<sup>c</sup>Children are reported only once within each column. However, the same child may be reported in more than one column if he/she was involved in two or more incidents. In addition, the children reported in the final column (Multiples sum to > 10 days) are a subset of the children reported in the third column (> 10 days in school year).

<sup>d</sup>Children are reported only once within each column. However, the same child may be reported in more than one column if he/she was involved in two or more incidents. In addition, the children reported in the final column (Multiples sum to > 10 days) are a subset of the children reported in the third column (> 10 days in school year).

Notes: See Part B Discipline Data Notes for an explanation of individual state differences.

<sup>c</sup>Children are reported only once within each column. However, the same child may be reported in more than one column if he/she was involved in two or more incidents. In addition, the children reported in the final column (Multiples sum to > 10 days) are a subset of the children reported in the third column (> 10 days in school year).
