Change Is in the Air

As long August days transition into September, we enter a new time in Acadia. The sun sets earlier each day (and rises later, too—good news for sunrise seekers!). The temperatures are cooler, and the air is crisp. The summer crowds have thinned out. It's a time of change in the park for animals, plants, and people alike. Some changes are subtle, barely noticeable. Others are more evident; all are worth exploring.

Fall days in Maine can be perfect—sunny and warm—tempting us to believe that winter really isn't around the corner. As much as we may wish that were true, cooler weather inevitably sets in. Bring layered clothing, and you'll stay comfortable during your outdoor activities in the park.

In addition to cooler temperatures, fall brings noticeably "shorter" days. On September 1, the sun sets at 7:08 p.m. By October 31, sunset is 5:23 p.m. This means a lot less daylight for your park adventures. If you are out hiking or biking in the park, plan your day to return before sunset.

During explorations outside, you can't miss the fall colors painted across the mountains and valleys of Mount Desert Island. As the hours of daylight decrease and temperatures begin to fall, the chemical composition of leaves begins to change. Leaves stop their food-making process, and chlorophyll, which gives them their green color, breaks down. Other colors—rich reds, vibrant yellows, and deep oranges—are now on display. Fall colors are at their most brilliant after a succession of warm, sunny days and cool, crisp nights. Although timing varies each year, peak foliage can often be found in the park in early to mid-October.

The changes of fall affect wildlife too. Animals like deer and moose breed in the fall; you may find "buck rubs" on trees where male deer mark their territories with their antlers. Hibernators like black bears begin a period of intense feeding, helping put on a layer of fat that will keep them alive during the cold winter. Porcupines begin to search for more nutritional foods; in the fall you can find them grazing on new growth along roadsides. Beavers stockpile branches and small trees near their winter lodges. Look closely, and you may see new sticks and fresh mud on their lodges and dams.

Birds also begin to prepare for winter, but using a totally different method: migration. During late summer and fall, warblers and other summer residents head south for warmer climates. If you're near the ocean at night, listen for migrating birds traveling past rocky headlands. Each year, thousands of migrating hawks—including broad-winged hawks, sharp-shinned hawks, American kestrels, and others—soar high above Cadillac Mountain during their migration southward. Join park staff and volunteers atop Cadillac Mountain for HawkWatch from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily until early October to test your hawk-identification skills and learn more about these birds of prey.

Fall is a time of change for all living things in Acadia National Park. As you explore the park, take some time to look around you. Enjoy the brilliant red hue of huckleberry bushes contrasting sharply with lichen-covered granite. Watch nature in action as raptors follow air currents high over your head. But don't forget: Fall changes are only the precursor to what comes next—winter!

Saint Croix International Historic Site includes larger-than-life bronze statues to tell the tale of early European settlers. Photos by NPS/Meg Scheid (top) and NPS/Robert Thayer (bottom).

Explore history and culture in Maine's only other National Park Service site—Saint Croix Island International Historic Site (IHS).

Just three hours away from Acadia, Saint Croix Island IHS commemorates one of the earliest European settlements in North America. On the mainland, exhibits and bronze figures tell the story of the French colonists and Native Americans who once frequented this site. Walk in their footsteps along the interpretive trail overlooking the island. Visits to the island are not encouraged due to its fragile nature.

The site is located on U.S. Route 1, eight miles south of Calais, Maine. Restrooms and a picnic area are available. To learn more, visit the park website at www.nps.gov/sacr.

Pick up a copy of the bus schedule at the visitor center. You can also flag down the bus anywhere it is safe to stop along its route. When planning your trip, remember that the Island Explorer does not service Cadillac Mountain. Island Explorer service ends on October 13.

Parking

During the fall, the park can be quite congested. Please drive carefully and observe posted signage. Better yet, ride the bus and relax! Parking is only permitted in designated (posted) areas, parking lots, and established roadside pullouts.

Where Do Your Fees Go?

The majority of fees paid in Acadia stay right here. The Recreational Fee Demonstration Program, first authorized by Congress in 1996, mandates that 80 percent of fees paid in Acadia stay in the park to be used for projects that directly benefit park visitors and resources. Your fees are used for a variety of projects that improve the condition of natural and cultural resources and make the park a safer place for you to visit. Some of these recent and upcoming projects include:

- Island Explorer seasonal public transportation system
- Rehabilitation of the Perpendicular Trail
- Fee interpretation programs

Please support these and other projects by buying a park pass at the following locations:

Be Careful Out There!

No one ever plans to get hurt on vacation, but it does happen. Most accidents at Acadia occur while visitors are hiking, biking, exploring the shoreline, and driving. Keep these tips in mind to help ensure a safe visit to the park.

Image Removed

Watch your step. Be prepared: wear sturdy shoes and carry water, a map, first aid kit, and flashlight while hiking. Tell someone your plans before you go.

Image Removed

Keep your speed down and be prepared to stop. Road gravel can be loose, especially on curves and hills. Bicycling on the carriage roads is a major cause of visitor injuries.

Image Removed

Be careful while walking near cliff edges and along the shore. Loose gravel and wet rocks create dangerous footing, which can result in serious falls. Stay away from the edge.

Image Removed

Drive safely and wear your seatbelt. The speed limit is 35mph in the park unless otherwise noted. It's easy to get distracted by scenery—pay attention. Do not drink and drive.

Remember that your actions can make the difference between a happy memory and an unpleasant experience!

Keep Wildlife Wild

Acadia offers many opportunities for observing wildlife. During your visit you may find deer feeding in meadows, songbirds darting through forests of peeling birch trees, and raptors circling high overhead. Because of Acadia's small size and proximity to towns and residential areas, these animals often come in close contact with people. Each of us must do our part to make this contact easier, helping ensure the safety and health of wild animals. When you encounter wildlife, remember these steps:

- Never feed wild animals: This means gulls, too, no matter how persistent they are. Human food can make wildlife ill and create beggar animals that no longer retain a healthy respect of humans.
- Keep your distance: Do not approach wild animals. If you suddenly find yourself too close, back away and give them room to escape. Use binoculars to get a better view.
- Be careful along roads: Animals often gather near roadsides, especially at dusk and dawn. Pay close attention and lower your speed, allowing them and you a better chance to see each other and avoid an accident.
- Leash your pet: Keep your pet on a six-foot or shorter leash at all times and stay on designated trails or roads. This is for your pet's safety too!
- Store food securely: When camping, store all food, garbage, and cooking equipment in an enclosed vehicle or hard-sided locker whenever you are not present. This precaution helps prevent wild animals from being attracted to your campsite or tent.
- Respect wildlife closures: These closures protect wildlife like nesting peregrines, loons, seabirds, and eagles, which are especially sensitive to disturbance. Intrusion by humans can cause nesting attempts to fail.
- Follow the law: Remember that protecting wildlife in our national parks not only makes good sense, but also it is the law. All national parks have strict regulations concerning the protection of wildlife. When in doubt, ask a park ranger first.

Wild animals live in Acadia National Park. This is their home. Help us do what we can to make it a safer place for them to live.

HawkWatch

Acadia National Park has begun its fourteenth season of HawkWatch atop Cadillac Mountain. At 1,530 feet, Cadillac Mountain offers a fantastic view of migrating birds of prey soaring on strong updrafts. Each year, thousands of raptors from Maine and Canada travel south along the eastern coastline on their migration to warmer areas, such as South America, for the winter.

Image removed for faster download.

The information collected at HawkWatch programs across the country helps researchers determine the status of the raptor population. Last year, volunteers and rangers were stationed on Cadillac Mountain for almost 245 viewing hours and spotted more than 3,600 migrating birds of prey. The species identified included the commonly seen sharp-shinned hawk and American kestrel, the more rarely sighted red-shouldered hawk and bald eagle, and more!

Join park rangers and volunteers for HawkWatch every day (weather permitting) from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. through October 15. Learn about raptor migration and identification. Bring binoculars and a field guide if you have them, and wear warm clothes. The HawkWatch site is located along the Cadillac North Ridge Trail, 200 easy yards from the summit parking lot. Discover the thrill of spotting these birds of prey from the highest point on the eastern seaboard!

The number of birds spotted substantially increases on days with northerly winds as is shown in this data from 2007.

Park Accessibility

Acadia National Park is constantly striving to improve its accessible facilities and services so that all visitors have access to park resources. A complete list of accessible options is featured in the Access Guide, available online at www.nps.gov/acad/planyourvisit/accessibility.htm or at the visitor center and other park contact stations. Highlights include:

- Accessible interpretive programs, marked by the universal access symbol, are listed on pages 4–5.
- Assistive listening devices (ALDs) are available for use at park programs by visitors with limited hearing. A transmitter broadcasts the ranger's voice directly into the ears of individuals equipped with any of the six receivers, which improves hearing and understanding. The ALDs are available by reservation for any of our interpretive programs. For more information, call 207-288-3338 and press "0" Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
- The accessible trail atop Cadillac Mountain permits access to a portion of the park's highest summit. Follow this short trail for scenic views of Frenchman Bay, the Porcupine Islands, and the town of Bar Harbor.
- The introductory video at Hulls Cove Visitor Center features audio description and captioning.

These are only a few of the accessible options available in the park. Contact a park ranger if you have any questions.

Making Connections with Kids

The 100th anniversary of the National Park Service—and Acadia National Park—in 2016 is eight years away, but we're starting now to work on projects that are worthy of the centennial celebration. One of these is the Engage Youth project, part of the National Park Service Centennial Challenge. This project comes at a good time. If you've heard all the talk about kids spending too much time indoors and not enough exploring outside, then probably you've also heard the predicted outcome: unhealthy kids growing into adults who can't relate to nature. The staff at Acadia is working to make sure the predictions don't come true.

This summer the park offered expanded programs for young people, families, and teachers—all with the goal of helping kids have hands-on outdoor experiences. Children's programs provided hands-on explorations of nature and history for ages 14 and younger. The Acadia Quest linked these programs to special events and volunteer activities. Older kids took their involvement one step further and worked in the park as student rangers and volunteers with the Acadia Youth Conservation Corps and Student Conservation Association. Read about their experiences in blogs on the park website at www.nps.gov/acad. Four teacher-rangers (three at Acadia, one at Saint Croix Island International Historic Site) gained park knowledge to take back to their students in the classroom.

This fall the Engage Youth project will enhance existing programs for students. Centennial Challenge funding will supplement the L.L.Bean Kids in Acadia grant to provide additional funding for bus transportation and scholarships to the Schoodic Education Adventure (SEA), the park's residential education program for grades 4–8, and to upgrade the SEA computer lab. Schools bringing students to the Carriage Road Explorers and Island Life curriculum-based programs will receive free carriage and boat rides.

These are only a few of the programs we're working on to connect kids to the outdoors. We couldn't do any of it without our partners. Friends of Acadia, Acadia Partners for Science and Learning, and Eastern National provided matching funds for the Engage Youth project. Their efforts help the park offer teacher workshops and stipends, school outreach, program materials, and much more. You can help, too. Tell the teachers and children you know about these opportunities.

We're not finished yet with the effort to forge connections between children and nature. We'll keep working through 2016 and beyond!

The Otter Cove Causeway spans Otter Creek Cove, past Otter Point on the Park Loop Road. The triple-arch bridge was built in 1935 by the Bureau of Public Roads. It is the only solid masonry bridge on the park's motor road system.

From the bridge you can see Cadillac Mountain, the park's highest summit, on one side and the Atlantic Ocean on the other. You can explore this area with a park ranger during the By the Cove drop-in program. Check out the schedule on page 5 for times.

Volunteers

Image removed for faster download.

Volunteers make valuable contributions to communities, organizations, and individuals throughout the country. National Park Service (NPS) volunteers come from all over to help preserve and protect America's natural and cultural heritage for the enjoyment of this and future generations. They contribute the time and expertise that help Acadia achieve the NPS mission.

Volunteers at Acadia meet each Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday through mid-October, weather permitting, from 8:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. During that time, they perform much-needed tasks that help park staff maintain trails and carriage roads. If you are willing to cut back some vegetation or help clear a drain, call 207-288-3934 or 207-288-3340 for more information.

Annual volunteer events at Acadia include:

- Take Pride in Acadia Day on the first Saturday in November (11/01/08)
- Earth Day Roadside Cleanup on the last Saturday in April (04/26/09)
- National Trails Day on the first Saturday in June (06/06/09)

For more information about these events, visit www.friendsofacadia.org. For volunteer opportunities at other NPS sites, visit www.nps.gov/volunteer.

These pocket-sized books by Steve Perrin offer a glimpse into the natural history of the park. Explore popular and hidden park trails, and learn about the native species that make their homes in Acadia.

Help Us Revegetate!

In response to extensive rehabilitation at Blackwoods Campground, the park has undertaken a revegetation project to replace much of the vegetation that was lost during construction. Here's how you can help make this project a success and help restore these areas to their natural condition.

- Areas where native plants are planted will be roped off and signed to indicate what's happening there. Small trees and shrubs will be mulched with wood chips. Please don't walk through these areas or damage new or existing plants or trees.
- Stay on designated paths at Blackwoods Campground. Taking shortcuts kills plants.

Remember: Plants grow by the inch and die by the foot!

Protect Your Park: Leave No Trace

You are the park's biggest ally in protecting Acadia's vulnerable natural and cultural resources. Leave No Trace (LNT) principles can guide you down the path to protection. Leave No Trace is about attitude and ethics. It's about taking personal responsibility to respect and care for our limited wildland resources and the experiences of other outdoor enthusiasts. Once you commit to following these LNT principles, you will know you are doing your best to become a good steward of our park lands.

Plan Ahead and Prepare: Once you make a plan, learn the local regulations and be prepared for your adventure. Bring a map, food and water, and anything else you'll need. Ride the propane-powered Island Explorer shuttle bus to your destination (service ends October 13).

Travel and Camp on Durable Surfaces: Stay on trails and durable surfaces like bare granite to protect fragile plant life. Camp in designated campgrounds only. Do not swim in bodies of water marked as water supplies.

Dispose of Waste Properly: Pack it in; pack it out. Carry out anything you brought into the park. Better yet, carry out any litter you find, too!

Leave What You Find: Removing natural and historic objects like beach cobbles, flowers, marine life, and antlers not only destroys natural resources, but also is illegal. Cairns, or trail markers, are carefully maintained by the park; please do not add to or remove them.

Minimize Fire Impacts: Fires are permitted only in designated locations, such as campgrounds and picnic areas.

Respect Wildlife: Don't approach or feed wild animals; our food makes them sick. Learn more on page 3.

Be Considerate: Pay attention to others. Keep your dog on a leash, let natural sounds prevail, and limit your group size.

You can learn more about these Leave No Trace principles on the park website at www.nps.gov/acad/supportyourpark/leavenotrace.htm. Remember, we can't do it without you!

Tidepool Tips

The zone where ocean meets land—the intertidal zone—is one of the most fascinating areas in Acadia. Here you can see creatures with amazing survival skills that allow them to stay alive when, twice each day, the tide leaves them exposed. These marine organisms are not indestructible, however. Our careless handling and footsteps can do damage that the changing tides cannot. As you explore the intertidal zone, keep in mind these tips for your safety and for the protection of marine life:

- Do not wade or sit in tidepools.
- Rocks and algae are slippery. Watch your step.
- Never turn your back on the ocean; rogue waves can occur at any time.
- Wear suitable clothing and closed-toe shoes.
- Be patient. Take time to be still; you'll be surprised at the activity you see.
- Sea creatures live everywhere. Be careful where you place your feet.
- If you move animals or rocks, return them to the same spot.
- Do not pry animals from rocks; you may injure them in the process.
- Re-cover animals you find under rocks or seaweed so they won't dry out.
- All living creatures are protected in the park. Take only pictures.
