

OREGON WORKFORCE INVESTMENT: Results & Trends

November 2006

Welcome

As a workforce development professional, you have been selected to receive this announcement for a new series of publications from the Employment Department's Workforce and Economic Research Division. Titled Oregon Workforce Investment: Results & Trends, these publications will focus on outcomes from the services provided by workforce development partners.

Specifically for You

Oregon Workforce Investment: Results & Trends are created specifically to serve the information needs of workforce development planners, managers, policy-makers, and analysts. The brief publications will offer insights into trends relating to the placement, retention, and wage gain of individuals who received services from the workforce development system, while also incorporating statewide, regional, and local economic issues.

Source of the Information

Workforce development partners submit service-delivery information on customers to Oregon's Performance Reporting Information System (PRISM). Those customers' records are matched with Unemployment Insurance wage records to determine whether they found jobs, whether they remained employed, and how their wages fared over a period of a year.
