Dear Guardians of the Health and Safety of Americas Food Supply,

I used to be polite when writing letters because I assumed that the FDA and USDA were acting in the interest of citizens according to the principles of a democratic society.

Now I'm just furious. The abdication or even collusion of these "governmental organizations" mission to the will of the faceless and careless corporate rapists who would use the citizens as test subjects in a huge (and profitable) experiment to see if they can withstand GMO foods, against their will and without their knowledge, is simply criminal.

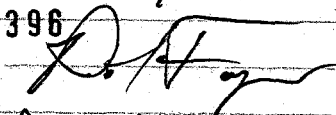

Its inhumane, its fascist, its evil. It would only occur in a dictatorship or a country which allowed corporations to control these types of laws and policies without taking any responsibility.

Any failure on your part to protect the citizens interests by clearly labelling all food ~~with~~ <sup>having</sup> any genetically modified ingredients would constitute accessory on your part. The short comment period alone is an abomination and a mockery of public participation.

Have you no shame?
