U.S.-Korea Free Trade Agreement Wyoming Farmers Will Benefit

September 2008

The United States concluded free trade negotiations with Korea on April 1, 2007. The U.S.-Korea Free Trade Agreement (KORUS FTA) is the most commercially significant free trade agreement the United States has negotiated in nearly 20 years.

The KORUS FTA provides immediate elimination of duties on more than 60 percent of current U.S. exports and gives U.S. exporters improved access to the Korean market for many of the products that have been highly protected. The U.S. International Trade Commission estimates that annual U.S. agricultural exports to Korea will increase by a minimum of $1.9 billion upon full implementation of the agreement.

The agreement eliminates tariffs and other barriers on most agricultural products, increasing export opportunities for a range of Wyoming's agricultural products, including beef, vegetables, and wheat and barley. Wyoming's agricultural exports to all countries, estimated at $61 million in 2007, supported about 690 jobs, on and off the farm. These export sales make an important contribution to the Wyoming farm economy, which had total cash receipts of $1 billion in 2007.

Beef. The cattle and calf industry accounts for three-fourths of Wyoming farm cash receipts, with sales of $744 million in 2007. This industry will benefit from this FTA.

- For beef muscle meats, the FTA provides a 15-year straight-line tariff phase out with a safeguard that begins growing from 270,000 tons, a quantity that is 17 percent larger than our largest historical shipments.
- Technical consultations continue toward the goal of allowing imports to take place consistent with World Organization for Animal Health (OIE) guidelines.
- Following the May 2007 decision by the OIE classifying the United States as a controlled-risk country, Korea has announced that it will undertake in a timely manner its regulatory process toward expansion of market access for beef and beef products.

Wheat and Barley. In 2007, cash receipts for wheat and barley were $20 million and $15 million, respectively. The state's wheat and product exports were estimated at $11 million in 2007. Wyoming's wheat and barley producers will benefit from this FTA.

- An unlimited amount of U.S. wheat for milling can enter Korea duty free upon implementation of the agreement.
- Korea's imports of U.S. wheat will no longer be subject to Korea's 1.8-percent tariff or its autonomous tariff-rate quota (TRQ) of 1 percent.
- Although this tariff differential may be small, it provides a small tariff advantage when competing against Canada and Australia.
- A new 2,500-ton duty-free quota established for unhulled and naked barley that will give the United States a tariff advantage over competitors (Australia and China).
- A new 9,000-ton duty-free quota established for unroasted malt and/or malting barley provides the United States with 10- and 20-percent tariff advantages, respectively, over our competitors.

Feed Grains. With about $18 million in sales in 2007, Wyoming corn producers will benefit from this agreement.

- U.S. exports of corn for feed will be duty-free immediately. Korea is currently the fourth largest market for U.S. corn for feed.
- The FTA includes a new 93,774-ton duty-free quota for corn for processing that grows quickly to 393,849 tons by year 7, after which quantities will be unrestricted.

Vegetables and Pulses. Wyoming exported about $4 million in vegetables in 2007 and this industry will benefit from this FTA.

- Frozen potato fries and chipping potatoes (during the U.S. potato shipping season) will become duty free immediately.
- A new 3,000-ton duty-free quota for fresh potatoes and a new 5,000-ton duty-free quota for dehydrated potatoes will bring opportunities for growers.
- The current 27-percent tariff on most pulses (peas, beans, and other legumes) will be eliminated within 5 years while the tariff for lentils will be removed within 10 years.
