

National Archives Central Plains Region Exhibits

The Central Plains Region offers small, temporary exhibits in the lobby area. Exhibits use facsimile copies of original records held by the region in order to protect the original documents from harmful ultraviolet light. All of our exhibits are designed to educate visitors about the records we hold and how they may be of use to them. Exhibits are changed every two to three months and focus on a variety of topics. Call (816) 268-8071 for the exhibit schedule.

The Civil Rights/Civil Liberties exhibit examined several prominent court cases held in the National Archives - Central Plains Region.

About the National Archives

The National Archives and Records Administration is America's national record-keeper, a public trust on which our democracy depends. The records we hold play a vital role in our democracy. These records and millions of others give shape to the ideals outlined in the Declaration of Independence, the foundations of democracy laid down in the Constitution, and the freedoms guaranteed to American citizens by the Bill of Rights. Not only do they document the actions of Government, making accountability possible, they document individual rights and entitlements. They tell the story of who we are as a people. They reveal the courage, determination, and spirit that have shaped our democracy throughout its history.

For more information about any of the education programs mentioned in this brochure please contact:

National Archives and Records Administration
Central Plains Region
2312 E. Bannister Rd.
Kansas City, MO 64131
Phone: 816-268-8000
Email: kansascity.archives@nara.gov

Fashion Court

Advertisement for Queen Make dresses. The company was involved in a trademark dispute.

Found in our vast holdings from federal courts are a number of cases that involve, in one form or another, the fashion and beauty industry. Included in this exhibit are select cases that demonstrate the variety of lawsuits that have made their way through the legal system. Some involve well-known names, such as Levi Strauss, seeking patent protection. Others involve common citizens hoping to receive financial compensation following "beauty disasters," such as exploding bottles of nail polish and hair loss from permanents. And still more cases chronicle important events in the history of the labor movement and the rise of unions in the garment industry.

National Archives
Central Plains Region
2312 E. Bannister Rd.
Kansas City, MO 64131
816-268-8000

Featured Court Cases

All of the court cases featured in this exhibit are taken from Record Group 21, Records of the District Courts of the United States. For more information about any of the cases cited or other records, please call (816) 268-8000.

Page from a 1920 catalog of The National Cloak & Suit Company, a Kansas City company involved in a trademark dispute.

The Case of the Exploding Nail Polish

Florence Carlberg v. F.W. Woolworth Company
USDC for the District of South Dakota, Southern Division, Sioux Falls, S.D., Civil Case Files (1938-1963), Case #19.

A Hair Perm Gone Bad

Carol Bode, a minor, by Catherine Bode, her next friend v. The Gillette Company
USDC, Eastern District of Missouri, Eastern Division, St. Louis, Civil Case Files

(1938-57), Case #9126.

If It Doesn't Fit, You Must Acquit: Lace Mitts and Cotton Gloves

Rice Stix Dry Goods Co. v. The United States
USCC-Eastern District of Missouri, Eastern Division, St. Louis, Law & Equity (1838-1912), Case #9111.

What's in a Name?

National Cloak & Suit Company v. Joseph Sonken and Mose Silverman, co-partners doing business under the firm name and style of National Army Stores Company
USDC, Western Division of Western District of Missouri, Kansas City, Equity & Law Cases (1913-1938), Case #527.

Clothes Fit for a Queen

Isaac Ginsberg & Brothers, Inc. v. Queen Manufacturing Company
USDC, Eastern District of Missouri, Eastern Division, St. Louis, Equity & Law (1857-1938), Case #7432.

New and Useful Improvements in Undergarments

Winget Kickernick Company, and Mary D. Neilson v. The Strutwear Knitting Company, a Corporation
USDC for the District of Minnesota, Fourth Division, Minneapolis, MN, Equity Cases (1913-1938), Case #2812 .

The Case of the Patented Plastic Purse

Frances P. Syracuse v. H. Daust Manufacturing Company, a Corporation
USDC, Eastern District of Missouri, Eastern Division, St. Louis, Civil Action No. 10988 (2).

Patented Pantaloons

Levi Strauss v. Meyer Lindauer David Lindauer
USCC, Eastern District of Missouri, Eastern Division, St. Louis, Law, Equity & Criminal (1838-1912), Case #5147.

Union Made Clothes for the Working Man

Hamilton Carhartt v. Star Clothing Manufacturing Company, et al.
USCC, Western District of Missouri, Central Division, Jefferson City, Equity & Law Files (1879-1912), Case #2260.

The Patented Professional Hair Permanent Waving Tube Dispute

The S. Lemur Company v. W. G. Shelton Company
USDC, Eastern District of Missouri, Eastern Division, St. Louis, Equity & Law Files (1857-1938), Case #7738.

Advertisement for the Shelton Portable, a hair permanent machine involved in a patent dispute.

St. Louis Strikers and Scabs

Curlee Clothing Company v. Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, et al.
USDC, Eastern District of Missouri, Eastern Division, St. Louis, Equity & Law Files (1857-1938), Case #7170.

One of the Most Bitterly Contested Battles in American Labor History

Donnelly Garment Company, and Donnelly Sales Company, a Corporation v. International Ladies' Garment Workers, an Unincorporated Union, et al.
USDC, Western District of Missouri, Western Division, Kansas City, Equity & Law (1913-1938), Case #2924.

Strikers walking outside of the Curlee Clothing Company in St. Louis, Missouri.

Visit our website at:

Advertisement appearing in Vogue magazine in 1940 for Nelly Don dresses. The Donnelly Garment Company of Kansas City was involved in a lengthy legal dispute with the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

Nelly Don Travel Prints