To maximize efficiencies and effectiveness, legislative language is being proposed which will merge the Treasury Inspector General and the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration into a new Inspector General office, called the Inspector General for Treasury. The new organization will have all of the same powers and authorities as its predecessors have under current law.

The Inspector General for Treasury conducts and supervises audits, investigations, and evaluations to assess the operations and programs of the bureaus and offices of the Department of the Treasury. It (1) promotes the economy, efficiency, and effectiveness of Departmental programs and operations by preventing fraud, waste, and abuse in those programs and operations, (2) keeps the Secretary and the Congress fully and currently informed of these issues and the progress made toward resolving them, (3) reviews existing and proposed legislation and regulations relating to the programs and operations of the Department, and makes recommendations concerning the impact of such legislation and regulations on the economy and efficiency in the administration of programs and operations of the Department of the Treasury. The audit function provides program audit, contract audit, information technology audit, and financial statement audit services. Program audits review and audit all facets of agency programs and operations and related entities. Contract audits provide professional advice to agency contracting officials on accounting and financial matters relative to negotiation, award, administration, repricing, and settlement of contracts. Information technology audits review all aspects of the acquisition, implementation, and security of electronic systems. Financial statement audits assess whether financial statements fairly present the agency's financial condition and results of operations, the adequacy of accounting controls, and compliance with laws and regulations. These audits contribute significantly to improved financial management by helping Treasury managers identify improvements needed in their accounting and internal control systems. The evaluations function reviews program performance and issues critical to the mission of the Department of the Treasury, including assessing the Department's implementation of the Government Performance and Results Act. The investigative function provides for the detection, investigation of and protection against improper and illegal activities involving programs, personnel, and operations of Department of the Treasury including external attempts to corrupt or threaten their employees, systems and facilities.

The Budget does not seek additional funding for Expanded Access to Financial Services, though the program will continue to operate on unobligated balances of budget authority. Appropriated amounts from 2002 remain unavailable, however, as the program lacks congressional authorization.

temporary Terrorism Insurance Program to be administered by the Department of the Treasury. Under the program, the Federal Government is responsible for paying 90 percent of the insured losses arising from acts of terrorism above the applicable insurer deductible and below the $100 billion annual cap.

The budget includes estimates of the general administrative costs of the program. Given the uncertainty surrounding the risk of future terrorist attacks, the budget does not include estimates of the timing or magnitude of potential insurance claims under the program, which is scheduled to sunset on December 31, 2005. Any such claims would be paid from permanent, indefinite authority and would not require subsequent appropriations.

Public Law 102–393 authorized the establishment of the Treasury Forfeiture Fund. It is available to pay or reimburse certain costs and expenses related to seizures and forfeitures that occur pursuant to the Treasury Department's law enforcement activities. The Coast Guard also participates in the program. The Treasury Forfeiture Fund is being transferred to the Department of Justice Asset Forfeiture Fund in 2004. Proposed legislation to effect this transfer will follow.

Matching funds in primaries.—Upon certification by the Federal Election Commission, every candidate eligible to receive payments is entitled to receive $250 in Federal matching funds for each eligible $250 private contribution received after the beginning of the calendar year immediately preceding the election year through the end of the calendar year of the election.

Nominating conventions of parties.—Upon certification by the Commission, payments may be made to the national committee of a major party or a minor party which elects to receive its entitlement. The total of such payments will be limited to the amount in the account at the time of payment. The national committee of each party may receive payments beginning on July 1 of the year immediately preceding the calendar year in which a presidential nominating convention of the political party is held. By statute, the two major parties receive $4 million each, plus a cost-of-living increase. In 2000, both parties received $13.5 million for their nominating conventions.

Candidates for general elections.—By statute, the eligible candidates of each major party in a presidential election are entitled to equal payments in an amount which, in the aggregate, shall not exceed $20 million each, plus a cost-of-living increase. In 2000, this amounted to $67.6 million for each candidate.

Also, provision is made for new parties, minor parties and candidates, who may receive in excess of 5 percent of the popular vote and therefore be entitled to reimbursement of qualified campaign expenditures.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to deal in gold and foreign exchange and other instruments of credit and securities as deemed necessary, consistent with U.S. obligations in the International Monetary Fund (IMF), regarding orderly exchange arrangements and a stable system of exchange rates. An Exchange Stabilization Fund, with a capital of $200 million, is authorized by law for this purpose (31 U.S.C. 5302). All earnings and interest accruing to this fund are available for the purposes thereof. Transactions in special drawing rights (SDR's) and U.S. holdings of SDR's are administered by the fund. U.S. drawings from the IMF, if any, are also advanced to the fund.

The principal sources of the fund's income have been profits on foreign exchange transactions and earnings on investments held by the fund, including interest earned on fund holdings of U.S. Government securities.

The amounts reflected in the 2002 and 2003 estimates entail only projected net interest earnings on Exchange Stabilization Fund (ESF) assets. The estimates are subject to considerable variance, depending on changes in the amount and composition of assets and the interest rates applied to investments. In addition, exchange rate fluctuations can cause the dollar value of income received on foreign currency and SDR investments to fluctuate. Moreover, estimates make no attempt to forecast gains or losses reflecting SDR valuation or foreign currency valuation. As required by Public Law 95–612, the fund is not used to meet the administrative expenses.

Department of the Treasury was chosen as a pilot Franchise Fund under P.L. 103–356, the Government Management and Reform Act of 1994. Begun in 1997, financial and administrative services included in the Franchise Fund (Fund) are financed on a fee-for-service basis. Treasury's Fund is a revolving fund used to supply financial and administrative services on the basis of services supplied. For 2004, service activities are expected to have spending authority of $384 million and employ 543 people.

Activities included in the Fund are financial training, accounting cross-servicing, and various administrative support services. The Fund concept is intended to increase competition for government and financial administrative services, resulting in lower costs and higher quality.

The Riegle Community Development and Regulatory Improvement Act of 1994 established the Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFI) Fund. The CDFI Fund provides equity investments, grants, loans, and technical assistance to new and existing community development financial institutions (CDFIs) such as community development banks, community development credit unions, community development loan and venture capital funds, and microenterprise loan funds. Funds provided by the CDFI Fund will enhance the capacity of these institutions to finance economic development, including small businesses, community facilities, housing, and other community development initiatives in distressed urban, rural, Native American, Native Hawaiian, and Alaska Native communities. The CDFI Fund also provides grants to insured depository institutions to facilitate investment in CDFIs and increase community lending activities. In addition, the CDFI Fund administers the New Markets Tax Credit Program by providing allocations of tax credits to Community Development Entities (CDEs) which in turn provide the tax credits to entities which invest in the CDEs. The Fund is seeking reauthorization of its activities under the Community Development Banking and Financial Institutions Act.

The CDFI Fund helps to address the urgent problems of declining economic and social infrastructure, loss of jobs, lack of private enterprise, and deteriorating housing facing many American communities today. Government investment and technical assistance supplements private funds and expertise to ensure that CDFIs are effective in restoring and creating healthy economies.

FinCEN, created in 1990 and elevated to bureau status in 2001, supports law enforcement investigations to prevent and detect money laundering, terrorist financing, and other financial crimes. FinCEN links law enforcement, financial, and regulatory communities into a single information-sharing network. Using Bank Secrecy Act (BSA) information reported by banks and other financial institutions, FinCEN serves as the nation's central clearinghouse for broad-based financial intelligence and information sharing on money laundering. This information helps illuminate the financial trail for investigators to follow as they track criminals and their assets.

Investigative Analysis, BSA Administration, and International Activities.—Through their investigative analysis efforts, FinCEN provides support for the investigation and prosecution of law enforcement cases at the Federal, state, local and international levels, using financial data collected under the BSA, as well as other commercial and law enforcement information. FinCEN serves as a catalyst for research, analysis, and dissemination of information on money laundering methods and trends through joint case analysis with law enforcement, integration of all source information and the application of state-of-art data processing techniques. FinCEN also establishes policies to administer the BSA effectively while balancing the associated burden imposed on the regulated financial institutions. Internationally, FinCEN maintains indepth, country-specific expertise concerning money laundering, terrorist financing, and other financial crimes around the world to assist decision makers in developing and promoting U.S. government anti-money laundering policies. FinCEN also uses this expertise to promote the development of Financial Intelligence Units (FIUs) in other countries, and to facilitate investigative exchanges with them.

Regulatory Support Program, including Money Services Businesses.—This program supports new requirements to strengthen anti-money laundering controls with the money services business industry, casino, broker/dealer, securities, and other industries with new program or reporting requirements under the Bank Secrecy Act (BSA). The USA Patriot Act has expanded anti-money laundering program and reporting requirements to a number of industries previously not covered by the BSA. FinCEN will undertake programs to reach these new industry groups, as necessary. FinCEN will also continue efforts with the IRS, especially related to the money service business industry, to assure compliance, respond to public inquiries, distribute forms and publications, and support information processing of the BSA data.

Loan guarantee financing accounts receive various payments and fees and make payments on defaults. When cash balances result from an excess of receipts over outlays, these balances are deposited at the Treasury and earn interest. This account pays such interest to credit loan guarantee financing accounts from the general fund of the Treasury in accordance with section 505(c) of the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990. The estimates of interest paid by this fund are derived from the estimates of interest received in the various financing accounts.

The payment of interest on investments in Treasury securities that the Secretary of the Treasury suspended or redeemed during the "debt limit suspension period" that he declared during 2002. The statutes permit this action when Treasury is constrained by the statutory debt limit. They require that the Treasury restore all due interest and principal to these funds as soon as this can be done without exceeding the debt limit. A payment of interest was made to the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund for $15 million and the G-Fund within the Thrift Savings Fund for $168 million.

This account was created to provide loan guarantees for the construction of biomass-to-ethanol facilities, as authorized under Title II of the Energy Security Act. All of the loans guaranteed by this account went into default. The guarantees have been paid off, and the assets of all but one of the projects have been liquidated. The one remaining project, the New Energy Company of Indiana, continues to make payments to the Treasury on their loan, which the government acquired after paying off the guarantee.

The U.S. Customs Service collects duties assessed pursuant to a countervailing duty order, an anitdumping duty order, or a finding under the Antidumping Act of 1921. Under a provision enacted in 2000, the Customs Service currently distributes these duties to affected domestic producers. These distributions provide a significant additional benefit to procedures that already gain protection from the increased import prices provided by the tariffs. While the Administration does not believe that these payments are inconsistent with U.S. treaty obligations, legislative repeal of the provision would allow the funds to be directed to higher priority uses.

This fund was established as a permanent, indefinite appropriation in order to maintain adequate funding of the Check Forgery Insurance Fund (Fund). The Fund facilitates timely payments for replacement Treasury checks necessitated due to a claim of forgery. The Fund recoups disbursements through reclamations made against banks negotiating forged checks.

To reduce hardships sustained by payees of Government checks that have been stolen and forged, settlement is made in advance of the receipt of funds from the endorsers of the checks. If the U.S. Treasury is unable to recover funds through reclamation procedures, the Fund sustains the loss.

The Federal Financing Bank (FFB) was created in 1973 to reduce the costs of Federal and federally-assisted borrowing and to ensure the coordination of such borrowing from the public in a manner least disruptive to private financial markets and institutions. Prior to that time, many agencies borrowed directly from the private market to finance credit programs involving lending to the public at higher rates than on comparable Treasury securities. With the implementation of the Federal Credit Reform Act in 1992, however, agencies simply finance such loan programs through direct loan financing accounts that borrow directly from the Treasury. Therefore, FFB loans are now used primarily to finance direct agency activities such as construction of Federal buildings by the General Services Administration and meeting the financing requirements of the U.S. Postal Service. In certain cases, the FFB finances Federal direct loans to the public that would otherwise be made by private lenders and fully guaranteed by a Federal agency.

Lending by the FFB is set at 1/8 percent above Treasury rates and may take one of three forms, depending on the authorizing statutes pertaining to a particular agency or program: (1) the FFB may purchase agency financial assets; (2) the FFB may acquire debt securities that the agency is otherwise authorized to issue to the public; and (3) the FFB may originate direct loans on behalf of an agency by disbursing loans directly to private borrowers and receiving repayments from the private borrower on behalf of the agency. Because law requires that transactions by the FFB be treated as a means of financing agency obligations, the budgetary effect of the third type of transaction is reflected in the budget in the following sequence: a loan by the FFB to the agency, a loan by the agency to a private borrower, a repayment by a private borrower to the agency, and a repayment by the agency to the FFB.

Under a provision in the 1987 enabling legislation for the Agriculture Department's Cushion of credit payments program, the FFB receives substantially less interest each year on certain loans that it holds than it is contractually entitled to receive. This provision, however, does not reduce the amount of interest the FFB owes on its corresponding loans from Treasury. The shortfalls in interest received by the FFB as a result of the provision resulted in substantial losses to the FFB in the past. The FFB will likely experience future losses due to this provision.

The following table shows the annual net lending by the FFB by agency and program and the amount outstanding at the end of each year. In October 2002, the FFB redeemed $15 billion of debt that it had issued to the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund. The FFB repaid this debt by borrowing from the Treasury.

Two of the Administration's legislative proposals would affect the FFB's interest payments and balances of outstanding debt. First, proposed legislation reducing payments from the Postal Service to the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund would allow the Postal Service Fund to repay its loans from the FFB earlier than projected under current law. Second, proposed legislation in the Native American and Transitional Housing Direct Loan Program would eliminate its need to borrow through the FFB.

The Homeland Security Act created a new bureau within the United States Department of the Treasury charged with collecting revenue and protecting the public. This new bureau enforces the Federal laws and regulations relating to alcohol and tobacco by working directly and in cooperation with others to: (1) Maintain a sound revenue management and regulatory system that continues reducing taxpayer burden, improving service, collecting the revenue due and preventing tax evasion and other criminal conduct; and (2) Protect the public and prevent consumer deception in regulated commodities.

Performance measurements continue to be refined and improved in order to provide viable output and outcome measures for the bureau. The organization is participating in the American Customer Satisfaction Index with the University of Michigan to benchmark customer services satisfaction (e.g. Certificates of Label Approvals).

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing designs, manufactures, and supplies Federal Reserve notes, various public debt instruments, as well as most evidences of a financial character issued by the United States, such as postage and internal revenue stamps. The Bureau executes certain printings for various territories administered by the United States, particularly postage and revenue stamps.

The anticipated work volume is based on estimates of requirements submitted by agencies served. The program comprises the following activities:

Engraving and printing—

Currency.—Total deliveries of currency for 2003 and 2004 are estimated to be 8.2 and 8.5 billion respectively. During 2002, the Bureau delivered 7.0 billion Federal Reserve notes.

Stamps.—This category of work is comprised of postal and internal revenue stamps. The projected requirements of 2003 and 2004 are estimated to be 9.0 billion and 7.5 billion stamps, respectively. In 2002, the Bureau delivered 12.2 billion stamps.

Securities.—This program encompasses the production of a wide variety of bonds, notes, and debentures for the Bureau of Public Debt and certain other agencies of the Government.

Commissions, certificates, etc.—This program is comprised primarily of Presidential and Department of Defense commissions and certificates, White House invitations, and identification cards for various Government agencies. It represents a small portion of the Bureau's total workload.

Space utilized by other agencies.—Other agencies are charged for services provided in the space occupied in the Bureau's buildings.

Other miscellaneous services.—A wide variety of miscellaneous services are performed by Bureau personnel for other agencies, which are charged on an actual cost basis.

Purchase of operating equipment.—This category consists of new purchases and replacement of printing equipment and other related printing items.

Plant alterations and experimental equipment.—This category encompasses alterations made on the Bureau's buildings and purchases of experimental equipment.

The operations of the Bureau are currently financed by means of a revolving fund established in accordance with the provisions of Public Law 656, August 4, 1950 (31 U.S.C. 181), which requires the Bureau to be reimbursed by customer agencies for all costs of manufacturing products and services performed. The Bureau is also authorized to assess amounts to acquire capital equipment and provide for working capital needs. Bureau operations during 2002 resulted in a decrease to retained earnings of $29 million.

The United States Mint manufactures coins, sells numismatic and investment products, and provides for security and asset protection. Public Law 104–52, dated November 19, 1995, enacted 5136, of Subchapter III of chapter 51 of subtitle IV of title 31, United States Code established the United States Mint Public Enterprise Fund (the Fund). The Fund encompasses the previous Salaries and Expenses, Coinage Profit Fund, Coinage Metal Fund, and the Numismatic Public Enterprise Fund. The Mint submits annual audited business-type financial statements to the Secretary of the Treasury and to Congress in support of the operations of the revolving fund.

The operations of the Mint are divided into three major activities: Circulating Coinage; Numismatic and Investment Products; and Protection. The Mint is credited with receipts from its circulating coinage operations, equal to the full cost of producing and distributing coins that are put into circulation, including depreciation of the Mint's plant and equipment on the basis of current replacement value. From that, the Mint pays its cost of operations, which includes the costs of production and distribution. The difference between the face value of the coins and these costs are profit, which is deposited as seigniorage to the general fund. In 2002, the Mint transferred $1,030 million to the general fund. Any seigniorage used to finance the Mint's capital acquisitions is recorded as budget authority in the year that funds are obligated for this purpose, and as receipts over the life of the Circulating Coinage.—This activity funds the manufacture of circulating coins for sale to the Federal Reserve System as determined by public demand. In 2004, this activity will manufacture 13.8 billion coins for sale to the Federal Reserve System. In 1996, with the merger of the former Coinage Metal Fund into the Mint Public Enterprise Fund, the Mint began including the cost of metal in the Circulating Coinage activity.

Numismatic and Investment Products.—This activity funds the manufacture of numismatic and bullion coins, medals, and other products for sale to collectors and the general public. These coins include annual recurring programs such as proof and uncirculated sets, silver proof coins, the American Eagle gold and silver bullion uncirculated and proof coins, American Eagle platinum coins, and national and historic medals. The activity also includes nonrecurring programs for coins and medals which are legislated to commemorate specific events or individuals. In 2004, this activity will fund the Thomas A. Edison Commemorative Coin Program and the Lewis and Clark Expedition Commemorative Coin Program. In addition, the Fifty States Commemorative Coin Program Act authorized, beginning in 1999, the issuance of quarters for sale to the public and to the Federal Reserve System honoring each of the 50 states with a design emblematic of that state. These quarters will be issued in the order of each state's admission to the Union. The Mint will produce five different state quarter designs each year resulting in a 10-year program. All coins produced for this program are considered to be numismatic products (Public Law 105-124).

Protection.—This activity funds protection of the Government's stock of gold and silver bullion, coins, Mint employees and visitors, plant facilities and equipment, and all other Mint property against abuse, theft, damage, disorders, and all other unsafe or illegal practices by utilizing police officers and modern protective devices.

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

The mission of the Internal Revenue Service is to provide America's taxpayers top quality service by helping them understand and meet their tax responsibilities and by applying the tax law with integrity and fairness to all.

To achieve this mission, the Service has established three strategic goals. In order to achieve the first goal "Service to Each Taxpayer," the IRS will make filing easier, provide first quality service to each taxpayer needing help with his or her return or account, provide prompt, professional, helpful treatment to taxpayers in cases where additional taxes may be due, and improve taxpayer access to toll-free telephone assistance. Second, to achieve the goal of "Service to All Taxpayers," the IRS will increase fairness of compliance, and increase overall compliance. The Service will meet its third goal "Productivity Through a Quality Work Environment," by increasing employee job satisfaction and productivity while the economy grows and service improves.

Ensuring Fair Compliance: The IRS is shifting enforcement resources from lower income individual and small corporate returns to focus on higher income individual returns, tax shelters and abusive schemes. In addition, the Budget includes a $133 million initiative for 1,700 staff to help insure that compliance is enforced fairly for all taxpayers.

Reengineering of the Collection Process: The IRS goal is to collect all unpaid tax assessments that can be reasonably collected while protecting taxpayer rights through efficient, least burdensome techniques. The key to this goal is to identify taxpayer accounts with a high risk of non-payment as early as possible and to intervene immediately. To achieve this, the Budget proposes legislation to allow the use of contract collection agents. In addition, IRS is completely reengineering the collection process using new technology.

The IRS is changing the way it uses measures to focus attention on priorities, assess organizational performance and identify improvement opportunities. Management processes and activities are being realigned to ensure that they support the mission of the IRS and incorporate the principles of a balanced measurement system. Under this new approach, the framework for measuring organizational performance is aligned with its strategic goals and balances the Service's focus across three major areas: business results, customer satisfaction, and employee satisfaction, with business results being comprised of measures of quality and quantity.

The IRS has a long-term plan to raise performance in all dimensions of its mission by modernizing and reengineering all basic activities to conform to known best practices. In FY 2004, the IRS will improve performance primarily through better management and fundamental reengineering of business processes, and secondarily by increases in resources.

Business Systems Modernization: The Business Systems Modernization (BSM) appropriation provides for revamping business practices and acquiring new technology by a formal process of prioritization, approval, funding, and evaluation of an investment portfolio.

Telephone Level of Service: The goal is to provide service comparable to the best quality telephone based customer service organizations. This is measured by access, quality, and customer satisfaction. Success in these areas can be achieved by continuing implementation of our long-term plan which includes using technology to route telephone calls automatically to employees with specialized training.

Increased e-File/e-Services: Additional electronic filing options continue to produce long-term resource savings as we promote e-filed returns. Further savings will be realized during migration to an information- and transaction-based web site, facilitating more efficient communication with stakeholders.

Health Insurance Tax Credit Administration: The Budget includes a new account to fund the administrative costs of administering the new Trade Adjustment Assistance health insurance tax credit.

This appropriation provides for expanded customer service and public outreach programs, strengthened enforcement activities, and enhanced research efforts to reduce overclaims and erroneous filings associated with the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC)

The budget includes a $100 million initiative to implement an integrated approach to enhancing EITC administration. This approach recommended by Treasury's EITC Task Force would have claimants provide additional information to the IRS to validate eligibility before payment. Two principles underlie this approach: (1) the IRS will only refund EITC after there is clear information that the EITC filer is entitled to the EITC and (2) the IRS will use compliance and other available data to determine whether specific groups of claimants can be eliminated from certain certification requirements because they pose less risk. This approach promises to reduce non-compliance while minimizing burden and providing certainty to eligible claimants. A significant portion of the FY 2004 request will be used to develop new business processes and supporting technology infrastructure. Remaining funds will be used to begin the certification proposal with the recommendation of the EITC Task Force.

This appropriation provides for Servicewide information systems operations and maintenance, and investments to enhance or develop business applications for the IRS Business Units. The appropriation includes staffing, telecommunications, hardware and software (including commercial-off-the-shelf), and contractual services.

Information services.—This activity provides the salaries, benefits, and related costs to manage, maintain, and operate the information systems that support tax administration. The Service's business activities rely on these information systems to process tax and information returns, account for tax revenues collected, send bills for taxes owed, issue refunds, assist in the selection of tax returns for audit, and provide telecommunications services for all business activities including the public's toll free access to tax information. These systems are located in a variety of sites including the Martinsburg, Tennessee and Detroit Computing Centers; Service Centers; and in other field office operations. Staffing in this activity develops and maintains the millions of lines of programming code supporting all aspects of tax-processing; as well as operating and administering the Service's hardware infrastructure of mainframes, minicomputers, personal computers, networks, and a variety of management information systems.

Information systems improvement programs.—This activity funds improvements or enhancements to business applications. These investments conform to the modernized IRS architecture. These projects differ in scope from those funded by the Business Systems Modernization Program, which addresses major common tax administration systems.

As provided by law, there will be instances wherein the earned income tax credit will exceed the amount of tax liability owed through the individual income tax system, resulting in an additional payment to the tax filer. The Earned Income Credit was originally authorized by the Tax Reduction Act of 1975 (Public Law 94–12) and made permanent by the Revenue Adjustment Act of 1978 (Public Law 95–600). The Tax Reform Act of 1986 and the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Acts of 1990 and 1993 have increased the credit amount and expanded the eligibility for earned income credit.

The budget proposes to permanently extend the EITC provisions in the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001, which sunset on December 31, 2010. These provisions reduce EITC-related marriage penalties, simplify certain eligibility criteria for the credit, and allows the IRS to use more cost-efficient procedures to deny questionable EITC claims.

The Trade Act of 2002 established an advanceable, refundable tax credit for 65 percent of cost of qualified insurance. This credit is available to recipients of trade adjustment assistance (TAA) and Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation pension benefits who are aged 55-64 and have lost their employer health benefits.

To help lower income families purchase private health insurance, the budget includes a proposed new refundable tax credit for health insurance purchased by individuals and families who are neither covered by employer-sponsored insurance nor enrolled in public programs. This schedule reflects the effects of this proposed credit in cases where the credit exceeds the individual tax liability resulting in payment to the tax filer.

Under certain circumstances, as provided in 26 U.S.C. 6611, interest is paid on Internal Revenue collections that must be refunded. The Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 (Public Law 97-248) provides for daily compounding of interest. Under the Tax Reform Act of 1986 (Public Law 99-514), interest paid on Internal Revenue collections will equal the Federal short-term rate plus two percentage points, such rate to be adjusted quarterly.

This revolving fund was established pursuant to section 112(a) of the Federal Tax Lien Act of 1966, to serve as the source of financing the redemption of real property by the United States. During the process of collecting unpaid taxes, the government places a tax lien on real estate in order to protect the government's interest. Situations arise where property of this nature is collateral for other indebtedness and the tax lien is subordinate to the original indebtedness. In this circumstance, it is often to the government's interest to purchase the property during the foreclosure sale. The advantage arises when the property is worth substantially more than the first lienholder's equity but is being sold for an amount that barely covers that equity, thereby leaving no proceeds to apply against delinquent taxes. Under these circumstances, if the Government buys the property and subsequently puts it up for sale under more advantageous conditions, it is possible to realize sufficient profit on the transaction to fully or partially collect the amount of taxes due. The revolving fund is reimbursed from the proceeds of the sale in an amount equal to the amount expended from the fund for the redemption. The balance of the proceeds are applied against the amount of the tax, interest, penalties, and additions thereto, and for the costs of sale. The remainder, if any, would revert to the parties legally entitled to

As directed by the Internal Revenue Service Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998 (section 7802(d) 26 U.S.C.), the Internal Revenue Service Oversight Board shall annually review and approve a budget request for the Internal Revenue Service. The Oversight Board's approved request shall be submitted to the President by the Secretary without revision, and the President shall submit the request, without revision, to Congress together with the President's Budget request for the Internal Revenue Service. The 2004 Oversight Board budget recommendation for the Internal Revenue Service is $10,724 million.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

OFFICE OF THRIFT SUPERVISION Federal Funds 803

The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency was created for the purpose of establishing and regulating a national banking system. The National Currency Act of 1863 (12 U.S.C. 1 et seq., 12 Stat. 665) rewritten and reenacted as the National Bank Act of 1864, provided for the chartering and supervising functions in this connection. The income of the bureau is derived principally from assessments paid by national banks and interest on investments in U.S. Government securities.

As the Administrator of National Banks, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency charters new banking institutions only after investigation and due consideration of charter applications. Supervision of existing national banks is aided by the required submission of periodic reports and detailed onsite examinations, which are conducted by a staff of approximately 1,900 national bank examiners. At present, there are approximately 2,100 national banks and 52 Federal branches with total assets of more than $3.8 trillion.

In addition, the Comptroller considers applications for mergers in which the resulting bank will be a national bank and applications from banks to establish branches. The Comptroller of the Currency also promulgates rules and regulations for the guidance of national banks and bank directors.

The Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) was created by the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989 (12 U.S.C. 1811 note). The OTS assumed the regulatory functions of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board dissolved by the same act.

The OTS charters, regulates and examines Federal thrifts, all of which are insured by the Savings Association Insurance Fund. In addition, the OTS cooperates in the examination and supervision of State-chartered thrifts insured by the Savings Association Insurance Fund. The OTS sets capital standards for Federal and State thrifts and reviews applications of State-chartered thrifts for conversion to Federal thrifts. It also reviews applications for establishment of branch offices.

Income of the bureau is derived principally from assessments on thrifts, examination fees and interest on investments in U.S. Government obligations. As of September 30, 2002, OTS oversees 983 thrifts with total assets of $987 billion.
