I. Background

In the Federal Register of March 17, 2004 (69 FR 12701), FDA announced the availability of a draft of this guidance document and invited interested persons to comment on it by June 15, 2004. FDA received no comments on the proposed guidance and classification rule. The guidance document provides a means by which external penile rigidity devices may comply with the requirement of special controls for class II devices. Following the effective date of the final classification rule, manufacturers will need to address the issues covered in this special control guidance. However, the manufacturer need only show that its device meets the recommendations of the guidance or in some other way provides equivalent assurances of safety and effectiveness.

Also in the Federal Register of March 17, 2004 (69 FR 12598), FDA proposed to classify external penile rigidity devices into class II with this guidance document as the special control. Elsewhere in this issue of the Federal Register, FDA is publishing a final rule to classify external penile rigidity devices into class II (special controls) and exempt the devices from premarket notification requirements.

It does not create or confer any rights for or on any person and does not operate to bind FDA or the public. An alternative approach may be used if such approach satisfies the requirements of the applicable statute and regulations.
