

such choice, the logical conclusion is that the authors envisaged that the resulting transaction value would be the same whether the importation involves a single sale or a series of sales (i.e., transaction value would normally be determined based on the price paid by the buyer in the country of importation). Otherwise, they would have either specified how transaction value should be determined in a series of sales situation or provided an explicit choice to Members.

Practical Consideration

26. In practice, the Customs administration may face difficulties in verifying information, including accounting records, related to the first sale when such information is held by the foreign intermediary or seller. This could include, for example, information and accounting records pertaining to the total payment made by the foreign intermediary to the seller and the Article 8 adjustments. Such difficulties are alleviated when the last sale is applied.

5. Conclusion

27. The Technical Committee is of the view that the underlying assumption of Article 1 is that normally the buyer would be located in the country of importation and that the price actually paid or payable would be based on the price paid by this buyer. The Technical Committee concludes that in a series of sales situation, the price actually paid or payable for the imported goods when sold for export to the country of importation is the price paid in the last sale occurring prior to the introduction of the goods into the country of importation, instead of the first (or earlier) sale. This is consistent with the purpose and overall text of the Agreement.

28. In the example, consistent with the conclusion, the sale between A and B represents such a sale. Therefore, the price actually paid or payable for the imported goods when sold for export to country I is 10,000 c.u. (the price A pays B in the last sale).

29. Accordingly, the 1,200 c.u. payment from A to B represents proceeds of a subsequent resale of the imported goods that accrues directly or indirectly to the seller under Article 8.1(d) that must be added to the price actually paid or payable in determining transaction value.
