Information Sought for CDC Review of School Policies on E-Bullying

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is conducting a review of state, district, and school policies related to the use of such technology as cell phone text messaging and picture taking, blogs, and instant messaging to perpetrate aggression against peers (making threats, spreading rumors, sending embarrassing photos, etc.)

CDC has requested that districts or schools that have such a policy provide it or the appropriate contact information to Marci Hertz at mhertz@cdc.gov or 770-488-2547 by August 1, 2008.

October 6-10: Drive Safely Work Week 2008 campaign, www.trafficsafety.org

The purpose of this year's campaign, Take the High Road. Share the Road. It Belongs to Everyone, is to heighten motorists' awareness of the special needs and considerations of all roadway users. As motorists, we share the road with drivers of various ages, skill levels, personalities and habits. We also share the road with pedestrians, bicyclists, motorcyclists, and vehicles of varying sizes. While we may be alone in our vehicles, we are never alone on the road. Understanding the unique limitations and challenges for the various road users we encounter every day will enable us to be more respectful and considerate of our roadway companions.

Campaign Tool Kit All the campaign materials you need to launch a successful campaign are available on the NETS website. Register to download the materials in a pdf format at www.trafficsafety.org. Daily Share the Road Worksheets, Campaign Letter to Employees, Newsletter Article, Campaign Poster, A Corporate Action Plan, Resource Catalog, Press Release Template, Campaign Proclamation, and more materials.

For those who prefer printed materials, a Campaign Tool Kit is available to purchase for $35, and includes color copies of the campaign materials, 2 campaign posters, a CD containing all of the campaign materials for easy reproduction and distribution, and samples of the campaign incentives.

The ADS Center Announces its Name Change

Effective immediately, SAMHSA's Resource Center to Address Discrimination and Stigma has been re-named to SAMHSA's Resource Center to Promote Acceptance, Dignity and, Social Inclusion Associated with Mental Health. The Center will still go by the acronym, the ADS Center. The ADS Center's new name reflects a new approach: to promote a strengths-based vision, recognizing the importance of a caring, welcoming, and supportive community in helping to promote recovery and wellness for people with mental health problems. Reducing "stigma" will continue to be part of the ADS Center's work but it is no longer enough. We must expand what we do to better serve individuals with mental illnesses and their families. The work of the ADS Center is to foster dialogue and facilitate activities to promote full community participation by people with mental health problems. As such, we welcome comments from you on our name change. Drop us an e-mail at: stopstigma@samhsa.hhs.gov. Please visit the ADS Center Web site at www.stopstigma.samhsa.gov for information and to join our listserv.
