Dear FDA Commissioner ~

5542 '01 MAR 19 P4:20

I am writing to express my disappointment over the new proposed guidelines regarding genetically engineered foods. Leaving the labeling of these products voluntary is unrealistic and irresponsible. I demand that the FDA require all genetically engineered foods to be tested for safety before they reach consumers.

A wide variety of side effects, including food allergies, make this a logical thing to do. With no testing, we are using unsuspecting Americans as guinea pigs.

I also demand that all foods containing genetically engineered ingredients be labelled so that consumers can choose whether or not to ingest never-before-eaten combinations of genetic material.

I appreciate your response.
