NOTES

1 An instrument for the participation of the fishing entity Chinese Taipei in the Antigua Convention was signed on November 14, 2003, by the Representative of the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office in the United States (Article XXVIII (1)).

2 Declaration made upon signature of the Convention by El Salvador:

The Republic of El Salvador, in accordance with Article XVII, "RIGHTS OF STATES," of the Convention for the Strengthening of the Inter-American Tropical Tuna Commission Established by the 1949 Convention between the United States of America and the Republic of Costa Rica ("Antigua Convention"), issues the following interpretive declaration: (1) No clause of the above-referenced Convention may be interpreted in such a manner so as to impinge upon the rights of El Salvador in its marine and coastal zones, or in any other part of its territory, or in any way to imply a total or partial renunciation of its claims to maritime and insular zones and territories; (2) The Republic of El Salvador does not renounce, in whole or in part, its sovereignty and jurisdiction over, or rights to, territory, islands, inland waters, maritime spaces, or airspace that belong to it pursuant to its domestic legislation and international law; (3) The signing and entry into force of this Convention by States without coasts bordering the Eastern Pacific Ocean shall have no bearing on El Salvador's legal considerations with respect to the limits of its maritime spaces or maritime jurisdiction; and (4) It is the position of the Republic of El Salvador that any proposal, measure, draft, statement, law, or rules derived from the unilateral actions of one or more States to the detriment of its sovereignty and territorial rights and related to the application of provisions of the above-mentioned Antigua Convention may be rejected.

The Republic of El Salvador declares that it interprets Article XXVII(1)(d), "SIGNATURE," in reference to prior consultation with the Parties to the 1949 Convention, as meaning that if said Parties express unwillingness in this regard, this will prevent entry by the requesting State.

PROVISIONAL APPLICATION. The Republic of El Salvador declares that with regard to Article XXXII, "PROVISIONAL APPLICATION," the provisions of its domestic legislation shall apply.

The above declarations were included in El Salvador's instrument of ratification of the Convention.

3 Declaration made upon signature of the Convention by Nicaragua:

As it signs the Convention for the Strengthening of the Inter-American Tropical Tuna Commission established by the Convention of 1949, known as the Antigua Convention, the Republic of Nicaragua issues the following interpretive declaration:

1. None of the clauses of the above-mentioned Convention may be interpreted as in any way affecting or jeopardizing the rights of Nicaragua in its maritime and coastal zones, or in any other part of its territory, or as implying in any way a total or partial renunciation of its positions or claims with regard to maritime and insular zones and territories;
2. The Republic of Nicaragua does not renounce, in whole or in part, its sovereignty and jurisdiction over, or rights to, its territory, islands, islets, cays, adjacent banks, inland waters, territorial sea, contiguous zone, continental shelf, exclusive economic zone, and air space vested in it by domestic and international law;
3. The signature and entry into force of this Convention by non-Pacific coastal States does not in any way affect or jeopardize the stance or legal positions of Nicaragua with regard to the boundaries of its maritime spaces or its maritime jurisdiction, or in any way imply, directly or indirectly, any recognition of any claims they might have to specific maritime spaces.
4. The Republic of Nicaragua reserves the right to reject any proposal, measure, plan, declaration, law, or regulation derived from unilateral acts of one or more States.
