

process and development of goals and measures ahead of the FY 2004 budget formulation cycle. Instead of requesting public comment for the first time after a new draft plan had been created, DOI chose to begin the process with internal and external focus group sessions in a "clean slate" approach. These sessions were held in Washington, D.C.; Denver, Colorado; and Albuquerque, New Mexico between December 2001 and February 2002. We integrated the information to produce the first plan drafts. Subsequently the plan has been subjected to additional critical review and evaluation through all levels of the Department. At this point, DOI wants to return our product to our external stakeholders and customers for review.

DOI has taken a major departure from its past approaches to strategic planning. Previously, Interior produced a set of ten GPRA strategic plans—an overview document and nine bureau or office plans. While the overview attempted to draw attention to areas of commonality among bureaus, Interior was still perceived as a "holding company" and concern lingered about the effectiveness of an agency functioning in a holding company fashion.

The DOI draft strategic plan will stand as the GPRA document for the entire agency. Commonality of mission function and desired results is given much greater weight than in previous plans. The Department has subscribed to the "logic model" approach of strategic planning in which results (end outcomes) are clearly identified and represent the first step in the plan development process. Measures are applied to end outcomes to provide a means of gauging success in achieving the desired results. Results are measured both long term and on an annualized basis. Supporting strategic (or intermediate outcomes) have also been established and are accompanied by specific performance measures. Bureau operating plans must be tied to both the intermediate and end outcome levels of the Departmental Plan.

This overall approach is aimed at greater integration of purpose and function across the Department and at achieving superior performance results. The Departmental strategic plan cannot include goals and measures for every discrete aspect of every program, but outcomes are written to encompass all of the programs identified in the Department's budget accounts. Greater specificity for discrete elements will be found in bureau level annual or long-term operating plans or in specific field planning documents, as appropriate.

Interior looks forward to your comments regarding our planning approach and draft strategic plan. We are asking that comments be submitted within 60 days of publication of this notice. The text of the draft plan is available in a "pdf" downloadable format through the DOI Internet Web site: <http://www.doi.gov/about.html>. For those who may not have internet access, a hard copy can be requested from the contact points listed in the ADDRESSES section.

Dated: February 14, 2003.

P. Lynn Scarlett,

Assistant Secretary—Policy, Management and Budget.

National Park Service

Winter Use Plan, Final Supplemental Environmental Impact Statement for the Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks and the John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Memorial Parkway, Wyoming and Montana

AGENCY: National Park Service, Department of the Interior.

ACTION: Notice of availability of a Final Supplemental Environmental Impact Statement for the Winter Use Plan for the Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks and the John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Memorial Parkway.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to section 102(c) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, the National Park Service announces the availability of Final Supplemental Environmental Impact Statement for Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks and the John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Memorial Parkway, Wyoming and Montana. The purpose for preparing the Plan/SEIS is to further the purposes of NEPA by soliciting more public comment and to consider additional information on new snowmobile technology not available at the time of the earlier decision. It analyzes 5 winter use management alternatives for the parks and evaluates the environmental consequences of the alternatives on wildlife, air quality, natural quiet, socioeconomics, and visitor experience.

Under alternative 1a-No Action, use and management practices in the parks and Parkway as decided by the November 22, 2000 record of decision for the Winter Use Plan, Final Environmental Impact Statement for the Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Memorial Parkway would continue. The decision eliminated recreational snowmobile and snowplane use from the parks and Parkway by the winter of 2003-2004. Oversnow motorized access would be provided by means of mass transit snowcoaches. Alternative 1b is essentially the same as alternative 1a with the exception that an additional year would be allowed for the phasing in of snowcoach only travel. Alternative 2 allows for the use of snowmobiles provided that EPA's proposed 2010 emission standards are met and sound levels do not exceed 78 decibels for publicly owned machines. It calls for a daily cap on numbers of snowmobiles and for increased NPS management of winter use. Alternative 3 provides for guided use of snowmobiles provided that best available technology standards for both emissions and noise levels are met for all machines. Alternative 4, the preferred alternative, allows for the use of guided snowmobiles and snowcoaches that meet best available technology standards for noise and air emissions. All alternatives emphasize an adaptive management strategy under which the number of snowmobiles allowed in the parks may be adjusted based on the results of monitoring and carrying capacity studies.

DATES: The National Park Service will execute a Record of Decision (ROD) no sooner than 30 days following publication by the Environmental Protection Agency of the notice of availability of the Final Environmental Impact Statement.

ADDRESSES: The FSEIS Winter Use Plans will be available on February 19, 2003 in the offices of the Yellowstone and Grand Teton Superintendents and on the Internet at <http://www.nps.gov/grte/winteruse/winteruse.htm>. Persons wishing to receive a copy of the document may contact the Yellowstone NP Planning Office: PO Box 168, Yellowstone, WY 82190.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Suzanne Lewis, Superintendent, Yellowstone National Park, (307) 344-2005.

Dated: January 14, 2003.
