

Helping You Succeed.

Finally—a single website to find and apply for Federal grant opportunities

That's right. A single, authoritative source for information on, and the ability to apply for, all Federal grant opportunities—now everything you need is online—right at your fingertips:

$400 billion in annual grants

All 26 Federal grant-making agencies

More than 900 different grant programs

Thousands of grant funding opportunities available

Grants.gov enables grant-making agencies and the grant community to come together to make grants management easier and more efficient for everyone. Led by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Grants.gov is one of 24 Federal cross-agency E-government initiatives designed to improve access to services via the internet. In partnership with Federal grant-makers including 26 agencies, 11 commissions and several states, Grants.gov is the one website for information on all Federal grant opportunities.

State, local, and tribal governments, colleges and universities, research institutions, non-profits and other organizations now have the access they need to efficiently find grants in one convenient online location. And applying for grants has never been easier. Applications are easy to download and simple to submit.

Visit Grants.gov today and discover how we can help you to find, apply and succeed!

Here's what Grants.gov users are saying ...

"I love Grants.gov. It is grants submission for dummies."

Virginia Institute of Marine Science

"The Grants.gov system-to-system implementation will help us work more efficiently. A higher proportion of the research dollars will be spent on actual research."

The Pennsylvania State University

"The Department of Education has been on-board with Grants.gov since the beginning. We are excited to be able to provide more applicants the opportunity to apply electronically using Grants.gov, which is really the future for electronic grant applications across the Federal government."

U.S. Department of Education

"Thanks to Grants.gov, we've become aware of funding opportunities that might have been missed or didn't know to think of, helping us expand rapidly to meet the growing need for services. We cannot thank Grants.gov enough and emphasize how valuable it has been to us as end users!"

Both the Grant Community and Grantors Benefit from Grants.gov

Grants.gov is a single, secure and reliable internet source that significantly reduces the time and effort required for you to find and apply for available Federal grant opportunities.

The grants management process is now transforming from a traditional 80% paper-based grants management process to a 100% electronic method. By standardizing the system, grant information and application forms, the process of announcing and applying for Federal grants is better for everyone. The unified Grants.gov application process eliminates the need to learn and comply with multiple agency-specific requirements. And it saves you the costs of printing, copying and postage associated with hard copy grant applications.

Grantors benefit, too—from reduced application processing costs and built-in data quality checks to system interfaces that utilize existing back-end processes. With Grants.gov, grantors are saving Federal dollars by eliminating the need to build redundant stand-alone grant systems, while reducing application processing time and customer support costs.

Both the grant community and grantors are on the receiving end when it comes to the benefits of using Grants.gov.

The Offline Advantage

You don't have to be tied to the internet to take advantage of Grants.gov. You can conveniently receive grant opportunity notifications directly to your email. Plus, Grants.gov features the ability to download a grant application package and then view and complete it offline—giving you the flexibility to complete grant applications when and where you want. It also makes it easy for you to route it through your organization for review, or completion of various components, just like any other email attachment.

When your application is complete and ready for submission, simply reconnect to the internet and click the submit button. Grants.gov will guide you through the submission process and provide tracking confirmation of your submitted application.

Focus on the Customer

The success of the Grants.gov program starts and ends with its customers—the grant community and grantors. Our customers have been involved in Grants.gov since its inception. Ongoing interviews, surveys, focus groups, and satisfaction studies help us to elicit the input of Grants.gov users—enabling us to continuously improve the easy to use functionality that simplifies the grants management process. Grants.gov will continue this tradition of partnership to deliver real value to our customers.

We're committed to making Grants.gov the most convenient and cost-efficient site for Federal grants—more than two-thirds of the grant community surveyed agree—Grants.gov is doing just that and makes the grants process better. And since launching Grants.gov, we've added new content, increased and enhanced online user tools, and made reaching personalized customer support faster.

Help At Your Fingertips!

Help is just a click away on every page of the Grants.gov site. A link at the top of every page connects you with context-sensitive help that knows where you are and where you have been—providing just what is needed for that particular point in time.

For quick answers, on-site customer service tools include a Tutorial and Frequently Asked Questions. Or for help on completing an application package, start with the step-by-step online demonstrations or visit the convenient Applicant Support Center with grant-writing resources and helpful links.

Personalized help is always available via email (support@grants.gov) and phone from our dedicated Customer Support team, as well.

It all adds up to make Grants.gov the place for potential grant applicants to quickly find the best grant opportunities to meet their needs and to apply for grants electronically—saving time and money!
