accountability by review of the Office's regulations, budget, and policy statements to the Congress. The Office would have responsibility independent of the Secretary for specific matters of supervision, enforcement, and access to the Federal courts.

The Administration supports direct funding of these activities with mandatory assessments on the GSEs, at a level that will be developed by the new Office upon its creation. The resource level presented here is an estimate based on the estimated activities of OFHEO and the Finance Board in 2004 and represents an increase of 25 percent over the combined 2004 base funding in the 2004 Budget as amended. The 2004 base funding excludes one-time costs of $4.5 million for OFHEO's special examinations of Freddie Mac and Fannie Mae.

The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency was created for the purpose of establishing and regulating a national banking system. The National Currency Act of 1863 (12 U.S.C. 1 et seq., 12 Stat. 665) rewritten and reenacted as the National Bank Act of 1864, provided for the chartering and supervising functions in this connection. The income of the bureau is derived principally from assessments paid by national banks and interest on investments in U.S. Government securities.

As the Administrator of National Banks, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency charters new banking institutions only after investigation and due consideration of charter applications. Supervision of existing national banks is aided by the required submission of periodic reports and detailed onsite examinations, which are conducted by a staff of approximately 1,870 national bank examiners. At present, there are approximately 2,150 national banks and 53 Federal branches with total assets of more than $4.2 trillion.

In addition, the Comptroller considers applications for mergers in which the resulting bank will be a national bank and applications from banks to establish branches. The Comptroller of the Currency also promulgates rules and regulations for the guidance of national banks and bank directors.

The Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) was established by Congress as a bureau of the Department of the Treasury as part of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989 (12 U.S.C. 1811 note). The OTS assumed the regulatory functions of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board dissolved by the same act.

OTS charters, examines, supervises, and regulates federal savings associations insured by the Savings Association Insurance Fund (SAIF). OTS also examines, supervises, and regulates state-chartered savings associations belonging to the SAIF and provides for the registration, examination, and regulation of savings association affiliates and holding companies. The OTS sets capital standards for Federal and State savings associations and reviews applications of state-chartered thrifts for conversion to federal thrifts.

OTS receives no appropriated funds from Congress. Income of the bureau is derived principally from assessments on thrifts, examination fees, and interest on investments in U.S. government obligations. As of September 30, 2003, OTS oversees 936 thrifts with total assets of $1.09 trillion.
