Proposed Project

Quantitative Assessment of Internet Use and HIV-Related Risk Behavior Among Black and Latino Men Who Have Sex with Men—New—National Center for HIV, STD, and TB Prevention (NCHSTP), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

Background and Brief Description

CDC is requesting a two year approval from the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) to administer an epidemiological survey on the Internet. CDC is funding an Internet study that examines behaviors of gay-identified and nongay-identified Black and Latino men who have sex with men. The objectives of the study are threefold: (1) To determine if Black and Latino men who have sex with men (MSM) who use the Internet to meet sexual partners report greater HIV-related sexual and drug risks than those who do not; (2) to identify respondents' non-Internet sex-seeking behaviors, and (3) to explore to what degree Black and Latino MSM with Internet access view this medium as a potential tool for HIV prevention.

African American and Latino men, especially those men who have sex with men, continue to be an extremely vulnerable population affected by high rates of HIV/AIDS. The impact of HIV/AIDS on African American and Latino communities has been devastatingly disproportionate as compared to European American populations. Through December 2001, CDC reported that while African Americans represented only 12% of the total U.S. population, they accounted for almost 38% of all the AIDS cases. For all men, the exposure category of "men who have sex with men" represented the largest transmission route for HIV infection.

While existing studies show that Black and Latino MSM may be at greater risk for contracting and transmitting HIV/AIDS to partners, CDC knows little about Black and Latino MSM using the Internet and/or potential avenues for HIV prevention with this population since most of the studies conducted this far have been with White MSM samples. Data gathered from this study will guide CDC development of risk reduction programs for this high-risk population.

A convenience sample of 500 Black (African American, African-Latin, African-Caribbean, African, Mixed race) and 500 Latino (Caribbean, Central or South American ancestry) MSM will be asked to respond to a one-time survey of attitudes, knowledge and behavior related to Internet sex seeking behavior and HIV/STD (sexually transmitted disease) transmission. This survey will take approximately 20 minutes to complete and will include questions on the following topics: demographics (i.e., age, education, income, HIV status, etc.); sexual identity, racial/ethnic identity; homophobia; HIV/AIDS knowledge, attitudes, behavior; perceived HIV/AIDS susceptibility; STD history; characteristics of sexual partners and perceived HIV/AIDS susceptibility of sexual partners; risk behavior specific to online versus traditional venues; use of screen names and cruising sites; sexual compulsivity; substance use; time spent online and time spent sex seeking. There is no cost to the respondents other than their time.
