

CARMEN BIANCO
Executive Consultant

CARMEN BIANCO, with BST since 2006, has supported new and ongoing implementations of BST's technology in various industries, including:

Mining Transportation

Manufacturing Utilities including Oil and Gas

- Prior to joining BST, Carmen assisted clients at the executive level from around the world in improving operational excellence in safety performance. He has worked in a number of diverse cultural settings.
- He has 30 years experience in corporate safety and loss control, coaching international business leaders from a wide variety of industries as well as government agencies, transportation, and manufacturing.
- Carmen led a delegation of experts including police, the FBI, and federal and local transportation officials to Spain to facilitate and leverage learnings resulting from the Madrid and World Trade Center terrorist attacks.
- Developed and led a comprehensive system safety program for the largest passenger railroad in the U.S., reducing reportable injuries by 50% in four years. He pioneered union/management safety councils in this large transportation organization.
- Carmen was responsible for development and implementation of the safety and health programs for over 45,000 employees and to ensure the well-being of 6.5 million daily commuters for New York City Transit, the world's third largest mass transit agency.
- He has worked on several research projects in transportation and has published in Professional Safety magazine.
- He has also testified before the U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Employment & Workplace Safety on the importance of culture and leadership in workplace safety.
- Carmen is an alumnus of The Wharton School Executive Development Program.

