Subject: Comments on New Proposed ARM Disclosure and Illustrations

I fully support the new illustrations. As a broker, it has been my duty to fully explain these potential ARM changes, but I know that other loan Officers do not necessarily take up that same duty. To that end, these illustrations will make it easier for clients to understand what they are signing up for, and how their loan product works. If you are a clear and honest Loan officer, then you can use these to fully get your client on-board with such a program, if such a program is right for them. If you aren't honest, then these will cause problems for you.
