National Environmental Performance Track 2006 Member Directory

as of March 1, 2006

This directory identifies the 405 members of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) National Environmental Performance Track program as of March, 2006. For the most current listing, please visit the member directory online at www.epa.gov/performance-track/particip.

Launched in June of 2000, the National Environmental Performance Track ("Performance Track") is a partnership program that recognizes and rewards private and public facilities that demonstrate strong environmental performance beyond current requirements. Performance Track promotes a collaborative, performance-based system of environmental protection in which top performers are treated differently, and is designed to augment the existing regulatory system by creating additional incentives for facilities to achieve environmental results beyond those required by law.

To qualify, applicants must have implemented an independently assessed Environmental Management System, have a record of sustained compliance with environmental laws and regulations, commit to achieving measurable environmental results, and provide information to the local community on their environmental activities. They must pass a careful evaluation process, which includes a thorough compliance screening by EPA, the states in which the applicant is located, and the Department of Justice; additionally, EPA regional offices and the Office of Enforcement and Compliance Assurance concur in every decision made regarding membership in the program. Members are subject to the same environmental performance requirements as other regulated facilities. In some cases, EPA and states have reduced routine reporting or given some flexibility to program members in how they meet regulatory requirements. This approach is recognized by more than 20 states that have adopted similar performance-based leadership programs.

Current members are located in 46 states and Puerto Rico. Any facility, large or small, public or private, in the United States and its territories may apply for membership in Performance Track. The program accepts applications twice per year, from April 1 to May 31, and from September 1 to October 31.

For more information on the program, visit Performance Track's website at www.epa.gov/performance-track or call toll free (888) 339-PTRK.
