SUNNYVALE RESIDENT SENTENCED TO 12 MONTHS FOR TAX EVASION

Auto Repair Business Owner Ordered To Pay Restitution Of $163,498

SAN JOSE – United States Attorney Joseph P. Russoniello and Special Agent in Charge, IRS Criminal Investigation, Scott O'Briant announced that Dominic Chang was sentenced to four years of probation, including four months of community confinement and eight months of home confinement. Mr. Chang was also ordered to pay a $1,500 fine and $163,498 in restitution for tax evasion. This sentence is the result of an investigation by the Internal Revenue Service - Criminal Investigation.

Mr. Chang pleaded guilty on January 30, 2008 to three counts of tax evasion. In pleading guilty, Mr. Chang admitted that he owned and operated Dominic's Auto Service, in Milpitas, California during 1999, 2000 and 2001. Mr. Chang filed individual income tax returns reporting taxable income of zero for the calendar years 1999, 2000 and 2001 but knew that his taxable income for the said calendar years was $48,561, $185,607 and $218,536, respectively. For the 1999, 2000, and 2001 tax years Mr. Chang failed to pay federal income taxes in the amount of $20,942, $64,632, and $77,924, respectively.

To carry out his scheme to evade taxes, Mr. Chang maintained two separate bank accounts, one with Cal Fed Bank and the other with Wells Fargo Bank, but only the receipts deposited into the Cal Fed Bank account were reported to the IRS. To further conceal his income from the IRS, Mr. Chang did not issue invoices to all of his customers. When an invoice was not issued, Mr. Chang deposited the customer payment into the Wells Fargo Bank account. Customer payments for invoiced services were deposited into the Cal Fed Bank account. Mr. Chang also had two credit card machines. The Cal Fed Bank credit card machine was used for payments when an invoice was issued and the Wells Fargo Bank credit card machine was used for payments without an invoice. Again, only the Cal Fed Bank credit card receipts were reported to the IRS. Mr. Chang only provided his return preparer with tax records pertaining to the Cal Fed Bank account.

During a civil audit of his tax returns by the IRS, the Mr. Chang disclosed the existence of his Cal Fed Bank account. Upon discovery by the IRS auditor of the Wells Fargo Bank account, Mr. Chang stated that the funds in that account belonged to his sister. He later admitted to IRS agents that he lied to the IRS auditor about the accounts.

Mr. Chang, age 61, formerly of Shanghai and now residing in Sunnyvale, California was indicted on August 23, 2007 on three counts of tax evasion.

Thomas Moore is the Assistant U.S. Attorney who is prosecuting the case with the assistance of Kathy Tat. The prosecution is the result of an investigation by the Internal Revenue Service - Criminal Investigation.
