The back of the voucher should be used to supply the detailed information to support the amounts claimed on the front of the voucher. The page is divided into ten columns that may be used for up to 10 days of official travel. (Supplemental pages, CD370A, may be added for travel in excess of 10 days.) The rows on this page are divided into numbered sections that correspond to the line numbers in Section D of the front page of the voucher.

Fill in the dates of travel (month/day) along the top of the page where indicated.

Itinerary - In this section, we do not require any carrier or flight information. Also, since per diem is paid at a standard ^ZA day for the first and last days of travel, it is not necessary to record the times for trips exceeding 24 hours for any day. If the travel is more than 12 hours, but does not exceed 24 hours, you must annotate this on your travel claim. For the first day of travel, fill in the city and state of departure in the "FROM" area. Fill in the destination city and state of the official business in the "TO" area. For the last day of travel, this information can be reversed. If there are other places of official business, fill in the appropriate information in the spaces for those days.

1. Per Diem - Each day's per diem total should be filled in under the corresponding column for that day using the current rates for that location. The meals and incidental expenses should be in the first space. The lodging amount should be in the second space. The third space should be used for total per diem amount (m&ie and lodging) for that day. Once all of the per diem has been calculated for each day, add the amounts across the "total" row and enter the result in the far right column. The top half of that space should reflect the number of days and the bottom half of the space is for the dollar amount.
2. POV - If the traveler used their privately owned vehicle while on this trip, the mileage should be written in the first space in the appropriate column for each day the POV was used. The second space should be filled in with the current POV mileage rate. The number for the third space is calculated from multiplying the number of miles by the mileage rate. Once all of the amounts have been calculated for each day, add the amounts across the "amount" row and enter the result in the far right column. The top half of that space should reflect the total number of miles traveled by POV and the bottom half of the space is for the total dollar amount to be reimbursed.

3. Other Travel - Only the "Parking, Tolls, Etc" spaces should be used in this area. "Storage of Household Goods" is reserved for relocation vouchers. Fill in the total amounts to be reimbursed for each day under the appropriate column. Add the amounts across the "Parking, Tolls, Etc." row and enter the result in the far right column.
4. Car Rental - Enter the total amount to be reimbursed for car rental expenses in the far right column. It is not necessary to break it down by day.
5. Common Carrier - This section is for transportation expenses paid for by the traveler, not for reservations made through the Travel Management Center (SATO). The first row is for plane, bus, or train expenses paid directly by the traveler. Enter any amounts to be reimbursed under the appropriate column. The second row is for local transportation. The row is divided in two smaller rows. For each day, fill in the number of local trips made during that day in the top small row and the total expenses in the bottom small row. The third large row in this section is reserved for relocation vouchers. Add the totals of all common carrier expenses from this section and fill in the total in the far right column.
6. Actual Subsistence - This section should only be used if actual subsistence has been authorized. Fill in the types of expenses by day, add them together for each day, and fill in the total for each day. The totals should be added across the Total" row to come up with a total actual subsistence figure for the far right column. Above the total amount, fill in the total number of days that actual subsistence is being claimed.
7. Miscellaneous Expenses - This section is reserved for phone calls, lodging taxes, laundry expenses, and other types of approved, reimbursable expenses. The expenses should be described in the long box with an amount listed for each one. The total of all miscellaneous expenses should be added and entered in the far right column.
8. International Clearance - This section must be completed for all international travel IF the traveler took IT equipment (e.g., laptop, BlackBerry, PDA, etc.) with him/her on travel. If the traveler did not take any IT equipment, this section should be left blank. For further instructions, please refer to Travel Policy Bulletin #08, FY08 at <http://www.osec.doc.gov/oas/travel/tbulletins/TravelBulletin008-08.pdf>

The bottom area is reserved for remarks, explanations, or post-approvals, Any information that has not already been addressed that should be conveyed should be written in this section.

The totals from the far right column should be brought forward to the first page of the voucher and entered in the appropriate lines of the claims section.
