Full Text of Announcement

I. Funding Opportunity Description

Purpose of Program: This program promotes academic achievement and improves results for children with disabilities by supporting technical assistance, model demonstration projects, dissemination of useful information, and implementation activities that are supported by scientifically based research.

Priority: In accordance with 34 CFR 75.105(b)(2)(v), this priority is from allowable activities specified in the statute (see sections 663 and 681(d) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA)).

Absolute Priority: For FY 2005 this priority is an absolute priority. Under 34 CFR 75.105(c)(3), we consider only applications that meet this priority.

This priority is:

Technical Assistance Center on Evidence-Based Practices To Improve Early Literacy and Language Development of Young Children With Disabilities

Background: The process of developing literacy skills begins in the early childhood years. A growing body of evidence shows that early literacy skills, such as phonological processing, print awareness, and oral language are the foundations to later reading success. The recognition of the early childhood years as a critical period in developing the skills needed for later school success has been well documented in research literature. Several recent Federal initiatives, including the Early Reading First grants, the Good Start Grow Smart initiative, and the White House Summit on Early Childhood Cognitive Development in 2001, have highlighted the need for evidence-based practices that promote and support the development of school readiness skills, including early literacy.

In an effort to develop this research base, Federal resources have been directed to examine the impact different curricula, interventions, and programs have on young children's readiness skills, including early literacy and language skills (e.g., Preschool Curriculum Evaluation Research, Head Start Impact Study, Interagency School Readiness Consortium, and Evaluation of Early Reading First Grants). Current efforts are also underway to synthesize and disseminate this knowledge base (e.g., What Works Clearinghouse review of early childhood education, National Early Literacy Panel research synthesis, Child Care and Early Education Research Connections, and Research and Training Center in Early Childhood Development). The ultimate challenge in promoting the development of early literacy and language skills in young children is ensuring the various early care and education providers and families have access to and can utilize the most up-to-date research and information.

One group of children particularly at-risk for experiencing later reading difficulties is young children with developmental delays or diagnosed disabilities. Traditionally, early intervention and early childhood special education providers have focused on developmental and functional goals and have not necessarily addressed early literacy skills. The growing evidence base on the relationship between early literacy and later reading skills highlights the importance of working on early literacy for young children with developmental delays or diagnosed disabilities. Early literacy skills should be targeted with the recognition of the integrated nature of young children's development, within the context of broader early learning and development.

In an effort to encourage the focus on readiness skills for young children receiving services under IDEA, the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) developed child outcome indicators for programs under Part C and Part B that States must report on annually in the State Performance Plan (SPP) and Annual Performance Report (APR) required under section 616 of IDEA. These indicators include a focus on early literacy and language development. Specialized technical assistance will be needed to ensure early intervention and early childhood special education and related service providers are equipped with evidence-based interventions and practices that promote the development of early literacy and language skills in young children with disabilities.

Priority: The Technical Assistance Center on Evidence-Based Practice to Improve Early Literacy and Language Development of Young Children with Disabilities (the Center) is designed to build on the existing database of evidence-based and promising intervention practices and to identify, disseminate, and assist in the implementation of the most successful practices available that improve the early literacy and language outcomes of young children with disabilities. For purposes of this priority, young children with disabilities mean children from birth through age five with developmental delays and diagnosed disabilities. The Center must provide the conceptual framework and research base for intervention practices and a cohesive decision-making model related to implementing those practices. In carrying out its activities, the Center must take into consideration the availability of professionals who can coordinate and deliver an effective and practical approach to technical assistance (TA) that providers and programs can adopt, TA efforts that support and enhance the use of evidence-based practices, and TA efforts that support Federal provisions for delivery of services to infants, toddlers, and preschool children with disabilities under Part C and Part B of IDEA.

The Center's knowledge and development activities must include but are not limited to:

(a) Developing a conceptual framework for the work of the Center that includes an evidence base for intervention practices that have been shown to improve early literacy and language outcomes in the context of broader early learning and development, and a cohesive decision-making model related to implementing those practices.

(b) Developing a national TA network comprised of a cadre of experts to provide TA to States in early language and literacy development for young children with disabilities. In their applications, applicants must describe the network and identify the cadre of experts.

(c) In year 1 of the project period, conducting or identifying research syntheses on interventions that have been shown to improve the early literacy and language outcomes for young children with disabilities, and increase the likelihood that they will enter school ready to succeed and participate in classrooms with their typically developing peers. To the extent possible, the Center should use criteria from the What Works Clearinghouse and other rigorous sources in determining what is "evidenced-based". The research syntheses conducted or identified must at a minimum include research synthesis on:

(1) Developmentally appropriate interventions for young children with disabilities that target the critical components of early literacy, such as phonological processing, print awareness, oral language, and the motivational aspects of early literacy.

(2) Curricula with a research base for young children that include a focus on early literacy and language and how these curricula can be successfully modified, adapted, or individualized for young children with disabilities. These curricula could primarily target early literacy and language or be part of an integrated approach focused on the development of language, early literacy and other pre-academic skills, social behavior, and social-emotional competence necessary for later academic learning and achievement.

(3) The delivery of evidence-based interventions and curricula targeting early literacy and language in a variety of inclusive and natural early childhood environments.

(4) The delivery of family-focused interventions targeting early literacy and language for children receiving services under Part C of IDEA.

(5) Empirically-based assessment practices, including the use of valid and reliable curriculum-based assessments and measures (CBA/CBM) for improving early literacy and language, monitoring individual growth and progress, data-based decisionmaking, aggregating individual child data to evaluate program efforts, and coordinating assessments with State early learning or school readiness standards targeting early literacy and language.

(6) TA strategies that lead to knowledge utilization, sustainable changes in practice, and improved outcomes.

The Center's TA and dissemination activities must include but are not limited to:

(a) Providing general TA and information on evidence-based interventions and practices that promote the development of early literacy and language skills for young children with disabilities to all interested States and other stakeholders. This general TA must reflect the on-going work of the Center by providing up-to-date information on practices that enhance early literacy and language development of young children with disabilities through a variety of TA and dissemination activities (e.g., Web site; listserv; presentations at national, regional, or State conferences; conducting national training institutes, etc.). The Center's training and support must develop the capacity of service providers to use high quality, evidence-based interventions and practices in the various settings where young children with disabilities are served including home, typical early childhood settings, and early intervention/early childhood special education settings. For children receiving services under Part C of IDEA the focus must be on family-focused interventions.

(b) In years 1 and 2 of the project period, identifying and/or developing and evaluating models that successfully implement evidence-based or promising practices and interventions that promote the development of early literacy and language in young children with disabilities in a minimum of five local communities. Models must be identified or developed for providers and programs serving young children with disabilities receiving services under Part C and Part B of IDEA. Models developed or identified must include sites where providers and programs serve young children with disabilities in a variety of settings and sites in various types of communities (rural, urban, suburban, etc.) serving diverse groups of children. Models must include the creation and implementation of professional development plans that enhance early childhood professionals' implementation of evidence-based and high quality interventions and practices. Professional development plans must include early intervention and early childhood special education providers and may include other early care and education providers serving young children with disabilities, such as providers in Head Start/Early Head Start, child care, Title I-funded school-based preschool, and State funded pre-K programs. The Center should be attentive to factors that facilitate fidelity of implementation and are necessary to sustain the model.

(c) In years 3, 4, and 5 of the project period, facilitating the development of State-wide or regional TA networks specifically focused on increasing the use of evidence-based practices that improve the early literacy and language outcomes of young children with disabilities by scaling-up evidence-based models and practices. These TA networks must include building a system for training and supporting State-funded or program-funded "coaches" who provide TA to regional, State, and local early intervention and early childhood special education programs and providers and other early childhood professionals serving young children with disabilities (such as Head Start/Early Head Start, child care, Title I-funded school-based preschool, and State-funded pre-K programs). These TA networks also must include State and local early childhood program administrators (Part C and Part B, Section 619 coordinators, child care administrators, Head Start administrators, Pre-K administrators), families, early childhood professional development experts (including community colleges and other IHEs), researchers, early childhood TA experts, and others. The Center must allocate sufficient resources and time to develop strong TA networks and must give priority to working with States most in need. Applicants must describe in their applications the process and criteria for choosing the States with whom they will work and should consider child outcome data reported on State APRs.

This selection process must involve consultation with OSEP.

(d) Developing and implementing a plan for involving and communicating with families in the work of the Center. This plan must be developed in collaboration with OSEP-funded parent programs, including representatives from both the Parent Training and Information Centers and the Community Parent Resource Centers funded by the Department under sections 671 and 672 of IDEA, and must include strategies to ensure involvement and communication with diverse and hard-to-reach families. The Center also must—

(a) Coordinate the Center's and the TA networks' activities with existing and future IDEA-funded early intervention and early childhood special education TA and research centers. The Center must build on the work of other successful federally funded early childhood projects where applicable. The Center must coordinate activities with the National Early Childhood Technical Assistance Center (NECTAC), the Regional Resource Centers (RRCs), and the Early Childhood Outcomes (ECO) Center, and build on the work of the Research and Training Center in Early Childhood Development;

(b) Coordinate the Center's and the TA networks' activities with other national, regional, State, and local early childhood training and TA efforts, including but not limited to such efforts targeting Head Start/Early Head Start, child care, Title I school-based preschool programs, and State-funded pre-K programs;

(c) Establish, maintain, and meet at least annually with a national advisory group that includes families, early intervention and early childhood special education providers, early literacy experts, national early childhood organizations, and community members involved with young children with disabilities. The national advisory group will be responsible for providing annual feedback on the plans, activities, and accomplishments of the Center;

(d) Evaluate the Center's and TA networks' activities. The Center must measure the impact of TA activities on early childhood professionals and families. Specifically, the Center must document what practitioners and families learn and how TA affected their interactions with young children with disabilities;

(e) Maintain a Web site that is available to early childhood professionals and families and includes all TA materials prepared by the Center in a format that meets a government or industry-recognized standard for accessibility; and

(f) Maintain on-going communication with the OSEP project officer, including monthly conference calls. Budget for a three-day Project Directors' meeting in Washington, DC during each year of the project plus additional two-day trips annually to Washington, DC to attend additional national meetings and to meet and collaborate with the OSEP Project Officer and other funded projects for purposes of cross-project collaboration and information exchange.

Fourth and Fifth Years of the Project: In deciding whether to continue funding the Center for the fourth and fifth years, the Secretary will consider the requirements of 34 CFR 75.253(a), and in addition—

(a) The recommendation of a review team consisting of experts selected by the Secretary, which review will be conducted during the last half of the project's second year in Washington, DC. Projects must budget for travel expenses associated with this one-day intensive review;

(b) The timeliness and effectiveness with which all requirements of the negotiated cooperative agreement have been or are being met by the Center; and

(c) The degree to which the project promotes best practices in the area of services to young children with disabilities.

Waiver of Proposed Rulemaking: Under the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) (5 U.S.C. 553), the Department generally offers interested parties the opportunity to comment on a proposed priority. However, section 681(d) of IDEA makes the public comment requirements under the APA inapplicable to the priority in this notice.

Beaches Environmental Assessment and Coastal Health Act

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency.

ACTION: Notice of Availability of Grants for Implementation of Coastal Recreation Water Monitoring and Public Notification under the Beaches Environmental Assessment and Coastal Health Act.

SUMMARY: The Beaches Environmental Assessment and Coastal Health (BEACH) Act, signed into law on October 10, 2000, amended the Clean Water Act (CWA), to incorporate provisions to reduce the risk of illness to users of the Nation's recreational waters. Section 406(b) of the CWA, as amended by the BEACH Act, authorizes the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to award program development and implementation grants to eligible States, Territories, Tribes, and local governments to support microbiological monitoring of coastal recreation waters, including the Great Lakes, that are adjacent to beaches or similar points of access used by the public. BEACH Act grants also support development and implementation of programs to notify the public of the potential exposure to disease-causing microorganisms in coastal recreation waters. EPA encourages coastal and Great Lakes States and Territories to apply for BEACH Act grants for program implementation (referred to as implementation grants) to implement effective and comprehensive coastal recreation water monitoring and public notification programs. EPA also encourages coastal and Great Lakes Tribes to apply for BEACH Act grants for program development (referred to as development grants) to develop effective and comprehensive coastal recreation water monitoring and public notification programs.

DATES: States and Territories must submit applications on or before April 11, 2006. Eligible Tribes should notify the relevant Regional BEACH Act grant coordinator of their interest in applying on or before March 13, 2006. Upon receipt of a Tribe's notice of interest, EPA will establish an appropriate application deadline.

ADDRESSES: You must send your application to the appropriate Regional Grant Coordinator listed in this notice under SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION section VI.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Rich Healy, 1200 Pennsylvania Ave., NW., (4305T), Washington, DC 20460, 202-566-0405, healy.richard@epa.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Grant Program

What Is the Statutory Authority for BEACH Act Grants?

The general statutory authority for BEACH Act grants is section 406(b) of the Clean Water Act, as amended by the BEACH Act, Public Law No. 106-284, 114 Stat. 970 (2000). It provides: "The Administrator may make grants to States and local governments to develop and implement programs for monitoring and notification for coastal recreation waters adjacent to beaches or similar points of access that are used by the public." CWA section 406(b)(2)(A), however, limits EPA's ability to award grants only to those States, Tribes and Territories that meet certain requirements (see section II, Funding and Eligibility, below for information on specific requirements).

What Activities Are Eligible for Funding Under the FY 2006 Grants?

In fiscal year 2006, EPA intends to award grants authorized under CWA section 406(b) to eligible States and Territories to support the implementation of coastal recreation water monitoring and public notification programs that are consistent with EPA's required performance criteria for implementation grants. Also in fiscal year 2006, EPA intends to award development grants to eligible Tribes to support the development of coastal recreation water monitoring and public notification programs that are consistent with EPA's performance criteria for grants. EPA published the required performance criteria for grants in National Beach Guidance and Required Performance Criteria for Grants, (EPA-823-B-02-004), on July 19, 2002. A notice of availability of the document was published in the Federal Register (67 FR 47540, July 19, 2002). This document can be found on EPA's Web site at <http://www.epa.gov/waterscience/beaches/grants>. Copies of the document may also be obtained by writing, calling, or e-mailing: Office of Water Resources Center, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Mail

Code 4100T, 1200 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20460. (Phone: 202-566-1731 or e-mail: center.water-resource@epa.gov).

II. Funding and Eligibility

Who Is Eligible To Apply for These Implementation Grants?

Coastal and Great Lake States that meet the requirements of CWA section 406(b)(2)(A) are eligible for grants in fiscal year 2006 to implement monitoring and notification programs. The definition of the term "State" in CWA section 502 includes the District of Columbia, and current U.S. Territories: the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.

Are Local Governments Eligible for Funding?

CWA section 406(b)(2)(B) authorizes EPA to make a grant to a local government for implementation of a monitoring and notification program only if, after the one-year period beginning on the date of publication of the performance criteria (July 19, 2002), EPA determines that the State within which the local government has jurisdiction is not implementing a program that meets the requirements of CWA section 406(b), which includes a requirement that the program is consistent with the performance criteria in National Beach Guidance and Required Performance Criteria for Grants. Local governments may contact their EPA Regional office for further information about BEACH Act grants.

How May Tribes Apply for BEACH Act Development Grants and How Much Funding Is Available for Tribes?

Section 518(e) of the CWA authorizes EPA to treat eligible Indian Tribes in the same manner as States for the purpose of receiving CWA section 406 grant funding. For fiscal year 2006, EPA will make $50,000 available for development grants to eligible Tribes. In order to be eligible for a CWA section 406 development grant, a Tribe must have coastal recreation waters adjacent to beaches or similar points of access that are used by the public. The phrase "coastal recreation waters" is defined in CWA section 502(21) to mean the Great Lakes and marine coastal waters (including coastal estuaries) that are designated under CWA section 303(c) for use for swimming, bathing, surfing, or similar water contact activities. The statute explicitly excludes from the definition inland waters and waters
