Members of the Governor's Advisory Group on Global Warming

Achterman, Gail L.

Gail L. Achterman is the Director of the Institute for Natural Resources at Oregon State University. She received her undergraduate degree from Stanford University in economics and then went to the University of Michigan where she received her J.D. in 1974 and an M.S. in natural resource policy and management in 1975. She started her career working for the Department of the Interior in Washington, D.C. before returning to Oregon in 1978 to join a private law firm. Her law practice emphasized natural resource and environmental law. From 1987-1991 she served as Governor Neil Goldschmidt's Assistant for Natural Resources before returning to private practice. She left Stoel Rives LLP in 2000 to become Executive Director of the Deschutes Resources Conservancy in Central Oregon before joining OSU in 2003 as the first full time director of the Institute.

Allen, Jeff

Jeff Allen became executive director of the Oregon Environmental Council in October 1996, and OEC's membership, budget, and staff have more than doubled during his tenure. He holds a Master's degree in public policy from the University of California, Berkeley, and graduated Phi Beta Kappa from the University of Michigan. His diverse environmental policy experience includes work for the Union of Concerned Scientists, Clean Water Action, the Center for Clean Air Policy, and the California Senate. Jeff is a manic fisherman who also enjoys backpacking, fishing, and wine. He, his wife Martha and son Sam live in Hood River.

Berggren, Randy

Randy L. Berggren has been the General Manager of the Eugene Water & Electric Board since August 30, 1990. He is a professional electrical engineer registered in California. He began his career at EWEB as an Engineering Manager, and was promoted to assistant general manager for planning & development in 1988. Prior to joining EWEB, Jeff held a variety of engineering and administrative positions with the Springfield Utility Board and Southern California Edison Corporation over a 16-year period. He received his bachelor's degree in electronic engineering from the California State Polytechnic University in 1969, and a master's degree in electrical engineering from the University of Southern California in 1971. Randy was a board member for Governor Kitzhaber's Willamette Restoration Initiative and has served as a board member and chairperson on various regional energy associations.

Blosser, Bill

Bill Blosser has worked for 35 years in Oregon as a consultant and public official in land use, environmental and sustainability planning. He founded the sustainable development practice within CH<sub>2</sub>MHILL and developed sustainability plans for a variety of clients. He served as Governor Kulongoski's sustainability advisor in 2002-2003 and led the development of the governor's executive order on sustainability and the guidance document for state agencies to implement the order. He currently serves on the Oregon Sustainability Board and the boards of the International Sustainable Development Foundation, the China-US Center for Sustainable Development, and Sustainable Northwest. As a land use and environmental planner, Bill has participated in developing numerous environmental impact studies, municipal water plans, transportation systems plans, and city comprehensive plans. He served for six years as Chair of the Oregon Water Resources Commission and for 9 years as Chair of the Oregon Land Conservation and Development Commission. He served six months as the Interim Director of the Department of Land Conservation and Development.

Bradbury, Bill

Bill Bradbury grew up in Chicago, and moved to Bandon, Oregon in 1971. In Bandon, he owned and operated a small business before beginning his career in government. He served in the Oregon legislature for 14 years, representing Oregon's South Coast, and went on to direct a local non-profit organization. As Secretary of State, Bill Bradbury is our second-highest-ranking constitutional officer. He is the auditor of public accounts, the chief elections officer, and the manager of the state's official legislative and executive records. Along with the Governor and Treasurer, he sits on the State Land Board, and he was appointed by the Governor to chair the Oregon Sustainability Board. He was elected Secretary of State in 2000, and he now lives in Salem with his wife Katy.

Bragdon, Susan

Susan H. Bragdon (B.A. biology, Williams College; M.Sc. Resource Ecology, University of Michigan; J.D. University of Michigan) uses her educational background and experience in science and law to work on critical global issues such as the conservation, use and management of biological diversity; creating compatibility with environment and agriculture; and promoting food security. She was the lawyer for the Secretariat for the Intergovernmental Negotiating Committee for the Convention on Biological Diversity, providing legal advice to the working group handling intellectual property rights, transfer of technology including biotechnology and access to genetic resources. When the treaty was concluded Susan joined the treaty Secretariat as its Legal Advisor. Susan also served as the top Senior Legal Officer for the Basel Convention on the Control of Transboundary Movement of Hazardous Waste before joining International Plant Genetic Resources Institute as a Senior Scientist, Law & Policy in 1997. She now works on legal and policy issues related to plant genetic resources and in particular manages projects on intellectual property rights, biotechnology and biological diversity and on developing decision-making tools for the development of policy and law to manage access to and benefit-sharing from genetic resource. Susan is invited by governments worldwide to provide advice and give lectures on issues of importance related to the conservation of biological diversity and its links to development.

Burkholder, Rex

Rex Burkholder serves as vice-chair of the Joint Policy Advisory Committee on Transportation (JPACT) and as the council liaison to the JPACT Bi-state Transportation Committee and other regional transportation committees. Rex helped found the Bicycle Transportation Alliance and worked as the policy director for the nonprofit organization, helping to make it one of Oregon's most active grassroots organizations. He also has taught high school science and served as faculty at Portland State University Office of Student Development. As a community activist for the past 20 years, he was a founding trustee of the nationally recognized Coalition for a Livable Future, which unites more than 50 citizen groups on the issue of sustainability. As a parent-volunteer, Rex helped establish the Northeast Community School, an innovative, diverse charter school in Portland. He has been honored as the 1998 Most Effective Citizen Advocate in the metro region by 1000 Friends of Oregon and as a 1999 founder of a New Northwest by Sustainable Northwest. Rex received a bachelor's degree in biology and a teaching certificate from Portland State University. He earned a master's degree in urban and environmental policy from Tufts University in 1989. He is married, has two sons and enjoys playing tenor guitar, spending time with his family and hiking or kayaking around the Northwest.

Burnett, Michael G.

Michael Burnett is the Executive Director of the Climate Trust. He is an environmental engineer with twenty-seven years of executive, management, policy, and technical experience in climate change, energy efficiency, and renewable resources, mostly in the Pacific Northwest. As the Trust's initial Executive Director, Mike took the organization through its start up phase, overseeing the development of its accounting system and assisting the Board in developing its policies regarding the selection of offsets. He works with the Board on strategic planning for the Trust, oversees the development of annual work plans and budgets, and manages the staff to meet the work plans. Under his guidance, the Trust has assembled a project carbon offset portfolio totaling $5 million and 2.5 million metric tons of carbon dioxide. Mike led the negotiations on the Trust's first five offset projects and put the stamp of his creativity on the term sheets for the current batch of six projects. He is an active participant in the national and international policy debate regarding GHG mitigation.

Mike was a Vice President for Trexler and Associates, Inc., an international leader in climate change mitigation. There, he prepared corporate climate change strategies, developed a climate change early action crediting proposal for a national sustainable technology industry group, and prepared a feasibility study for a major international carbon offset project. Mike was also the founding CEO for Conservation and Renewable Energy System (CARES), a consortium of public power utilities in Washington State. Mike also has worked in energy conservation, renewable energy, and power planning for two utility trade associations, Bonneville Power Administration, the Western Solar Utilization Network, and the National Park Service. Mike earned an M.S. in Environmental Engineering from the University of Florida while on a National Science Foundation Graduate Fellowship.

Dodson, Mark S.

Mark Dodson has served as NW Natural's President and Chief Executive Officer since January of 2003. He joined the company in 1997 as senior vice president and added the general counsel role in 1998. In May of 2001, he was appointed NW Natural's President & Chief Operating Officer. Before coming to NW Natural, Mr. Dodson practiced law for more than 20 years. In 1979, he worked in the General Counsel's office of the Department of Transportation and then became special counsel to the Federal Aviation Administrator in Washington, D.C. After leaving Washington, D.C., he spent 17 years with the law firm of Ater, Wynne, Hewitt, Dodson, Skerritt in Portland, Oregon. His practice focused on regulated industries, international and national transactions and legislative issues. Over the years, Mr. Dodson has been actively involved in a variety of civic activities. He has been chairman of the Oregon State Board of Higher Education, chair of the Neighborhood Partnership Fund, secretary of the Oregon Health Sciences University Board and co-chair of Governor Kitzhaber's Task Force on Scholarship and Student Aid. He also headed the transition of Oregon Governor Neil Goldschmidt. He is currently the chair-elect of the Portland Business Alliance, chair of the Mayor's Business Roundtable and a member of the executive committee of the Associated Oregon Industries. Mr. Dodson grew up in Beaverton, Oregon, and attended Sunset High School. He graduated from Harvard University in 1967 and from Boalt School of Law, University of California at Berkeley in 1973. He is married to Ruth Ann Dodson, and they have two children: Carrie attends Harvard University; and Kevin is a senior at the University of Oregon.

Duncan, Angus

Angus Duncan has served as President and CEO of the Bonneville Environmental Foundation since its formation in 1998. The Foundation generates revenues from regional and national sales of renewable energy and Green Tags. Since 1998, over $1.5 million in Foundation revenues have been dedicated to new renewable energy projects and watershed restoration in the Pacific Northwest. In 1995 Mr. Duncan founded and served as President of The Columbia/Pacific Institute at Portland State University, where he holds an appointment as Adjunct Associate Professor. Mr. Duncan represented three Oregon governors on the Northwest Power Planning Council from 1989 to 1995, including service as Council Chairman (1994-95). Previously he served as Director of Energy Policy, US Department of Transportation. Mr. Duncan has thirty years experience in regional and national energy and environmental affairs, at all levels of government, and in private sector energy development at home and overseas. He speaks and writes frequently on energy and environmental questions, and serves on the Boards of the Oregon Environmental Council and the Northwest Energy Coalition.

Jubitz, Al

A native Oregonian, Al graduated from Beaverton High School in 1962, Yale University (BS) in 1966 and the University of Oregon School of Business (MBA) in 1968. Al married Nancy Thompson of Chestnut Hill, MA and together they have three grown daughters and two grandsons. Al recently retired from the family business (Jubitz Corporation) after a career spanning 34 years. He is Past President of and active in the Rotary Club of Portland and currently serves on the Portland Schools Foundation Board. He is Director Emeritus of Morrison Child and Family Services and a Director of Outward Bound West. He enjoys playing squash and golf.

Leslie, David A.

David Leslie has been executive director of Ecumenical Ministries of Oregon (EMO) since 1997. EMO is a statewide association of 17 Christian denominations including Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant and is one of the nation's largest and longest-lasting regional ecumenical associations. Prior to coming to EMO, David served as Executive Director of Interfaith Ministries for Greater Houston, a coalition of more than 300 congregations and regional and national organizations representing Christian, Muslim, Jewish, Buddhist and Hindu communities. He is a founding member and past president of the National Interfaith Community Ministry Network and was the founding Executive Director of the Habitat for Humanity affiliate in Austin, Texas. Leslie's other professional experiences include the Ohio Council of Churches and World Council of Churches.

Community involvement includes service with Network Behavioral Health Housing Board of Directors, Oregon Department of Human Services (ODHS) Reorganization Stakeholders Group, ODHS Faith-based Advisory Group, Oregon Senate Interim Committee on Farmworker Issues, as well as the Salmon and Economic Development Citizens Forum convened by The Oregon Wheat Growers League and Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Reservation. Born in San Augustine, Texas, David received his Masters of Divinity from Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary and his Bachelor of Arts in history from The University of Texas at Austin. He is a lay member of the Presbyterian Church (USA). He is married to Leigh Mohny Leslie, and they have three sons Ian, Ryan and Michael.

Lorenzen, Henry

Henry Lorenzen is a partner in the Pendleton law firm of Corey, Byler, Rew, Lorenzen & Hojem, L.L.P, which he joined in 1984. He has represented numerous utilities and parties acquiring utility system assets, including: the condemnation action by which the City of Hermiston acquired PacifiCorp's electrical distribution system in Hermiston, Oregon; attorney responsible for acquisition of a $45,000,000 electrical distribution system by a newly formed cooperative, Oregon Trail Electric Consumers Cooperative; and serves as General Counsel for Oregon Trail Electric Consumers Cooperative, Baker City, (1988 - present), Umatilla Electric Cooperative, Hermiston, Oregon, (1984 - present), and Columbia Power Cooperative, Monument, Oregon, (1984 - present). Henry is currently retained by the City of Portland for potential condemnation of assets of Portland General Electric.

Henry served as an Assistant United States Attorney (1977-1983). He is Vice President (1973-1990), and President (1990 - present) of H & C Lorenzen Farm, Inc., which is a 4,000 acre family wheat farming operation located near Pendleton, Oregon. He received Umatilla County Conservation Farmer of the Year Award (1992).

Lubchenco, Jane

Dr. Jane Lubchenco is an environmental scientist and marine ecologist who is actively engaged in teaching, research, synthesis and communication of scientific knowledge to interested citizens and policy makers. She received her B.A. from Colorado College, M.S. from the University of Washington and PhD. from Harvard University. She was assistant professor at Harvard University for two years before moving to Oregon State University. She holds two positions at Oregon State University: Wayne and Gladys Valley Professor of Marine Biology and Distinguished Professor of Zoology. Her research interests include biodiversity, climate change, sustainability science and the state of the oceans. She is lead Principal Investigator (of 13 Co-PIs) for a $43 million, 4-university consortium called the Partnership for Interdisciplinary Studies of Coastal Oceans (PISCO) that is focused on understanding the dynamics of the nearshore portion of the large marine ecosystem along the west coast of the US. She and her husband, marine ecologist Bruce Menge, students and collaborators are also engaged in a comparison of coastal upwelling ecosystems along the coasts of the US West coast, New Zealand, Chile and South Africa.

Jane is the first woman President of the International Council for Science, a Past President of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) and of the Ecological Society of America. She serves on the U.S. National Science Board (having been twice nominated by President Clinton and twice confirmed by the US Senate) and she recently completed a term on the Executive committee of the Council of the U.S. National Academy of Sciences. She co-founded and leads the Aldo Leopold Leadership Program and is a Principal of COMPASS, the Communication Partnership for Science and the Sea. Her research contributions in ecology are widely recognized. Eight of her publications have been named Science Citation Classic Papers. She is an elected member of the National Academy of Sciences, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the American Philosophical Society and the European Academy of Sciences. She serves on the Pew Oceans Commission, an independent group of American leaders conducting a national dialogue on the policies needed to restore and protect the marine ecosystems in US waters. She is a Director or Trustee of the David and Lucile Packard Foundation, the Monterey Bay Aquarium, SeaWeb, the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences' Beijer Institute for Ecological Economics and Environmental Defense. She has received numerous awards including a MacArthur Fellowship, a Pew Fellowship, eight honorary degrees (including one from Princeton University), the 2002 Heinz Award in the Environment, the 2003 Nierenberg Prize for Science in the Public Interest and the 2004 Distinguished Scientist Award from the American Institute of Biological Sciences.

McArthur, Mike W.

A native Oregonian, Mike McArthur graduated from Lewis and Clark College in 1970 with a BS in Psychology. He played intercollegiate football for four years and competed on the track team at LC. He then went to Western Oregon to earn a teaching degree and certification with a secondary social science endorsement. Five years of teaching and coaching followed in Portland and the south coast community of Bandon. He married Jeanney, an accomplished multi-media artist, in 1973. In 1977 they left teaching and Bandon to move to Sherman County, OR to work on a dryland wheat and cattle operation. Mike was elected to and served on the board of directors of the regional grain cooperative: Mid Columbia Producers for six years. He participated in the National Wheat Industry Leaders of Tomorrow program and was County Wheat League president in 1998. They are still involved in the 115 year old family farming operation although not as actively due to Mike's full time job as County Judge, a position to which he was elected in 1992. The county judge in Sherman County is the chair of the board of commissioners and county administrator as well as juvenile and probate judge. In 1999 McArthur served as the President of the Association of Oregon Counties and currently represents Oregon counties on the board of the National Association of Counties. He has held a number of other positions related to community and economic development and now serves in the position of chair of the Rural Affairs Sub-Committee of the Agricultural Steering Committee for NACo. Also, he currently serves on the Governor's Industrial Lands Task force and is Co-Chair of the State Community Development Forum.

MacRitchie, Andrew (alternate for Judi Johansen, PacifiCorp)

Andy MacRitchie became PacifiCorp's executive vice president of Strategy and Major Projects in January 2002. Andy is responsible for strategy, business planning and environmental policy for the U.S. Division of ScottishPower, which includes oversight of the major issues program. He is also a member of the PacifiCorp's Board of Directors. Prior to assuming his current position, Andy formed and served as executive vice president of the Power Delivery business. Here he was responsible for the operational management of PacifiCorp's $4 billion asset base covering electric distribution, transmission and customer service for its 1.5 million customers in Oregon, Utah, Washington, California, Idaho and Wyoming.

Andy moved to the US in December 1998 to lead the ScottishPower merger team through state regulatory commissions' approvals during the company's merger with PacifiCorp. Upon completion of the regulatory process, Andy led the transition planning process, involving a combined PacifiCorp/ScottishPower senior management team in the development of plans to transform PacifiCorp into a top 10 U.S. utility. Andy joined ScottishPower in 1986. Prior to working for ScottishPower, Andy was operations manager at Stagecoach Holdings. He is a member of the Institution of Electrical Engineers (IEE) and is a Chartered Engineer in the U.K. Andy has an honors degree in electronics and electrical engineering as well as an MBA from Strathclyde Graduate Business School in Scotland. He also completed an Executive Development Program at Wharton Business School in the United States.

Mitchell, Ronald B.

He was a Visiting Associate Professor at the center for Environmental Science and Policy at Stanford University from June 1999 through December 2001. He has an award-winning book published with MIT Press as well as numerous articles in scholarly journals. His research focuses on the effectiveness of international institutions at influencing the behavior of states and nonstate actors as well as on the influence of environmental science on international policymaking. He teaches courses on international relations theory, international environmental politics, and international regimes.

Schell, Steve

Steven R. Schell is a partner in the Portland Law Firm of Black, Helterline, LLP. He practices environmental, land use and real estate law. He is a native Oregonian, having graduated from Franklin High School in Portland, the University of Oregon with two degrees, in 1961 a BA in Political Science, and in 1968 a J. D in Law. He has a 1965 M.A. from the University of Denver in Economics. He served in the United States Air Force from 1961 to 1965. He served as a member and vice-chairman of Oregon's Land Conservation and Development Commission from 1973 to 1976, on the Oregon Law Commission task force that resulted in the creation of the Land Use Board of Appeals in 1978-1979, on the State's Energy Facility Siting Council from 1990 to 1998. He currently chairs the Oregon non-profit corporation, Energy Trust of Oregon.

Southworth, Jack

Jack Southworth and his wife, Teresa own and operate Southworth Bros. Ranch, a cow-calf-yearling ranch located on the south side of the Strawberry Mountains near the small town of Seneca. The ranch was homesteaded by Jack's great-grandfather in 1885 and has been operated by his family ever since. He and Teresa graduated from Oregon State University in 1977, married in 1978 and have been operating the ranch since then. Jack is president of the Grant County Farm Bureau, serves as a director of Blue Mountain Hospital, Oregon Agricultural Education Foundation, the E. R. Jackman Foundation and the Blue Mountain Healthcare Foundation. He is an amateur historian and enjoys collecting photos and stories having to do with the history of southern Grant County. He believes that when ranching is done well, ranchers can produce safe and delicious beef, a healthy ecosystem and do it in a manner that is profitable and enjoyable for the people involved.

Sten, Erik

Over the past 7 years, Portland City Commissioner Erik Sten has led the city's efforts to combat climate change in an urban environment. In 1994, the City of Portland was the first city in the United States to adopt a Local Action Plan on Global Warming. Since then over 400 municipal governments world-wide have followed Portland's lead and adopted climate change mitigation plans. In 2001, Portland City Council and the Multnomah County Board of Commissioners adopted a joint Local Action Plan on Global Warming with a goal of reducing carbon dioxide emissions to 10 percent below 1990 levels by 2010. This target is slightly more aggressive than the 1997 Kyoto Protocol, which, though not ratified by the U.S., set a national reduction goal of seven percent below 1990 levels by 2008 to 2012. Commissioner Sten has conveyed Portland's efforts at many national and international gatherings including a presentation at the United Nations Conference of the Parties on Climate Change in Buenos Aires.

Wilkinson, Jean

Jean Underhill Wilkinson is a partner in Martin Underhill Farms, a family owned wheat and cattle ranch that has existed since 1878. Prior to joining her family business, Jean worked as a lobbyist and legal counsel for the Oregon Cattlemen's Association and the Oregon Farm Bureau Federation. Jean is a current member of the Oregon State Bar, and is Chair Elect for the Agriculture Law Section. She is also President of the Wasco County Wheat Growers Association, and a board member for the Multnomah County Farm Bureau.

Wyatt, Bill

Bill Wyatt has been Executive Director of the Port of Portland since October of 2001. The Port of Portland, governed by a nine member Commission appointed by the Governor, operates four marine terminals, three general aviation airports and Portland International Airport (PDX). The Port has just over 800 employees and annual revenues of approximately $250 million.

Prior to his appointment as the Port's Executive Director, Wyatt served as Chief of Staff to former Oregon Governor John A. Kitzhaber for seven years, preceded by six years as President of the Oregon Business Council, and five years as Executive Director of the Association for Portland Progress, then, Portland's downtown development association. Wyatt served as a state representative from the Astoria area from 1974-1977. He attended public schools in Astoria, and Alexandria, Virginia, and later attended both Willamette University and the University of Oregon, where he was also student body President. Wyatt has been a member of the Board of Directors of Oregon Public Broadcasting, and was Board Chair of the Urban League of Portland. He served as a Director of the Crabbe-Huson mutual funds until their sale to Liberty Mutual in 1998.

Wyse, Duncan

Duncan Wyse became the President of the Oregon Business Council in June 1995. The Oregon Business Council is a private non-profit, non-partisan organization consisting of 46 business executives of some of Oregon's largest businesses. OBC's function is to focus the knowledge and resources of its members on key, long-range public policy issues facing Oregon. Prior to this position, Wyse was Executive Director of the Oregon Progress Board, where he developed

Oregon Shines, Oregon’s long-range strategy for economic growth, and Oregon Benchmarks, indicators measuring how Oregon is doing as a people, place and economy. Previously, he spent eight years at the California Public Utilities Commission, serving as advisor to the President and Director for Policy and Planning. He was heavily involved in restructuring the telecommunications, electricity and natural gas industries in California. He currently serves on the Oregon Quality Education Commission, the E3: Employers for Education Excellence Board of Directors, the Oregon Mentors Leadership Council, the Multnomah County Leaders Roundtable, Portland-Multnomah Progress Board, the Multnomah County Commission on Children, Families and Community, the Portland Public Schools Foundation, the Willamette Restoration Initiative and the Governor’s Global Warming Advisory Group. Wyse holds a Bachelor’s degree from Pomona College and a Master’s in Business Administration from Stanford University. He grew up in Portland, and is married with three children.

Ex Officio Member

Neilson, Ronald P.

Ronald P. Neilson is a BioClimatologist with the USDA Forest Service, Pacific Northwest Research Station and a Professor (Courtesy) with the Department of Botany and Plant Pathology and the Department of Forest Science at Oregon State University. Dr. Neilson has focused on the theory, mechanisms and simulation of vegetation distribution for nearly three decades. He received the Cooper Award from the Ecological Society of America for his research on oak distribution in the Rocky Mountain region. Dr. Neilson’s MAPSS biogeography model and MC1 dynamic general vegetation model have contributed to national and global assessments by the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) and the U.S. Global Change Research Program and to Our Changing Planet, the formal description of the U.S. Global Change Research Program. Dr. Neilson was the lead author for the Forest sector for the IPCC’s special report on The Regional Impacts of Climate Change and the convening lead author for an Annex to the Special Report on simulations of global vegetation re-distribution under climate change. His current work extends into Earth System Modeling, Landscape System Modeling and large-scale fire forecasting. Dr. Neilson received the Forest Service Chief’s 1999 Honor Award for Superior Science and the USDA Secretary’s Honor Award for Superior Service in 2003. He received a BA in 1971 from the University of Oregon, an MS in 1975 from Portland State University, and a Ph.D. in 1981 from the University of Utah.

State Agency Members

Grainey, Michael W.

Michael Grainey is Director of the Oregon Department of Energy in Salem, Oregon. Mike graduated from New York University Law School and received his undergraduate degree from Gonzaga University in Spokane, Washington. He is admitted to practice law in Oregon, Washington and the District of Columbia. ### Hallock, Stephanie Stephanie Hallock was appointed Director by the Oregon Environmental Quality Commission on Nov 6, 2000. Previous to her appointment she was on a special one-year assignment as a water quality policy adviser for Governor John Kitzhaber's Natural Resources Policy Group. Hallock has been with DEQ since August 1988, serving as Administrator of the Hazardous and Solid Waste Division, Acting Administrator of the Water Quality Division, and Administrator of DEQ's Eastern Region, overseeing agency work in eighteen Oregon counties. She also served at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Region 9 office in San Francisco as chief of the Policy and Grants Branch, and has worked in advertising and public relations at the Hallock/Modey Agency in Portland. Hallock has a master's degree in Public Administration and a Bachelor of Arts degree in English, both from Portland State University.

Savage, John

John Savage has been a Public Utility Commissioner since September, 2003. From January 2002 through August, 2003, he directed the Public Utility Commission's 70-person regulatory staff. From December, 1993 to January 2002, he served as director of the Oregon Department of Energy. During that time, the 1997 Legislature passed the carbon dioxide emissions law for new power plants. From January 1987 to December 1993, John headed the Policy and Planning Division of the Oregon Department of Energy. The Division was responsible for producing the state's energy, global warming, and petroleum contingency plans.

Van't Hof, David

David Van't Hof is the sustainability and renewable energy policy advisor for Governor Kulongoski. Mr. Van't Hof will be implementing the Governor's Executive Order on sustainability, the Governor's three state climate change initiative, and fostering the development of renewable energy and associated technologies in Oregon. He previously served as Governor Kulongoski's natural resources advisor on water, energy and land use issues. Prior to working for the Governor, Mr. Van't Hof was a private sector attorney who focused on natural resources, land use, and administrative law, with an emphasis on major project permitting and water rights. He advised clients on complex regulatory matters such as environmental and siting issues for projects including natural gas, wind, and hydroelectric facilities. He also assisted a variety of public and private clients with National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), Endangered Species Act (ESA), water rights, and water quality issues and represented several clients in the Klamath Basin Water Rights Adjudication and in contested cases before the Water Resources Department.

Mr. Van't Hof was a former clerk for then Supreme Court Justice Ted Kulongoski. He graduated cum laude from the University of Michigan Law School and was Phi Beta Kappa at Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut. He attended the Institute for European Studies in Vienna, Austria and was a Peace Corps volunteer in Senegal, West Africa. His past professional activities include: member of the Oregon Water Resources Congress, Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation, Oregon State Bar Environmental and Natural Resources Section, Administrative Law Section, and Indian Law Section, Community Water Supply Task Force, organized by the Oregon Water Resources Commission; board member, African Refugee and Immigrant Network of Oregon; founder and former board member and board president, Hands On Portland; volunteer immigration attorney, Sponsors Organized to Assist Refugees; chair of Large Firm Associates Committee, Campaign for Equal Justice.
