Introduction

A census of governments is taken at 5-year intervals as required by law under title 13, United States Code, Section 161. This 2002 census, similar to those taken since 1957, covers three major subject fields—government organization, public employment, and government finances.

Volume 4, Government Finances, contains six parts that encompass the entire range of state and local government financial activity in fiscal year 2001-02. They are No. 1, Finances of Public School Systems; No. 2, Finances of Special Districts; No. 3, Finances of County Governments; No. 4, Finances of Municipal and Township Governments; No. 5, Compendium of Government Finances; and No. 6, Employee Retirement Systems of State and Local Governments.

This report, No. 3, provides statistics on the revenue, expenditure, debt, and financial assets of county governments. It aggregates these data for the nation, for state areas, and for all individual county governments.

ORGANIZATION OF THIS REPORT

This introductory text describes the scope of the Census Bureau's county government finance data collection activities. It also explains the intricacies of the types of data and notes the limitations of the data, as well as their relationship to data in other reports.

The tabular section comes next and contains 13 tables. Table 1 displays national totals of county government finances for 2002 and other census years. Statewide aggregates appear in Tables 2 through 11. Table 2 contains the state summaries. Revenue data appear in Tables 3 and 4, and expenditure information in Tables 5 through 8. Table 9 presents data on indebtedness, Table 10 on cash and security holdings, and Table 11 on utilities and liquor stores. In Table 12 detailed state summaries are divided into population-size groups of county governments. Table 13 displays data for each of the 3,034 individual county governments in the nation.

SCOPE

Definition of County Government

Organized county governments are found throughout the nation except for Connecticut, Rhode Island, the District of Columbia, and limited portions of other states where certain county areas lack a district county government. (See Appendix B for a listing of county-type areas without county government.) In Louisiana, the county governments are officially designated as "parish" governments, and in Alaska the "borough" governments resemble county governments in other states. Both are classified as county governments for census statistics on governments.

Not all geographic areas known as counties have county governments. Where municipal and county governments have been consolidated, or substantially merged the composite units are classed as municipalities for the Census Bureau reporting of government statistics. Moreover, the cities of Baltimore and St. Louis are outside the areas of the adjacent counties of Baltimore and St. Louis, and a similar situation exists among 39 independent cities in Virginia. Since these exceptional areas also include New York City, Philadelphia, and several other of the most populous cities (or composite city-counties) in the nation, over 7 percent of the total United States population is not served by a county government. Appendix C contains summary data on the finances of these major excepted "municipalities."

The number of county governments per state ranges widely. Texas has the highest total of 254 and several states have fewer than 20.

There are 201 county governments, located in 40 states, which serve populations of at least 250,000. These 201 county governments, constituting 6.6 percent of all county governments, account for 56 percent of the population served by all county governments in the nation. The overwhelming majority of county governments (72 percent) each serve fewer than 50,000 persons, and the 671 counties that have fewer than 10,000 inhabitants each serve altogether only 3.7 million persons.

The average population served by a county government is about 83,000. But Loving County, TX had only 67 inhabitants in 2000, while Los Angeles County, CA had more than 9.5 million.

GENERAL CONCEPTS

This report uses a number of terms that, in other contexts, might have different meanings. Further, some of the tabular presentations contain concepts that are not commonly used or easily understood. If the following—which is a limited attempt to explain some of these terms and ideas—does not provide sufficient information, please write to the Chief, Governments Division, U.S. Census Bureau. The Finance and Employment Classification Manual is available online at: www.census.gov/govs/www/class.html.

Current Dollars

The statistics in this report, as in the other issued by the Census Bureau on federal, state, and local government finances, are in terms of current dollar amounts. They have not been adjusted for price and wage changes occurring through the years.

Fiscal Years

Data in this report pertain to county government fiscal years that ended between July 1, 2001, and June 30, 2002. Table 13 indicates the fiscal period being reported for each county.

Nearly one-half of all county governments in the nation had a fiscal year corresponding directly with calendar year 2001—i.e., they ended their fiscal year on December 31, 2001. Over one-third of county governments ended their fiscal year in June. September and November were other common months in which county governments ended their fiscal years.

Composition of Financial Amounts

Revenues and expenditures comprise actual receipts and payments of a county government and its agencies (net of correcting transactions and recoveries or refunds), including government-operated enterprises, utilities, and public trust funds. Transactions excluded as revenue or expenditure are: debt issuance and retirement; loans and investments; agency and private trust transactions; and internal transfers between funds of a county government. Aggregates for county governments exclude intergovernmental transactions between those county governments.

Government Financial Sector

County government financial data are presented within broad activity sectors, including general government, utilities, liquor stores, and insurance trust activities. General government includes all government revenue and expenditure except activities defined as utility, liquor stores, and insurance trust transactions. Other commercial-type operations of county governments, such as port facilities, airports, toll highways, and housing projects are part of the general government sector. Utilities are water supply systems, electric power systems, gas supply systems, and transit facilities owned and operated by governments. Liquor stores consist of dispensaries operated by certain county governments only in Maryland and North Carolina. Insurance trust activities consist of contributory retirement systems for public employees.

Revenue Concepts

As noted above, revenue is reported net of recoveries and correcting transactions and excludes amounts from debt issuance, internal transfers, and private trust transactions. The following examples illustrate some applications of this summary definition:

1. Tax revenue is reported in terms of gross collections minus tax refunds during the same period.
2. Receipts from issuance of debt, recoupment of previous loans, and sale of securities are not counted as revenue.
3. Property tax amounts, widely collected by county government acting as an agent of other governments, are counted only as revenue of the final recipient units.
4. County governments act as agents of the federal government in withholding federal income and social security taxes from their employees' pay; such amounts are excluded from county revenue and expenditure.
5. Figures in this report include the gross transactions of business-type county government corporations and agencies, such as airports and utilities.

Taxes consist of compulsory contributions exacted by governments for public purposes. Normally this is the single largest revenue source for county governments.

Charges and miscellaneous general revenue comprise all nontax revenue of governments from their own sources (excluding amounts received from other governments). Most of this revenue is from charges for current services and sale of products in connection with general government activities. Such amounts are designated as current charges and are reported on a gross basis, without offset for the cost of producing or buying the commodities or services sold. Utility service charges are excluded here and reported under utility revenue.

Utility revenue and liquor stores revenue comprise amounts from sales of goods and services by such undertakings. These are the most common type of enterprise activities in county governments.

Insurance trust revenue encompasses only: (1) retirement contributions received from insured individuals and their employers; and (2) earnings on investment assets of retirement system trust funds.

Employer contributions and other transfers made by administering governments to their insurance trust funds are treated as intragovernmental transactions rather than governmental revenue or expenditure. However, to the extent that particular governments make payments as employers to insurance trust systems administered by other governments—for example, employer contributions by state and local governments to the Federal Social Security System (OASDHI) or municipal government payments to county-administered retirement systems—such amounts are included, without special treatment, in the “revenue from contributions” of the various systems affected.

Expenditure Concept

The expenditure reporting categories comprise all amounts of money paid by a government and its agencies, with the exception of amounts for debt retirement, and for loan, investment, agency and private trust transactions. Included in this category are expenditures of business-type government corporations and agencies. Transactions not considered as expenditures include payments to the federal government of monies withheld for income tax or Social Security purposes.

The commonly used character and object (or use) categories this finance series employs are: intergovernmental expenditure, current operation, capital outlay, assistance and subsidies, interest on debt, insurance benefits and repayments, and salaries and wages.

The major portion of county intergovernmental expenditures goes for activities, such as education, hospitals, highways, welfare, and transit subsidies. The education segment reflects mainly the distribution of county-imposed property taxes to school systems for local school purposes.

Governmental expenditure for capital outlay is financed commonly by borrowing, especially for local governments, but governmental revenue does not include receipts from borrowing. This, among other things, means that the relationship between totals of revenue and expenditure, as shown in this report, should not be considered a direct measure of budgetary “balance.”

In addition to payments for goods, services, and capital items, total governmental expenditure includes payments for which no services or products are directly received in return. A major portion of such payments comprise items reported here as assistance and subsidies. These amounts include only cash grants and not gifts of supplies, materials, or other grants in kind. The cost of items to be distributed in kind is included in current operation expenditure as purchases of goods and services.

Insurance benefit and repayment amounts are limited to actual payments to insured persons and beneficiaries. These amounts, therefore, exclude as internal transfers contributions by governments to insurance trust funds they administer and costs of administering insurance trust programs (which are classified as general expenditure).

Payments for salaries and wages of gross amounts paid to government employees before deductions for income tax, retirement contributions, charges for quarters or subsistence, or other purposes. They comprise only cash payments and exclude the value of subsistence, quarters, or other payments-in-kind. Note that the salary and wage amounts were mainly for current operations but also included payments for construction work performed on a force-account rather than contract basis.

Detailed statistics on county government employment and payrolls as of March 2002 appear in the 2002 Census of Governments, Volume 3, No. 1, Employment of Major Local Governments, and No. 2, Compendium of Public Employment. The primary difference between these two data sets is that the information in this volume is for an annual period while the data in Volume 3 are for one month.

In presenting expenditures by function, this report attempts to show a more comprehensive picture by grouping related activities into broader classifications. For example, social services and income maintenance includes public welfare, hospitals, health, social insurance administration, and veterans’ services not elsewhere classified. Transportation includes highways, airports, parking facilities, and water transport and terminals. The report does not provide totals for these large categories because they are meant only as presentational guidelines.

Note that the functions cannot be equated specifically with a single federal or state government program. Instead they represent broader activities of government that have remained virtually unchanged over many years so that as specific programs expand and contract they will remain useful for analytical purposes. Medicaid, for example, is a well-known program that is included in the larger public welfare function, specifically as a medical vendor payment along with all other social welfare activities.

These functions, in addition, have utility beyond the limits of this specific report or other volume 4 publications on government finances. All other phases of the census of governments, including the organization and employment, use these same functions making cross-analyses feasible.

Each functional expenditure includes amounts for all types of activities relating to that purpose. For example, police protection includes not only police officers but also any ancillary services, such as finance, personnel, or secretarial, that directly support that activity. However, centralized county government accounting, budgeting, purchasing, personnel, and other general staff services are included in functional categories under the heading governmental administration.

Understanding the specific functional categories requires close attention to the definitions in Appendix A. The following discussion supplements, but does not supplant, that basic information.

Education

The provision of this service at the elementary-secondary level is intermittent among county governments. In four states—Maryland, North Carolina, Tennessee, and

Virginia—the county governments are primary providers of this service. In most parts of the country, however, the county governments' elementary-secondary education role is usually limited to financial support or to providing a specific portion of the service such as vocational and special education. Some county governments also operate colleges, junior colleges, and other schools beyond the high school level that are included in the education expenditures.

The education expenditures include all outlays other than for interest (reported under interest on general debt) and retirement benefits paid to former education employees (reported under employee-retirement expenditure of the appropriate government). At the elementary-secondary education level, this encompasses gross school system expenditure for the school lunch program and other cafeteria operations, as well as school health, recreation, and library services administered by county school systems. Similarly in higher education, the expenditures include gross amounts for auxiliary activities such as dormitories, dining halls, and bookstores operated by county-run institutions of higher education.

Hospitals

Expenditures for hospital facilities operated directly by county governments and payments to private medical facilities belong here. The classification of medical vendor payments varies somewhat between public welfare and hospitals according to the situation; private purveyor payments made under welfare programs are classed as public welfare, but any services provided directly by a government through its hospital agency is included under the hospitals heading.

Highways

Highways include provision and maintenance of highway facilities, including toll turnpikes, bridges, tunnels, and ferries, as well as regular roads, highways, and streets. These figures exclude interest on debt issued for highway purposes (included in general expenditure for interest) and highway policing costs (classified under police protection).

Natural Resources

For county governments, natural resources cover activities pertaining to soil conservation, flood control, irrigation, and drainage. However, local water supply and electric utilities are reported under utilities.

Utilities and Liquor Stores

Utility expenditure and liquor stores expenditure comprise all spending involved in provision and conduct of such undertakings. Specifically that is the acquisition of facilities, current operation (including the purchase of goods and services for resale), and interest on utility debt.

Insurance Trusts

Only insurance benefits and repayments of contributions from insurance funds comprise insurance trust expenditure. Cost of administering insurance trust activities are classified as general expenditure. Among county governments the only existing activity of this type is for public employee retirement systems. See the report Employee Retirement Systems of State and Local Governments (Volume 4, No. 6, 2002 Census of Governments), for additional detailed information.

Indebtedness Concepts

County government long-term debt includes general obligation bonds, guaranteed by the taxing power of the governments, as well as nonguaranteed indebtedness that pledges only some nontax source related to the bond purpose—rents, charges, or tolls for example—as credit. Public debt for private purposes, such as pollution control and industrial revenue issues, sometimes comprise a considerable portion of the nonguaranteed debt amounts.

Cash and Security Holdings Concepts

This category is dominated generally by public employee retirement system assets. It includes only the cash or investment resources of county governments, excluding any other type of assets such as real property or fixed assets. A portion of a county government's investment portfolio, and something that can create sudden shifts in the offsets to debt, are mortgages held in conjunction with the issuance of mortgage revenue debt

Intragovernmental and Intergovernmental Transactions

Intragovernmental flows. Census statistics ignore governmental fund structure to achieve comparability. Since the data for each individual government represent a consolidation of amounts for its various funds, payments between funds have been eliminated. Thus, for example, a government's contribution as employer to a retirement fund it administers is not counted as expenditure, nor is the receipt of this contribution by the retirement fund considered as revenue. For census purposes, only the payment out of the fund for retirement benefits is classified as expenditure—insurance trust expenditure in this example.

County governments sometimes pay some interest on debt that is held as investment securities by retirement funds they administer. However, because of the difficulty in identifying such transactions, this interest is counted as revenue in contravention of the rule about payments between funds.

Intergovernmental flows. Funds flowing between governments (subject to limited exceptions, mentioned below) are treated distinctively as intergovernmental revenue and intergovernmental expenditure. Mainly these represent grants-in-aid and the sharing of tax proceeds, but also include payments in lieu of taxes and amounts for services performed by one government for another on a reimbursable or cost-sharing basis.

Total revenue and total expenditure for an individual county government, of course, include any intergovernmental amounts. When measuring groups of governments, however, monies going from one government to another must be netted out to arrive at nonduplicative totals. These aggregations treat each government as it is were a “fund” under the intragovernmental flow described above.

The value of intergovernmental aid “in kind,” such as commodities distributed by the federal government for school lunch purposes, is not treated as intergovernmental revenue or expenditure. Furthermore, the following transactions between governments have not been isolated for special treatment here as intergovernmental in nature:

1. In situations where a government-administered employee-retirement system covers the employees of a second government, contributions by the latter are included, without distinction, as part of the current operation expenditure of the donor government, and as insurance trust revenue of the donee government.
2. No special handling has been attempted for transactions where governments deal as ordinary suppliers and customers—e.g., in purchasing property, utility services, or supplies from one another. Under this method, then, when one government buys water or electricity from a second, the entire transaction is classified as utility revenue or expenditure with no intergovernmental component.

Utilities and Liquor Stores

In Census Bureau reporting on government finances, the term utilities pertains only to four types of enterprises operated by governments—water supply, electric power, gas supply, and transit systems. Other studies broaden this concept to include additional enterprise activities (e.g., sewerage) that the Census Bureau definition excludes. By referencing tables other than Table 11, this report may yield data on these broader concepts of utilities. For example, refer to Tables 3 and 7 for data on sewerage charges and expenditures, respectively, that could be added to the utility totals in Table 11.

Table 11 shows revenue and expenditure amounts for county-operated utility systems. Of the four types of utilities shown in that table, only water supply involves any significant activity by county governments, and even this utility service is provided by relatively few counties.

Publicly operated liquor stores also retain a distinctive classification in the Census Bureau’s data on government finances. Certain county governments in Maryland and

North Carolina are the only counties that operate liquor stores. In comparison municipalities in several states and 17 state governments also manage liquor store operations.

In reviewing Table 11 data, the following technical and analytical points apply:

1. Utility and liquor store revenue is defined as charges only. Taxes, intergovernmental and miscellaneous general revenue are all classified under general revenue and, therefore, excluded here.
2. Imbalances between total and expenditure are common and might result from numerous factors such as the influence of general revenue described above, sporadic capital outlays from debt sources, or expenditures that are a draw down of assets.
3. Minor amounts may represent differences in the interpretation of financial classifications.

Public Employee Retirement Systems in County Governments

Though most county government employees are eligible for retirement coverage, the administration of that benefit varies considerably from state to state. In some instances state-administered retirement systems cover local government employees, and this can take the form of general coverage for all employees or specialized coverage for a specific group of local employees, such as police officers or firefighters. Where county governments administer their own retirement systems, the greatest effect on the data in this report will likely be in cash and security holdings.

EMPLOYEE RETIREMENT CHANGE IN 2002

Prior to 2002, data on corporate bonds and stocks were requested at book value. Beginning with the 2002 survey cycle, the Census Bureau changed the reporting of asset valuation from book to market value consistent with the Governments Accounting Standard Board (GASB) Statement 34 requirements. The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) approved these changes and expected the numbers to reflect major changes. The Federal Reserve and the Bureau of Economic Analysis also supported this change.

As a result of this change, employee retirement revenue in 2002 can be negative if losses on the investments were greater than the earnings. These losses are both real and statistical. In reality the systems did lose money due to the recession and the decline of the stock market during the survey period. However, the change in asset valuation from book to market value contributed to this loss. Users of this data need to be aware that this change leads to a disconnect in the time series for this survey.

Financial Data for Population-Size Groups

Table 12 summarizes selected financial items for various population-size classes of counties nationally and in each state. The percent distribution and per capita calculations of these basic amounts, which are also provided, tend to indicate the relative financial scale of counties of various sizes. However, the scope of county government responsibility differs widely throughout the nation. Intrastate analyses generally do not encounter this difficulty and can reveal substantial differences among size groups.

Individual County Governments

The presentation in Table 13 is a display of financial statistics for each of the 3,034 individual county governments. The tabulation also contains the 2000 population and fiscal year ending date. Within each state, the county governments in the stub are arranged alphabetically.

See the discussion in “Sources and Limitations of Data” below in this text for differing analytical uses of county government and county area data. Also, refer to Appendix C for the summarized financial data of governments where there has been a merger of the municipal and county government activities.

The tabular display does not reflect the full extent of data that are available for each of these governments. Additional information and data files, which contain detailed information on the approximately 87,500 governments covered by the 2002 Census of Governments, are located at our Web site (www.census.gov/govs/www/estimate02.html).

SOURCES OF DATA

Data Collection

This Census Bureau survey assembled information for all of the 3,034 county governments that were in existence in fiscal 2001-02. The initial data collection phase used three methods to obtain data: mail canvass, field compilation, and centralized collection from state sources.

The mail canvass involved the use of detailed census schedules with related reporting instructions. Census Bureau examiners reviewed the mail reports intensively and used extensive correspondence to supplement and verify incomplete and questionable information. In significant cases, where returns of acceptable data could not be obtained by mail canvass or from available published sources, census enumerators visited county offices to obtain the basic statistics or important missing information.

A central data collection system existed for county governments in 21 states:

Alaska	Arizona	California
Georgia	Illinois	Indiana
Kansas	Kentucky	Maryland
Michigan	Montana	Nevada
New Hampshire	New York	North Carolina
North Dakota	South Carolina	Utah
Washington	Wisconsin	Wyoming

The methodology used in each instance and the extent of the available data varied widely. As with mail canvass questionnaires, the basic financial data sometimes needed supplementation for such items as debt, assets, particular functional expenditures, or revenue items. Census Bureau staff obtained these supplementary data from special tabulations in their state offices, printed reports, secondary sources, or supplemental mailings directly to the county governments.

LIMITATIONS OF DATA

Although the data in a census are not subject to sampling error, the data are subject to various nonsampling errors. For this census, these errors may include response errors, errors caused by nonresponse, and processing errors. Every effort is made to keep these errors at a minimum.

All schedules—mail canvass, those compiled by Census Bureau-trained enumerators from official sources, field enumerated, and centrally collected—were examined for evidence of completeness, internal consistency, and a reasonable relation to figures reported for earlier periods. In addition to the manual review, a computerized edit checked for impossible or improbable entries and identified in detail the differences with prior data. Analysts reviewed and corrected these problems.

These procedures applied to the 2002 Census of Governments were designed to achieve, for the data reported here, a high standard of completeness and accuracy. Undoubtedly, however, some mistakes and inconsistencies of official reporting, or of Census Bureau handling of particular items, have escaped detection. Please inform the Governments Division, U.S. Census Bureau, if the tables or data reveal potential problems.

After using the extensive follow-up efforts detailed in the data collection section, only a minor percentage of the county data file—representing nearly all small county governments—remained incomplete. Only 10.7 percent of the counties were total nonrespondents to the census. Imputations were done for these missing data.

For counties that failed to respond, missing data were imputed by using the most recently reported prior year census or annual survey data. These data were adjusted by growth rates calculated from similar counties, i.e., in the same state and about the same size. The average growth rates for the reporting counties were calculated for each group. The appropriate average growth rate was applied to the nonreporting county's prior year data to get a current year imputed value. For counties that failed to report in the prior census or subsequent annual surveys, a responding county from the same group as the nonrespondent was randomly selected and per capita values for the respondent were multiplied by the population of the nonrespondent to get imputed values for the nonrespondent.

Imputed county data are not shown separately in any table and are not included in the individual unit data file.

Population Data

The 2000 Decennial Population survey data was used in this report both as an exhibit and for calculating per capita amounts.

Statistical Nature of Data

Finance amounts presented in this publication are statistical in nature and do not represent an accounting statement. Therefore, a difference between an individual government's total revenues and expenditures does not necessarily indicate a "budget" surplus or deficit. Large capital outlay expenditures, debt issuance or retirement, charges in cash and security holdings, or the existence of a retirement system are all factors that might have an important influence on the balance between revenues and expenditures.

County Governments and County Areas

Data in this report relate only to county governments and their dependent agencies and do not include amounts for other local governments in the same geographic location. For example, county government expenditure figures for education do not include spending by separate school districts that administer public schools within many county areas. Variations in the assignment of governmental responsibility—especially important in the areas of public welfare, health, hospitals, public housing—also have an important effect upon reported amounts of county expenditure, revenue, and debt.

Interstate comparisons should also take the allocation of governmental responsibilities into account. Refer to the publication Individual State Descriptions, in Volume 1, Government Organization (2002 Census of Governments) for a state-by-state explanation of the legal structure of local government. Table 50 in the Compendium of Government Finances (Volume 4, No. 5, 2002 Census of Governments) will provide an aggregation of local government finances within the geographic boundaries of individual county areas, a data arrangement that reduces the effect of variable assignments of responsibility for local governments.

Relation to Historic Data

In general, the statistics presented here closely parallel in concepts, coverage, and classification the data in corresponding reports (Volume 4, No. 3) in other quinquennial canvasses. For a detailed comparative analysis, however, take into account changes such as legal shifts in responsibility for certain activities and economic fluctuations.

AVAILABILITY OF DATA

Copies of Volume 4, No. 3, Finances of County Governments, and other reports of the 2002 Census of Governments are available from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20302 and U.S. Department of Commerce District Offices.

Finances of Individual City-Counties Having 25,000 Population or More Classified as Municipalities: 2001-02

Appendix C contains a summary of financial data in governments of 25,000 population or more where there has been a merger of the municipal and county government activities.

A number of municipalities differ from the overwhelming majority in that they operate, either specifically by law or in effect, as composite city-county governments. This group includes New York City, Philadelphia, and several other of the most populous cities in the nation. One of these cities—Washington, DC is unique in that it has no overlying state government and thus provides certain services commonly provided by states, as well as various county-type services. The 42 governments of this type with 25,000 population or more accounted for about 30 percent of the total revenue, 32 percent of total expenditure, and 31 percent of the total indebtedness of all municipalities in the nation in fiscal 2001-02.
