Dear Commissioner,

I thank you for the great work you have done in the past but feel you have made an oversight. I think it is the fundamental right of consumers to know what they are buying and for companies selling items to be responsible for their actions. With this in mind, I believe the least you can do to ensure consumers their rights, as the most integral part of our economy, is to label genetically modified foods and continue testing.

respectfully,
George W. Myers
