

Oilseeds: World Markets and Trade

Brazil's Soybean Export Growth Limited by Expanding Domestic Use

Brazil's soybean exports have stagnated in recent years as domestic use of soybean meal and oil has grown. Brazil has emerged showing the second largest growth in soybean meal use, accounting for 14 percent of total growth in global soybean meal consumption. A growing economy and expanding exports of pork and poultry are driving consumption. Rising biodiesel production, up 12-fold since 2006, is adding significantly to soybean oil consumption growth. The increase in the admixture mandate to 3 percent, effective July, will likely accelerate further expansion in biodiesel production and soybean oil use.

Oilseed: Key Changes October 2008

- Argentine soybean crush reduced for 2007/08 and 2008/09 as export demand for soybean products fall. Weaker than expected demand for soybean meal and oil resulted in a lowering of crush for 2007/08 and 2008/09. Crush was reduced 0.45 million tons for 2007/08 and 0.5 million in 2008/09.
- Argentina's 2008/09 soybean export forecast is raised 0.5 million tons due to as tight supplies in the United States and Brazil.
- EU27 soybean imports are lowered for 2007/08 and 2008/09. Imports for 2007/08 are lowered 0.4 million tons to 15.0 million tons based on the first 10 months of imports and on lower shipments out of key exporting countries. For 2008/09, imports are lowered 0.2 million tons to 14.2 million due mainly to increased rapeseed and sunflower seed supplies. The projected lower imports reduce soybean crush to 13.5 million tons.
- Ukraine's 2007/08 sunflower seed meal exports are raised 0.2 million tons to 1.3 million tons as the first 10 months of exports exceeded the current projection. Ukraine exports mainly to the EU and other neighboring countries.
- Global 2008/09 palm oil trade estimates are lowered. China and India's palm oil import forecasts are reduced 0.3 and 0.1 million tons, respectively. Correspondingly, 0.2 million tons of exports were removed from both Malaysia's and Indonesia's forecasts.
- China's 2008/09 soybean oil import forecast is lowered 0.1 million tons in response to a slowing in China's total vegetable oil consumption growth.
