The Act requires the Federal Trade Commission (the "Commission" or "FTC") to prepare and submit to the President, Congress, and the Postal Regulatory Commission ("PRC") a comprehensive report by December 20, 2007, identifying Federal and State laws that apply differently to the United States Postal Service ("USPS") with respect to the competitive category of mail and to private companies providing similar products. To help prepare this report, the Commission is requesting public comment on several issues.

DATES: Public comments must be received on or before July 2, 2007.

ADDRESSES: Comments should refer to "USPS Study, Project No. P071200" to facilitate the organization of comments. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

The Postal Accountability and Enhancement Act

On December 20, 2006, President Bush signed into law the PAEA, which is intended to increase competition and efficiency in the provision of mail service.² Under the PAEA, USPS products are divided into "market-dominant" and "competitive" categories.³ The Act lists market-applicable law and the public interest. See Commission Rule 4.9(c), 16 CFR 4.9(c).

³ The Act defines the market-dominant category as "each product in the sale of which the Postal Service exercises sufficient market power that it can effectively set the price of such product substantially above costs, raise prices significantly, decrease quality, or decrease output, without risk of losing a significant level of business to other firms offering similar products." 39 U.S.C. 3642(b)(1). The competitive products category is defined as consisting of "all other products." Id.

dominant and competitive products,⁴ but allows the newly formed PRC to change these lists "by adding new products to the lists, removing products from the lists, or transferring products between the lists."⁵

With respect to market-dominant products, the Act requires the PRC to establish "a modern system for regulating rates and classes"⁶ that satisfies a variety of objectives, including, inter alia, to maximize incentives to reduce costs and increase efficiency, to create predictability and stability of rates, and to maintain financial stability.⁷ Although the Act gives the USPS authority to set its own prices for competitive products (with a relatively brief public notification period),⁸ the PAEA requires the USPS to set these prices in accordance with regulations that the PRC will promulgate to: (1) Prohibit the subsidization of competitive products by market-dominant products; (2) ensure that each competitive product covers its attributable costs; and (3) ensure that all competitive products "collectively cover what the [PRC] determines to be an appropriate share of the institutional costs of the Postal Service."⁹ The Act creates a separate revolving fund—the Postal Service Competitive Products Fund—for revenues from the sale of competitive products;¹⁰ permits the USPS, subject to certain limitations, to borrow money and deposit the proceeds in the fund;¹¹ and subjects income from the sale of competitive products to the equivalent of federal corporate income taxes, by requiring the USPS to transfer that amount each year from the Competitive Products Fund to the Postal Service Fund.¹²

The Act further prohibits the USPS, and other Federal agencies acting in concert with it or on its behalf, from engaging in conduct—with respect to any product not covered by the statutory postal monopoly provision—that
