Preface

This catalog provides a ready reference to documentary editions, in print and microform, which have been or are supported financially or endorsed by the National Historical Publications and Records Commission (NHPRC).

The print editions contain useful annotations identifying individuals and incidents mentioned in the text, defining legal and specific subject terms, and explaining the historical context in which the documents were created, thus making them even more accessible to today's reader. The microform editions represent the work of archivists and historians who either reproduced collections located in a single repository, or who identified and filmed documents scattered widely, which relate to certain individuals, events, or themes. This catalog is designed to describe the editions and to assist those who wish to purchase them by indicating the publishers or distributors to contact.

We encourage teachers to offer students the excitement of working with these historical source materials. We trust scholars will view these publications, whose contents in many cases were gathered from institutions around the world, as vital resources for research and writing. We invite librarians to use this catalog to complete or bring up to date multi-volume series, or to purchase new documentary publications.

The National Historical Publications and Records Commission, a statutory body affiliated with the National Archives and Records Administration, supports a wide range of activities to preserve, publish, and encourage the use of documentary sources, created in every medium ranging from quill pen to computer, relating to the history of the United States. Established by Congress in 1934, the NHPRC is a 15-member body, chaired by the Archivist of the United States, and composed of representatives of the three branches of the Federal government and of professional associations of archivists, historians, documentary editors, and records administrators. Through its grant programs, training programs, research services, and special projects, the NHPRC offers advice and assistance to individuals and to non-Federal agencies and institutions committed to the preservation and use of America's documentary resources.

The editions listed represent one major part of the NHPRC's long-term effort to make the nation's important documents, covering a broad range of people and events, widely available for teaching, study, and research. The NHPRC is pleased to support so many publications that contribute to a better understanding of our nation's past.

Calvert Papers

(Microfilm Edition)

Editor: Richard J. Cox

Publishers: Scholarly Resources, Inc. (Microfilm and original guide), Maryland Historical Society (supplementary guide)

The papers (1584–1805) of the Calvert family, Lords and Proprietors of the Colony of Maryland, consist of both family papers and those that concern the Calverts' colonial interests. For Maryland, the papers are divided into land, financial, and government categories. The earliest papers include documents relating to the Arundel family, which joined with the Calverts through marriage in 1628.

In addition to the original guide compiled by Richard J. Cox, there is an amplified finding aid, The Calvert Papers: Calendar and Guide to the Microfilm Edition, by Donna M. Ellis and Karen A. Stuart (published by the Maryland Historical Society), which provides a more detailed description of these papers. It also contains a history of the Calvert Papers and a diagram showing the relationships of prominent members of the Calvert family in the colonial period. Two indexes, one by document number, the other by name of persons and places mentioned in the text, facilitate use of the Calendar and Guide.

Draper Manuscripts

(Microfilm Edition)

Publisher: State Historical Society of Wisconsin

Distributor: Chadwyck-Healey, Inc.

A new edition, much enlarged over the 1949 edition, of the papers of historian Lyman Copeland Draper that are in the custody of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin. This large, diverse collection concentrates on the trans-Allegheny West: the western areas of the Carolinas and Virginia, parts of Georgia and Alabama, the entire Ohio River Valley, and part of the Mississippi River Valley. The American Revolution and frontier conflicts between Indians and white hunters and settlers from the 1740s through the War of 1812 are well represented. Official and personal correspondence; journals and diaries; military muster rolls, payrolls, order books, and receipts; surveyors' notes; business and legal records, and maps and plats are all represented in the collection. Besides many significant original documents, there are also transcripts, interview notes, and Draper's own historical writings.

The edition is divided into 50 sections, each available separately. In addition to the hardcover Guide to the Draper Manuscripts by Josephine L. Harper, there are calendars to 11 of the 50 sections, each available separately on microfiche. The calendars describe the George Rogers Clark Papers, the Frontier Wars Papers, the Kentucky Papers, the Tennessee and King's Mountain Papers, the Preston and Virginia Papers, the David Shepherd Papers, the South Carolina Papers, the South Carolina Papers in the Revolution Miscellanies, and the Thomas Sumter Papers. Five published documentary histories are also available separately on microfiche: Documentary History of Dunmore's War (1905), The Revolution on the Upper Ohio, 1775–1777 (1908), The Frontier Defense on the Upper Ohio, 1777–1778 (1912), and Frontier Advance on the Upper Ohio, 1779–1781 (1917). In addition, William B. Hesseltine's 1954 biography of Draper, Pioneer's Mission: The Story of Lyman Copeland Draper, is available on microfiche.

123 reels plus calendars and documentaries, 464-page guide by Josephine Harper (1983), ISBN 0-87020-215-4. Contact Chadwyck-Healey for prices of calendars and individual sections of the edition.

The Thomas A. Edison Papers

(Microfilm Edition)

Editor: Reese V. Jenkins

Microfilm Editor: Thomas E. Jeffrey

Publisher: University Publications of America, Inc.

Three of six parts of a selective edition of the papers of America's best-known and most prolific inventor have been published. Part I (1850–1878) covers Edison's major inventions in the field of telegraphy, his early chemical experiments, his development of the electric pen, his observation of "etheric force," his invention of the carbon-button transmitter (still one of the basic mechanisms of the telephone), his invention of the phonograph, and his initial work on the incandescent lamp. Part II (1879–1886) of this publication documents Edison's work in electric lighting. These papers reflect the innovative research techniques established at the Menlo Park laboratory and aspects of Edison's genius. Edison set up industrial shops to create the various components of the electric lighting system, and worked to promote central electric lighting stations in the United States. Part III covers the period from 1887 to 1898 when Edison opened his new laboratory complex in West

Orange, NJ to the temporary shutdown of his ore milling operations at Ogden, NJ. The laboratory notebooks, correspondence, company records and other primary sources document his role as inventor and entrepreneur and the parts played by his laboratory and business associates in his affairs and in the technical and business communities.

Papers Relating to the Administration of the U.S. Patent Office During the Superintendency of William Thornton, 1802–1828

(Microfilm Edition)

Editors: C.M. Harris and Daniel Preston

Publisher: National Archives and Records Administration

The core of this microfilm edition is a reassembled archive of documents relating to the business of the U.S. Patent Office that were destroyed in the fire of 1836. The documents have been retrieved from records held by the National Archives, the Library of Congress, and other public and private collections. The years covered are those of the superintendency of William Thornton, plus a few documents dated after his death that relate directly to his service. Rolls 1–3 and part of 4 contain a chronological arrangement of loose documents, including correspondence, reports, financial records, and printed notices gathered from the various sources. The Patent Office letterbook, State Department account books, and printed publications are filmed separately and in chronological order. They begin on roll 4 after the loose documents and end on roll 5.

Lawrence Taliaferro Papers

(Microfilm Edition)

Project Director and Editor: Helen McCann White

Publisher: Minnesota Historical Society

Order books and other items related to Taliaferro's military service (1813–19), correspondence and journals reflecting his service as Indian agent in what later became the Territory and State of Minnesota (1820–39), and miscellaneous documents and correspondence (1839–68). The papers are particularly rich in data on the Dakota (Sioux) and Ojibway (Chippewa) Native American tribes—their culture, intertribal and intratribal affairs, and relations with and treatment by the Federal government—fur traders, missionaries, explorers, settlers, and other inhabitants of the Minnesota frontier.

4 reels, 12-page guide (1966), ISBN 0-87351-027-5. Also available is one reel of research note cards, including an inventory

James Wickes Taylor Papers

(Microfilm Edition)

Project Director: Helen McCann White

Editor: Constance J. Kadmas

Publisher: Minnesota Historical Society

Official and private correspondence (1834–1957) of James Wickes Taylor (1819–93), documenting his career as a special agent of the U.S. Treasury Department (1859–69), secret agent of the U.S. State Department in Canada (1870), and U.S. consul at Winnipeg (1870–93). The collection reveals Taylor's interest in and influence on the economic development of Canada and the American Northwest, including his efforts to promote commerce between the two countries and his activities as a promoter of U.S. railroad interests. The papers after 1893 consist largely of the correspondence of James Taylor Dunn that relates to his research (1930–50) on his grandfather.

10 reels, 16-page guide (1968), ISBN 0-87351-039-9. Also available is one reel of research note cards, including an inventory

Benjamin Cudworth Yancey Papers in the Southern Historical Collection of the University of North Carolina Library

(Microfilm Edition)

Project Director: James W. Patton

Editor: Clyde Edward Pitts

Publisher: Southern Historical Collection, University of North Carolina Library

The personal papers (1800–1931, but mainly 1830–1900) of a Southern planter, lawyer, politician, and U.S. Minister to the Argentine Confederation. Also included are the papers of Yancey's son, Hamilton, and some of the papers of the Hamilton and Patterson families of Georgia. Among the subjects discussed in the papers are cases the elder Yancey handled as a lawyer, local and national political affairs, and military service in Virginia in 1861 and near Atlanta in 1864.

16 reels, 13-page guide (1967)

Yellowstone National Park: Its Exploration and Establishment

Editor: Aubrey L. Haines

Publisher: U.S. Government Printing Office

An illustrated edition of the diaries, letters, lectures, and published accounts of those men who were instrumental in the exploration and establishment of the first national park in the United States. Excerpted documents, with connective text, are supported by an introduction that traces the development of the national park idea. Biographical information is included in an appendix.

This catalog was produced primarily by National Archives and Records Administration Volunteers Carol Aitken, Claire Bettag, Virginia Dunkel, Sherry S. Harris, and Rebecca M. Jones, under the direction of Mary A. Giunta, Director for Communications and Outreach. Laurie A. Baty, Program Officer and NHPRC Pagemaster, prepared the camera-ready copy. Other NHPRC staff members who provided information, worked on the initial layout, and reviewed the contents of the catalog include Roger A. Bruns, Timothy D.W. Connelly, J. Dane Hartgrove, Ann Clifford Newhall, Cassandra Scott, and Daniel A. Stokes. The catalog was prepared using WordPerfect™ 6.1 for Windows™ and Pagemaker™ 6.5 with camera-ready text printed on a Hewlett Packard LaserJet Series 4000N printer. The typeface is Times New Roman.
